Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Nov. 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Grundy wouldn't name the States that were backward, because the voodoo's from the town of York, in his own State, had him "hexed." Advancement will tell.

Prosperity this winter is going to be enjoyed by everybody that is fortunate enough to get into the poor farm.

WILL ROGERS.

CUT IN TAX UNDER WAY

Early Approval Expected

Treasury Also Announces Reduction in Rate of Rediscount

Mellon States Explicitly Moves Not Related to Market Crash

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—Another tax reduction—a 1 per cent cut in rates to all individual and corporation income taxpayers on next year's Federal dues—was on its way today with Congressional leaders of both parties hopeful of its approval before Christmas.

While the price collapsing stock market was reacting favorably after this news from the capital, a new message bearing hope to business went forth from the Treasury late in the day, the Federal Reserve Board announcing a reduction in the rediscount rate of the New York bank from 5 to 4 1-2 per cent.

RESULT OF CONFIDENCE

Both propositions were regarded by many as the outgrowth of the White House conference yesterday attended by the Treasury and Reserve Board officials, but Secretary Mellon stated explicitly today that the tax reduction had been considered previously, that its pronouncement was merely a coincidence with the stock market situation, and that it was proposed because of a confidence in the continued prosperity of the country.

The tax reduction is intended to apply only to incomes of this year on which taxes are to be paid during 1930, beginning March 15. For that reason it is planned to have

AUTO SHOPS ACQUIRED

General Motors in France

Americans Buy Control in Both Citroen and Peugeot Works

(Copyright, 1929, Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—The acquisition of Citroen, the largest manufacturer of automobiles in the world outside of America, and Peugeot, another sizable French concern, by the General Motors Corporation is an accomplished fact, it was authentically reported today.

The deals through which General Motors Corporation acquired the controlling interests of both plants were consummated in September. The deal for the Citroen plant was closed through the Bank Lazard Freres and the deal for the Peugeot plant was closed through the Banque Des Pays Bas of Paris.

American engineers already are reported at work reorganizing the Peugeot plant and installing a belt conveyor and other American industrial wrinkles, which the French critics find so sinister.

The Citroen plant, which last year turned out 85,000 cars, was remodeled some time ago along the lines of the Ford factory and is said to be the most modern in the world outside of Detroit.

The General Motors people in Paris refuse to confirm or deny the report, but admit that the head offices of the company in Europe have been transferred from London to Paris. Graham Howard, European manager, is due here tomorrow and the inquiries will be referred to him.

The American concern has acquired automobile plants at Vauxhall, Eng.; Opel, Germany, and presumably the Fiat concern in Italy and with the acquisition of the Citroen and Peugeot plants it moves into a predominant position in the world automotive industry.

GENERAL MOTORS PAYS EXTRA 30-CENT DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (Exclusive) The directors of the General Motors Corporation today announced the declaration of an extra dividend of 30 cents in cash, the second such extra this year. The 30-cent payment will involve the distribution of $13,050,000 to holders of the 43,500,000 shares of stock of the corporation outstanding.

The extra was in addition to the regular 75 cents payment on the common and preferred dividends.

The regular and extra dividend declared today brings the total disbursements on the new common stock to $3.85 for the current year.

Two Die as Bus and Auto Crash

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—Michael Messina of San Jose and Mrs. J. P. Deepenbrock of this city are dead and nine other persons are injured, one perhaps fatally, following a collision between Messina's car and a Peninsula Rapid Transit auto stage bound for San Francisco, near Lawndale.

Mrs. Deepenbrock was a passenger on the stage. Fred Alpen of Burlingame, driver of the stage, was crushed against his steering wheel and is near death at Mills Memorial Hospital, San Mateo.

North Will Fight Phone Increase

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14. (AP)—City attorneys of the San Francisco Bay cities at a meeting today at the City Hall here decided to file rehearing petitions and a petition for the modification of the State Railroad Commission's decision raising the telephone rates in the Bay district.

Each of the cities will file individual petitions setting forth conditions that they maintain warrant a reduction of rates.

Score Seized in Liquor Plot

WALLACE (Idaho) Nov. 14. (AP) Twenty-four links of an asserted North Idaho liquor conspiracy were gathered in by Federal officers today and twenty more indicted by the grand jury were to be arrested.

Warrants served by United States Marshal Breshears cited every member of the City Council of Mullan except one, the Sheriff of Shoshone county, his deputy, several prominent citizens, three women and the proprietors of a number of bars.

PARLIAMENT MEMBERS DRAW DIRIGIBLE SEATS

LONDON, Nov. 14. (AP)—Eighty members of the House of Commons today drew places aboard England's giant new dirigible R-101 for a four-hour flight on Saturday, in a general ballot in the House. There was a good deal of joking about the political confusion that would be caused if the airship should crash. The parties, Conservative, Liberal and Labor, are not equally represented.

GOOD APPROACHES CRISIS

Secretary in Serious Condition, But Surgeons Hope for Rally from Operation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—It was announced at 11:30 p.m., that after a sudden turn for the worse during the evening Secretary Good had lapsed into sleep and was resting comfortably.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—With his wife maintaining a ceaseless vigil near his bedside, Secretary James W. Good continued in a very serious condition tonight at Walter Reed Hospital in his struggle for recovery from yesterday's sudden operation for acute appendicitis.

A view that the present critical stage of his condition will not be passed until probably after tomorrow night is held by his physicians, who are among the most expert members of the Army Medical Corps. The doctors reported, however, that the Secretary is doing as well as can be expected.

The War Department head apparently is maintaining the army's tradition of duty in the face of suffering. When his executive assistant, John W. Martyn, called at the hospital during the day, the Secretary transmitted some instructions on departmental work to him through Mrs. Good. Martyn said he was not permitted to see the Secretary, but Mrs. Good came from her husband's bedside to relate the things which are to be carried out.

The mind of the Secretary, according to the physicians, has been lucid during the periods when he has been awake since the operation. While his temperature continued above normal during the day, the physicians were not greatly alarmed as this is considered a usual reaction. The doctors also reported his blood pressure and pulse as being satisfactory.

RAID MADE ON TOWN IN PALESTINE

One Wounded as Firing Follows Clash Between British and Arabs

JERUSALEM, Nov. 14. (AP)—The town of Safed, northeast of Haifa and the scene of much bloodshed during the recent disorders in Palestine, was fired on heavily last night. One soldier was wounded.

Armored cars were sent in the direction of the firing but the raiders were not discovered. Reinforcements were hastened from Ross and Pinah.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency today said firing followed a clash between British soldiers who were escorting armored tanks and a band of Arabs.

WALES SAID TO HAVE EYE ON CATHOLIC

Prince Rumored Attracted by Beautiful Descendant of Royal Stuarts

LONDON, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—One of the reforms which the Irish delegation at the preliminary conference to the next imperial conference is pressing for is the abolition of the King's oath repudiating the Roman Catholic Church and the amendment of the Act of Settlement which forbids the King to be a Roman Catholic or marry a Roman Catholic.

In this connection an interesting piece of gossip, which obviously is incapable of verification, is going around London. It is that the Prince of Wales is strongly attracted to Lady Mary Crichton-Stuart, daughter of Marquis Bute. Lady Mary was born in 1906 and is a beautiful girl. The match in every way is desirable as the Bute family traces its descent to the royal Stuarts, but the family is Catholic, and under the Act of Settlement such a marriage is impossible unless the Prince renounces his right to succeed to the throne.

The rumor is that the Prince of Wales and the royal family are backing the Irish demand for removal of anti-Catholic restrictions.

Americans Oust French Actors

PARIS, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—The invasion of American theater talkies and foreign actors has helped put 12,000 French artists out of work, according to Gaston Gerard, Deputy from the Department of Cote D'Or, interpellating the government regarding the unemployment crisis in French theaters during a discussion of the budget in the Chamber of Deputies today.

MADDUX AIR LINE JOINED WITH T.A.T.

Combined Service Will Operate Planes Between Bay City and Mexico

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 14. (AP)—Acquisition of the Maddux Air Line on the Pacific Coast by the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., effective Saturday, was announced today at the general offices of the T.A.T.

The announcement said the new line will be operated as the T.A.T.-Maddux Line, and will be jointly operated along the West Coast and between San Francisco and Agua Caliente, Mex., adding approximately 1000 miles of air line to the T.A.T. system.

Negotiations for acquisition of a controlling interest in the Maddux line by the T.A.T. were begun several months ago. J. L. Maddux is president of Maddux air lines.

Under the joint operation, direct service will be provided from New York to San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and Agua Caliente, and an uninterrupted schedule is to be maintained.

Parley to Fix Wine Storage

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—Proposals of Treasury Department heads at Washington to concentrate wines now stored in numerous wineries in California will be discussed tomorrow at a conference between Prohibition Administrator Walker, Field Supervisor Reynolds of Los Angeles and Donald Conn of the California Vineyardists' Association. It is expected the plan will meet some opposition from the wine owners who store their wine on their own property and are adverse to paying storage charges in public warehouses.

The government's aim in concentrating the wine is to prevent "leakage" by having the storage plants under close supervision.

Brookhart Raps Rule in Capital

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—Again taking up the cudgels for law enforcement in the District of Columbia, Senator Brookhart of Iowa told the Senate today that "earnest persons" throughout the nation "are appalled and bewildered at the failure of the Congress to govern properly this small territory that is in its trust and charge."

"The failure of the officers of this government to enforce its laws throughout the nation has become, as President Hoover suggests, a matter of great concern," he said, "but the utter failure of Congress to govern properly the District of Columbia is a matter for even greater concern."

CIVIC SECRETARIES HONOR ANGELENOS

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Miss H. Marie of Pennsylvania was elected president of the National Association of Civic Secretaries at a meeting here today. C. A. Dykstra of Los Angeles was elected vice-president; Nat Spencer of Kansas City, secretary, and Miss Louise Morel of Los Angeles, treasurer.

DEAD CARUSO STILL DANDY

Tito Schipa Says Great Tenor's Tomb Garb Changed Every Three Years to Newest Mode

PARIS, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—Although dead all these years, Enrico Caruso, who was always a great dandy in his lifetime, is clothed in the latest fashions of Bond street, Tito Schipa, Italian tenor, who is singing at concerts in Paris, revealed.

At the present moment the greatest tenor of all time is garbed in a morning coat and accessories, which are the pride of one of the best houses in London, said Mr. Schipa.

"Every three years we go to his tomb in the Pozzio Reale Cemetery in Naples and dress the body anew," said Mr. Schipa. "The body is embalmed so well it still appears alive. Even the complexion is fresh, which makes the illusion complete. At each of our visits the body is exhumed and garbed in the latest style, which at the moment is a morning coat. It has not yet been decided what the next costume will be."

NIGHT SHIFT ON TARIFF

Senate Votes to Stay on Job

Newly Elected Group Given Credit of Killing Motion for Adjournment

Agriculture Schedules Get Right of Way But Bill Called Hopeless

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—Despite declarations on all sides that tariff action can not be completed before expiration of the special session the 30th inst., the Senate today smothered all attempts to put the bill aside until the regular session and entered upon its first night meeting with the heart of the measure—agriculture—at issue.

Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, whose colleagues lost an effort to adjourn the Senate on the 23rd inst. and an attempt to stop work on the bill immediately, moved the night sessions after hours of wrangling, and there was a chorus of "ayes." He also succeeded in having the Senate, after completing action today on committee amendments to the woods schedule, take up the agriculture rate section with its scores of proposed increases ahead of the sugar and tobacco schedules, which follow wood in the bill.

NIGHT SESSION CALLED

A roll call showed 61 for and 25 against taking up agriculture out of order.

The night session called for a meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. and lasting not later than 10:30 p.m.

The verdict against adjournment on the 23rd inst. had been 51 to 34, to the surprise of the veterans, Simmons of North Carolina, Democratic tariff spokesman, and Jones of Washington, acting Republican floor leader.

In offering the week's rest proposal, Simmons counted on support from the majority ranks pledged by Jones—but instead a sufficient number of newly elected Republicans combined with opponents of adjournment to defeat the resolution. Thereupon Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, shouted, "There's been no double-crossing on this side," and a motion by him for night sessions carried overwhelmingly.

REST PRESCRIBED

With that, Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, served notice that tomorrow he will propose to adjourn next Saturday. He had advocated a Senate rest as a physician, but tonight there seemed little chance of success for his resolution.

Senators Vandenberg of Michigan and Sackett of Kentucky are credited generally with lining up the twelve or fifteen Republicans belonging to the newly elected group in the surprise revolt against the leadership. Denying that they intended to do more than keep the Senate in session until the tariff bill is passed, if possible, Senator Vandenberg said no revolt is intended against the nominal heads of the party in the Senate.

FACTIONS OPPOSED

The group of fourteen western Republican independents who have bolted the Hoover farm-relief and tariff programs likewise voted against the adjournment. However, the two factions of Republicans are diametrically opposed on the Hoover policy, with the newly elected members aligned solidly with the administration.

The veteran Senator Smoot, of Utah, the administration man in charge of the tariff bill, recalled that he has spent almost every minute of every day on the tariff bill since last May, and said he was willing to die in his tracks, if necessary, working for adoption of a tariff measure. He insisted it cannot be accomplished before the regular session in December, however, and indorsed a week's holiday.

DEATH HITS WARSHIP

Two Killed and Seven Periled

Lieutenant and Mate Die of Poison Gas in "Blisters" on New York

Angeleno in Party Rescued from Fumes Generated Between Hulls

NORFOLK (Va.) Nov. 14. (AP)—Lieut. R. H. Hollenbeck and Boatswain's Mate Thomas George Weber lost their lives and seven other men, all members of the crew of the battleship New York, are in a hospital as the result of being overcome by a poisonous gas aboard their ship at the Norfolk navy yard early tonight. Weber lost his life when he went to the rescue of Hollenbeck, one of a party of four who were overcome after entering a blister on the side of the ship.

Hollenbeck's home was in Chicago. His wife was to have joined him here tomorrow, friends said. Weber's next of kin was given as Anna T. Weber of New York City.

THOSE RESCUED

The seven men in the naval hospital at Portsmouth, where they were taken after being rescued from the blister and partly revived, all of whom are expected to recover, are:

Ewing Ledbetter, coxswain, Livingston, Tenn.; Morris Albert, seaman, Louisville, Ky.; Arthur Raymond Nagengast, seaman, Detroit, Mich.; Harry Burnett, shipfitter, 2704 South Main street, Los Angeles; William Lambert Stanford, shipfitter, Philadelphia; Wilkins R. Herrin, seaman, Huntsville, Ala.; A. C. Aherns, shipfitter, address not available.

Asphyxiation was given officially as the cause of death in the cases of both Hollenbeck and Weber, although both had sustained injuries in falls after being overcome.

When the New York, which is now flagship of Rear-Admiral H. H. Christie, commanding Battleship Division Three of the Scouting Fleet, was modernized several months ago, blisters, actually double hulls, as a protection against torpedo attacks, were installed. They were painted and then closed.

GAS GENERATED

Hollenbeck led a party of four into the blisters for the purpose of opening them to let in fresh air. During the time the blisters had been closed, it is believed a deadly gas had been generated by paint, iron and other compounds and all were overcome. Weber, who was the first to enter the chamber in an effort to bring out his superior officer and the latter's companions, was overcome before he could get to the bottom of the iron steps leading down into the blister and fell fifteen feet.

Other would-be rescuers also were overcome, partly or wholly, and it was not until fresh air had been forced into the compartment through a hose that actual rescue could be accomplished.

Senate Cotton Exchange Quiz Convenes Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—Investigation of speculative activities on the New York, Chicago and New Orleans cotton exchanges will be commenced tomorrow by a Senate committee, as ordered by the Senate today through adoption of a resolution sponsored by Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama.

The action was taken without a record vote soon after it was recommended by the Audit Committee. Chairman McNary of the Agriculture Committee appointed the following committee members to make the inquiry: Townsend, Delaware; Walcott, Connecticut; Hatfield, West Virginia, and Thomas, Idaho, Republicans; Smith, South Carolina; Ransdall, Louisiana, and Heflin, Alabama, Democrats.

EIELSON IN RESCUE DRAMA

Arctic Explorer Saves Five Men and Girl Stranded Aboard Motorship in North Siberia

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Three laconic messages from Nome, Alaska, today served as the basis for the reconstruction of a rescue drama in the wilds of Eastern Siberia whose cast included Carl Ben Eielson, Arctic explorer, in the role of hero, and five men and a girl stranded in the icebound motorship Nanuk.

"Returned today from flight to Cape North, Siberia. After fur and six passengers for Swensen Fur Company, New York," Eielson telegraphed to the Aviation Corporation, parent organization of an aeronautic group of which he is the Alaskan representative. "Have five more trips to make. Leaving tomorrow on second."

DARING FLIGHT

In a subsequent message, he reported that with him from the ship he brought the first of the ice-bound voyagers and part of the vessel's million-dollar cargo of furs.

Still later he advised his superiors that bad weather necessitated postponement of the second flight.

Officials of the Aviation Corporation today said the messages meant that Eielson, probably flying alone in a ski-fitted open biplane, had hopped across more than 450 miles of frigid wastes from Nome to where the fifty-foot Nanuk is held fast

NEW TAX CUT WELL ON WAY

Permanent Reduction Plan Discussed at Treasury

Flexible Rate Proposal Gets Slow Reaction

Move Causes General and Unconcealed Surprise

PLAN APPROVED

In this connection there was some speculation at the Treasury today of the adoption of a permanent program along this line allowing for a year-to-year adjustment of income taxes as a flexible proposition, adjusting the rates to Federal income. Capitol Hill, however, reacted slowly to the proposition—similar to one that is now in dispute as applied to the tariff rates.

In the House where the tax reduction resolution must originate, both Chairman Hawley of the Ways and Means Committee and Representative Garner of Texas, the ranking Democrat, approved the plan as outlined to Congressional leaders last night by Mr. Mellon and Undersecretary Mills of the Treasury. They indicated the resolution would be put before the House early in the regular session beginning December 2.

Over in the Senate, Chairman Smoot of the Senate Finance Committee and Senators Simmons of North Carolina and Harrison of Mississippi, the ranking Democrats, put their stamp of approval on the project.

There were intimations from the Democrats that if the returns on this year's income justified it, they would ask for an even higher reduction than proposed by Mr. Mellon, but Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the House Republican leader, countered this by saying the 1 per cent rate would be the limit and any attempt to increase it would be fought.

"There was no concealing the surprise occasioned by the program for slashing $160,000,000 off the taxpayers' burden for next year, in view of the many prophecies that the recent collapse of stock prices has wiped out many profits and would probably result in many taxpayers reporting losses on capital stock investments.

However, Mr. Mellon said this condition had been taken into account in the formulation of the tax revision scheme. He said the possibility that many had suffered losses in stock prices had been realized, but he reiterated that the Treasury had confidence the prosperity of the country would continue.

WEST NOT ENTHUSIASTIC

The western Republican independents in the Senate always have contended for applying the surpluses to reduction of the national debt. Consequently there was little enthusiasm for any additional tax cut among this group, although it was indicated no serious obstacle would be thrown in the way of the proposed resolution by this faction.

Democrats recalled that two years ago they proposed a greater reduction in the corporation tax than was then allowed. Senators Simmons and Harrison expressed gratification that Mr. Mellon had come to their position. They likewise approved his proposition to aid the individual income-tax payers to those getting a cut.

HOW PROPOSED INCOME TAX SLASH WOULD WORK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Treasury today made public figures to show how the proposed 1 per cent reduction in normal income tax would affect the average taxpayer.

The figures were based upon the income of a married man with no dependents and treating half of the income of more than $5000 as earned income.

The schedule prepared by the Treasury shows the income tax now paid, the income tax which would be paid under the new rate and the amount of decrease, it follows:

Income	Present Tax	New Tax	Decrease
$4000	$5.62	$1.87	$3.75
$5000	$16.87	$5.62	$11.25
$6000	$30.00	$10.00	$20.00
$7000	$43.12	$14.37	$28.75
$8000	$56.25	$18.75	$37.50
$9000	$69.37	$23.12	$46.25
$10,000	$82.50	$27.50	$55.00
$15,000	$143.12	$49.37	$98.75

Albert Herskovitz, head of a wholesale fur house affiliated with the Svensen Company, said the Nanuk is manned by a crew of four Russians, and aboard as passengers went a Mr. Pollister, Seattle fur man, and his daughter.

The Nanuk was making its way back to its home port in September when an early Aretic winter overtook it off Cape North.

FELLOW-INMATE STABS SAN QUENTIN PRISONER

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Nov. 14. (AP)—Antonio Garcia, 22 years of age, a prisoner at San Quentin prison, was stabbed and dangerously injured by a fellow-convict today as he was marching to the mess hall. The weapon entered below his heart and pierced his lung. His face also was slashed. Garcia told Warden Holohan he does not know the identity of his assailant. Dr. F. E. Garfinkle, assistant prison physician, said the wounds might prove fatal.

DRY OFFICER FOUND GUILTY OF SHOOTING

MANSFIELD (O.) Nov. 14. (AP)—Edward McGaw of Toledo, State prohibition officer, today was found guilty by a jury in Richland County Common Pleas court of shooting with intent to wound Frank Pilegi, Mansfield restaurant operator, during an asserted liquor raid last spring. The offense is punishable by a term of from one to twenty years in the penitentiary.

TARIFF PLACED ON NIGHT SHIFT

schedule, the Senate approved one to retain maple and birch lumber on the free list, as against a duty of 15 per cent ad valorem in the House bill.

Logs of Spanish cedar, lancewood, ebony, box, granadella, mahogany, rosewood, satinwood, Japanese white oak and Japanese maple were placed on the free list, whereas the House provided for retention of the existing 10 per cent tariff.

Flooring made of these woods, now free, would be made dutiable at 15 per cent.

At its night session the Senate approved a Finance Committee amendment to increase the duty on fresh and sour cream from 30 to 56.6 cents a gallon. The House bill carried a duty of 48 cents. It also approved an increase in the duty of fresh or sour milk from 3 3-4 cents a gallon to 6½ cents. The House proposed 5 cents.

INCREASE APPROVED

Acting rapidly, the Senate proceeded without record votes or discussion to approve proposed increases on all dairy and poultry products.

The duty on skimmed and buttermilk was raised from 1 to 2 1-20 cents a gallon; unsweetened condensed milk from 1 to 1 3-10 cents a pound; sweetened condensed milk from 1½ to 3 3-4 cents a pound; all other condensed milk from 1 3-8 to 2.53 cents a pound; dried cream from 7 to 12 1-2 cents a pound, dried skimmed and dried buttermilk from 1½ to 3 cents a pound, and malted milk from 20 to 35 per cent.

DUTY ON CLAMS

Committee proposals to increase the tariff on live poultry from 3 to 8 cents a pound, and that on dressed poultry from 6 to 10 cents a pound, also were approved.

On a division vote, the Senate then adopted an amendment to place a duty of 30 per cent on clams, now on the free list. The House provided a duty of 35 per cent.

Reaching the important grain products, the Senate approved an increase in the duty on oats from 15 to 16 cents a bushel.

INDEPENDENCE URGED UNLESS DUTIES IMPOSED

SEATTLE (Wash.) Nov. 14. (AP)—The Philippine Islands should be granted independence unless duties can be placed upon imports from the islands, Fred Brenckman, Washington representative of the National Grange, declared here today in his report to the sixty-third convention of the farmers' organization.

"It is clear that free trade with the islands is injurious to the farmers of the United States," Brenckman said. "To permit cocoanut oil to come in free from the Philippines in effect puts all of our domestically produced oils on the free list. It is impossible to give proper protection to domestic sugar canes and beets if we allow the islands to ship unlimited quantities of sugar to us free of duty."

RAIL STATISTICS FLOOD HEARING

Figures Poured Out to Show Need for New Line

Eighteen Exhibits Offered to I.C.C. Examiner

All Intended to Prove Espee "Strangles" Trade

BY FLOYD J. HEALEY
"Times" Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—With Great Northern and Western Pacific Railroad generals fairly well disposed of, colonels, majors and captains trod heavily across the Interstate Commerce Commission stage here today with engulfing regiments of figures designed to show just what California, the Pacific Northwest, the intermountain territory and the northern tier of States is losing because the Southern Pacific is the only rail service in large areas of Northern California.

Traffic, freight, engineering, resource, passenger and rate experts moved in and out of the witness chair in a steady stream all day, Chief Examiner Mahaffie struggling bravely to keep his head above the tidal wave of statistics by consistently warning witnesses and counsel they must not repeat statistics already on file in answers to the Interstate Commerce Commission questionnaire.

EIGHTEEN EXHIBITS

In approximately half an hour this afternoon, eighteen exhibits went into the record, ranging from five to thirty-five pages each, all tending to show the "strangling" of mutual interchange of trade which the Southern Pacific has been able to effect by dominating the trade routes in the northern half of California.

When the last of these eighteen was received Chief Examiner Mahaffie inquired of Southern Pacific counsel: "Do you wish to cross-examine on this exhibit?"

E. J. Foulds of Southern Pacific counsel helplessly replied: "Mr. Examiner, I am overwhelmed."

COMPETITION SOUGHT

Step by step Great Northern and Western Pacific witnesses built up the evidence by which they expect to get permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to construct 200 miles of connecting rail line from Keddie to Klamath Falls, Or., thereby affording transcontinental competition to the Southern Pacific.

Outstanding among the points they brought forth are:

Construction of the link will mean expansion of the California steel manufacturing industry into the Northwest and the Dakotas.

Although the new route between San Francisco and Seattle will be 106 miles longer than the Southern Pacific, the latter's running time can be equalled, chiefly through lower grades.

LOWER CHARGE

That the "Shasta arbitrary," an $18 to $24 higher charge for passenger rates via the northern route than is charged over the central and southern transcontinental routes, can be removed.

That the Great Northern can run its crack trains into California if the link is allowed.

That 10,000,000,000 board feet of timber will be made available to the market which is not now moving.

That the new line will allow a "flattening" or equalization of rates on virtually all commodities to be moved and, by inference, forcing the Southern Pacific to give better rates.

That the territory to be opened up will provide a large outlet for surplus California products.

That the Northwest and territory east of it in the northern tier of States is begging for California grapes, citrus and deciduous fruits other than apples, vegetables and manufactured articles, which it cannot get because of the domination of the Southern Pacific over transcontinental hauls.

"HOGGING" CHARGED

W. P. Kenney, vice-president in charge of traffic for the Great Northern, resuming the stand for cross-examination charged the Southern Pacific with refusing to interchange rates with the Great Northern since 1905 until the present, and that the Southern Pacific actively has collaborated with the Union Pacific in the Northwest to "hog" the business there to the detriment of the Great Northern. He cited instances in support of his claims in this respect.

H. M. Adams, president of the Western Pacific, recalled for cross-examination, declared the intention of the two railroads to run at least one passenger train daily each way over the proposed new line.

John F. Stevens consulting engineer, who was revealed as the man, who made the first transcontinental surveys for the Great Northern when the Indians were so vicious in the Rockies he had to wait until winter drove them to cover and then laid out the line, declared the proposed new route "ideal, made for a railroad."

He declared also his estimate of the total cost of the project is $64,000 less than the approximately $10,000,000 figure given by the presidents of the two railroads.

PRINCESS VICTORIA'S MATE HELD

Exiled Subkoff Seized as He Attempts to Attend Funeral of Elderly Wife

BONN (Germany) Nov. 14. (AP)—The grim tragic-comic note that enveloped the last days of Princess Victoria Schaumburg-Lippe, sister of the former Kaiser, again was sounded today with the arrest of Alexander Subkoff, her youthful husband whose escapades had caused his exile from Germany.

The young Russian dancer and adventurer who married the Princess, thirty-four years his senior, two years ago, was picked up by the police here en route from Treves to Frankfort in an attempt to attend his wife's funeral. Only ten days ago a divorce suit the Princess had brought against him was filed.

Subkoff was arrested for violating an order forbidding him entrance into Prussia. He also is held on swindle charges brought by many creditors here from whom he is asserted to have obtained goods under false pretenses by means of the unauthorized use of his wife's name.

Advices from Frankfort-on-Main said that the former Kaiser will be represented at his sister's funeral Saturday in the Cronberg Castle chapel by Prince Adelbert of Prussia. A wreath of white roses from him will be given the place of honor among the floral tributes.

STOCK PRICES GO ON UPTURN

close of yesterday's market, coupled with reports that large supporting orders had been placed around yesterday's low level for United States Steel, Anaconda and other leading issues, was widely accepted as evidence that powerful financial interests were determined to "peg" those issues, if necessary, until the crisis had passed.

The New York banking group met briefly today for the first time in ten days, but issued no statement beyond the comment of one of its spokesmen that "it noted improvement in the situation."

Industrial executives continued to express their confidence in the general business situation by special dividend payments. General Motors directors declared the usual extra of 30 cents on the common stock, in addition to the regular payment, and Underwood-Elliott-Fisher directors raised the annual rate from $4 to $5 a share.

William S. Zahforth of Boston, who is credited with large winnings on the short side of the market in the last month, announced today that he has turned bullish.

The publisher would make no statement here as to the purport of his visit to Sacramento.

DEATH STRIKES OUT 'IRON MAN'

Joseph J. McGinnity Dies in Daughter's Home

Famous Giant Pitcher Was Crony of McGraw

Thirty-two Years Spent on Baseball Diamond

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Baseball's famous "iron man," Joseph J. McGinnity, noted for his stellar pitching while a member of the New York Giants of twenty-five years ago, died today at the home of his daughter in Brooklyn.

He had been critically ill since last August when he underwent an operation for the removal of a tumor. The funeral will be conducted Saturday with burial in a Brooklyn cemetery.

The seventh of McGraw's 1903 immortals to take his final strike-out, McGinnity was a particular crony of the Giant manager. "It is always hard to witness the passing of one of the old guard," said McGraw. "Joe was a real credit to the game."

HELPS WIN PENNANTS

McGraw first knew McGinnity in Baltimore, where Joe began in 1899 a major league career which was to last ten seasons, more than six of which were spent with the Giants. Moving to Brooklyn in 1900 in the merger with the Baltimore team, McGinnity earned the title of "iron man" by pitching in six winning games against Pittsburgh in seven days, enabling Brooklyn to win the pennant.

McGinnity jumped to the newly organized Baltimore Americans in 1901 under the management of McGraw, and with McGraw jumped back to the National League in mid-season of 1902, when the Little Napoleon took over the Giant management. The iron man and Christy Matthewson pitched the trailers of 1902 into second place in 1903, and with some additional help won McGraw's first pennant in 1904. McGinnity pitched and won three double-headers late in the 1904 campaign.

IN MINOR LEAGUES

The iron man's major-league days ended after the season of 1908. He next pitched for and managed Newark then Tacoma of the old Northwestern League, and remained active in one minor league or another until just four years ago. As player-manager of Dubuque, Iowa, in the Mississippi Valley League, McGinnity pitched in twenty games in 1925 at 54 years of age.

The iron man was born at Rock Island, Ill., on March 19, 1871. He spent his boyhood in Springfield and Decatur and began playing baseball with the town team of Decatur in 1888, at the age of 17. His first professional engagement was at Montgomery, Ala., in 1893, when he began a career which was to last thirty-two years. McGinnity made his home in McAlester, Okla., during most of his active career.

In McAlester he married Margaret Redpath. To them one daughter was born, Mrs. Marguerite Lappen of Brooklyn, with whom the former pitcher had made his home for the last two years.

LOBBYISTS HIT IN RADIO TALK

Senator Caraway Featured on Columbia System

Propagandists Divided Into Four Classifications

Eyanson, Grundy and Arnold Mentioned in Speech

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—The great majority of lobbyists on national legislation were assailed over the radio tonight by Chairman Caraway of the Senate lobby committee, as parasites who "gather in the widow's mite and the children's pennies, and appropriate them to their own use."

Participating in the Evening Star Forum over the Columbia System, the Arkansan said "all lobbying of necessity tends to destroy the confidence of the masses in the integrity of their government," and predicted that if the lobbyists "could but be known, none would be found so lowly as to do them honor."

COMMITTEE HEARS TWO

Caraway's address was made after another busy committee day, during which most of its time was occupied with questioning Royal D. Mead, treasurer of the Domestic Sugar Association and vice-president of the Hawaiian Planters' Association. It also heard briefly again from J. A. Arnold, head of the Southern Tariff Association.

Caraway in his address divided lobbyists into four classes. In the first he placed "those who seek by direct contact to control either the legislative or executive branch of government, or both, for their own profit."

"This group, of course," he said, "will include those like the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, which had its paid employee, Mr. Eyanson, while still in its pay, placed on the government pay roll as a clerk to a Senate committee and thus obtaining for it a direct representative in the secret meetings of the Senate Finance Committee drafting the present tariff bill."

SUGAR MEN CITED

Caraway said the second group "represents organized effort—seeking by both direct contact and propaganda the same end—advantage for their group."

He added that in this group are found men like H. A. Austin of the United States Beet Sugar Association, "who admitted rather boastfully that he had expended $500,000 to create sentiment for a higher duty on sugar," and H. G. Lakin of the Cuba Company, "who disclosed that he had poured out nearly $100,000 during the pendency of the present tariff bill to prevent the rise of sugar duties and the cancellation of the differential in favor of the Cuban producers."

Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, was placed in the third classification, which Caraway said "brings together those who seek to control government by financing political campaigns."

Caraway classified in the fourth group those who are "the willing tool of any who will pay."

"They serve any master for hire and betray any interest if treachery will yield a profit," he asserted. "They have neither conviction nor honor. They represent only organized greed.

"Of course, with them and like 'Abou Ben Adhem, whose name leads all the rest,' is J. A. Arnold, head of the Southern Tariff League, the American Taxpayers' League and other so-called organizations who function for profit only. Arnold set forth their creed when before the Senate committee in his oft-repeated boast that he 'sought money from all sources and refused it from none.'"

CARAWAY ACCUSES SUGAR MAN OF BRIBERY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, chairman of the Senate's Lobby Investigating Committee, "scratched another Tartar" today when in cross-examination he accused Royal D. Mead, vice-president of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association, of bribery in the use of paid propagandists to mould public opinion in favor of higher sugar tariffs.

Mead unabashed by Caraway's sneers and sarcasm, lashed back at the Senator, angrily resenting a comparison of attempts to influence legislation by creating a public demand for it with the bribery of former Secretary of the Interior Fall by oil barons bent on raiding the Navy's oil reserves.

He scoffed openly at the Senator's apparent astonishment that the domestic cane sugar producers should agree with the corn sugar manufacturers not to oppose legislation desired by the latter if the corn sugar producers in turn would indorse higher sugar duties and reminded Caraway that virtually every important law on the statute books is the result of vote "trades" between members of Congress.

When the limit of his patience was reached, Mead compelled Caraway to listen to a defense of the right of citizens and industries alike to appeal to public sentiment in behalf of proposed legislation and the right of domestic sugar producers to use every legitimate means to counteract floods of propaganda loosed upon the country and Congress by Cuban sugar interests seeking reduced tariff rates.

BROTHER AIDS ACCUSED JUDGE

Texas Jury Begins Murder Inquiry

AUSTIN (Tex.) Nov. 14. (AP)—The Travis county grand jury today began its investigation of the fatal stabbing Saturday night of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, 28 years of age, in which John W. Brady, 59, former judge of the Third Court of Civil Appeals here, was charged with murder.

The jury recessed until tomorrow without taking any action after hearing several of some fifteen witnesses called.

Brady's brother, Will Brady of Ventura, Cal., an attorney, clasped hands with the accused man in his cell today and joined with other lawyers in mapping out plans for his defense. He has been held in jail without bail since his arrest the night of the stabbing.

Allowing a knife to be taken from him by another roomer at Miss Highsmith's residence, and submitting without protest to arrest Brady was taken to jail in an apparently dazed condition. The next day, when he asked to be allowed to pay his fine and leave jail, he appeared deeply shocked to learn he had been charged with murder.

Brady's friends said he had known Miss Highsmith for several years and was helpful in obtaining her a position as stenographer in the Supreme Court Commission of Appeals.

Seven Armed and Masked Intruders Do Job

Jewelry Ripped off Victims; Fur Coats Taken

BUFFALO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Eighteen socially prominent men and women were held up and robbed tonight by seven armed bandits at the home of John L. Carson, Jr., in Snyder, a fashionable suburb. All were stripped of jewelry.

The victims of the robbery are Mr. and Mrs. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Alan Van Clief, Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Metz, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Keating, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Williams, Miss Eleanor Cameron, Courtland Van Clief, Mrs. Pauline Breunstedt and Clarence Sway, Jr.

RICH NECKLACE TAKEN

The heaviest loss was suffered by Mrs. Ray Van Clief, from whose neck one of the bandits tore a triple string of matched pearls worth, its owner says, between $250,000 and $300,000.

Not only did the bandits, all of whom were masked, unceremoniously strip jewelry from the guests at the party, but they stole from an upper room the evening cloaks and fur coats owned by the women guests.

FIRST THOUGHT JOKE

The dinner at the Carson home was being held in honor of Courtland Van Clief and Miss Cameron, who are to be married on the 20th inst. The guests were seated in the dining-room when the bandits, masked and armed, entered the room. They had come through a French window at the rear of the house. The guests at the party at first thought it was all a practical joke being played by friends. One of the women tried to pull a mask from the face of one of them. He struck and kicked her.

The bandits took everything in sight, including necklaces, earrings, watches, stick pins and studs. Expensive fur wraps were taken from the upper floor.

BROKER SUED FOR MILLION

Ex-Husband of Present Mrs. Pio Crespi Charges Multimillionaire Stole Wife

(Copyright, 1929, by The New York News, New York.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—A $1,000,000 echo of what once was the gentle murmuring of love near the sunny Mediterranean resounded today when it was learned that Pio Crespi, New York multimillionaire cotton broker and publisher, is being asked to pay that amount in an alienation of affections suit filed at Waco, Tex.

Following the Mediterranean interlude a double divorce granted November 8, 1927, enabled Crespi, middle-aged, to marry Mrs. W. R. Wigley, the 30-year-old matron whose affections he now is charged with stealing.

The suit was filed at Waco, November 9, 1927, by Wigley, the ex-husband. Selection of a jury to try it began Tuesday.

It was during a sojourn on the Riviera that Crespi won Mrs. Wigley away from her husband and the simple life of Texas, Wigley charges.

Following the trip abroad, Mrs. Wigley divorced her husband in Texas on the same day that Mrs. Crespi divorced the broker here. Soon afterward Crespi and Mrs. Wigley were married.

But Crespi won't go to Waco to fight it in court. This admission came from the cotton broker today at the offices of Crespi & Co., Inc.

Although notified that he is wanted to testify, he cannot go, Crespi said, because he is under the care of a physician.

In demanding compensation for the loss of his wife, Wigley put the wealth of Crespi vaguely at millions.

Crespi came to know the former Mrs. Wigley because he maintains a residence in Texas, where he has cotton holdings.

CORN HUSKERS UP ON TOES

And Millions Will Hear Today as Ears Bounce Off Bang-board in Annual "World's Series"

PLATTE CITY (Mo.) Nov. 14. (AP)—Down in the fertile Missouri River bottoms of Platte county approximately 20,000 persons will gather tomorrow to watch a sporting event. There will be no stadium, no cheer leaders, no pennants or colors, but excitement will be at fever heat along the sidelines and twenty-three radio stations will carry the play-by-play to millions of persons.

It's the sixth annual "world series of the corn fields"—the nation corn-husking contest.

Most of the twelve contestants have a liberal sprinkling of gray hairs, for the art of bouncing 'em off the bang-board at record speeds comes only with arduous years in the field. All are State champions or runners-up in State contests. They are the very cream of the of the "tall corn" States.

SEVEN STATES ENTERED

Represented in the field and in the thousands of spectators will be Indiana, Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas.

Not even the extravaganza of an intersectional football game can outdo in the element of the picturesque the national corn-husking bee. A long thirty-two-acre field, sunk in a natural amphitheater of low hills will furnish the setting for the contest tomorrow. Despite an unfavorable summer, Paul Rena, on whose farm the meet will be held, has made the "battlefield" produce an estimated eighty bushels an acre.

The contestants will draw wagons, drivers and "gleaners" by lot. Each will furnish his own hook, peg or peg-horn combination, with which the husks are ripped from the ear, and each will have a coach, who may follow him down the rows of maize, keeping him posted on his time and the progress of competitors.

ALL ON RADIO

The contest lasts eighty minutes and a bulletin board and loud speaker set will keep watchers informed of standings throughout the "game." The National Broadcasting Company has strung wires from Kansas City and listeners in kitchenettes of New York or San Francisco will be enabled to get a "round-by-round" account, beginning at 11:45 a.m., central standard time.

Weather is the most important element in the quest for a new record. Cold and clear is the ideal condition, for ears snap off easier when brittle.

The present national record is 35.8 bushels for the eighty-minute period, established in 1925 by Elmer Williams of Illinois.

Help your baby build

A well-shaped head
A fine full chest
Straight legs
Sound, even teeth

Every mother knows how much these things mean to health and appearance all through life!

To ensure them, physicians are telling mothers that their babies must have special protection. Even though your baby is breast-fed, even though he is plump and rosy; still he needs protection against the ever threatening danger of poor bones and teeth.

There are two common sources of the essential protective factor (Vitamin D). Sunshine and good cod-liver oil! But because of clothing, clouds, fog and smoke, it is almost impossible to get enough sunshine on your baby's bare body. Even ordinary window glass filters out the protecting rays.

WORLD BANK'S STATUTES AND CHARTER DISCLOSED

Details Given to Public but Trust Agreement Withheld Because of Incomplete Form

BADEN BADEN (Germany) Nov. 14. (AP)—The statutes and charter of the new bank for international settlements, which will act as a sort of clearinghouse and trustee for reparations payments, were made public today.

The statutes, charter and trust agreement of the institution were signed last night by the delegates who have been here for six weeks for the purpose of initiating the bank in accordance with the provisions of the Young plan.

While the statutes and charter were made public, the trust agreement, about which there has been much discussion, was not given out, as it is merely in draft form and cannot be completed until the second Hague conference of the powers.

The statutes consist of seven chapters, giving the objects of the bank and the place of its seat, its capital, its powers, its management, general meetings, accounts and profits and general provisions.

CHARTER PROVISIONS

At first it was decided that the charter should not be made public, but later this was given out. It asserts that Switzerland, in which country the bank will be located, at Basel, has agreed to grant a charter for the bank and not to amend or supplement it except in agreement with the organizing powers. All funds deposited with the bank by any government in pursuance of the Young plan will be tax-exempt and the bank is exempt from taxation on its capital reserves and profits.

The bank is immune from censorship, requisition, seizure or confiscation in peace or war.

M. A. Traylor, American banker and delegate to the conference, who received the American correspondents this afternoon, expressed the opinion that the conference has evolved decidedly creditable and workable documents. The reason, he said, why the trust agreement was not released is the fact that it is in draft form and cannot be completed until the powers at The Hague agree just how they want the reparations payment schedules arranged.

Capital stock of the bank is fixed in the statutes at 500,000,000 Swiss francs (about $99,500,000) divided into 200,000 shares, of which 112,000 must be subscribed before the bank begins business.

The subscription of the total capital is guaranteed by the central banks of Belgium, England, France, Germany and Italy, also Messrs. "X." acting in place of the Bank of Japan, and Messrs. "Y." of New York.

UNISSUED STOCK

The unissued portion of the bank's capital stock may be offered otherwise by a two-thirds majority vote of the board, but only to countries interested in reparations or satisfying the practical requirements of the gold exchange standard. In none of these cases may more than 8000 shares be offered.

Only 25 per cent of the value of each share shall be paid up at the time of subscription. The capital may be increased or reduced by a two-thirds majority of the board in general meeting. No shares shall be issued below par, but shares shall be transferable provided the transferee is agreeable to the bank of international settlement and the issuing central bank or equivalent institution.

Shares will not carry voting rights, the latter being vested in the respective central bank or its nominee or corresponding institution. Subscribing institutions may either issue shares directly to the public or certificates against the bank of international settlement shares owned by them.

VETO CLAUSE

Chapter three contains a so-called "veto clause." After enunciating the general principle that the operations of the bank of international settlements must be in conformity with the monetary policy of the central banks of the countries concerned, the statutes continue:

"Before any financial operation is carried out by or on behalf of the bank in any given market or in given currency the board of directors shall afford the central bank or central banks directly concerned an opportunity to dissent." If there is disapproval the operation may not take place.

SCOPE OF OPERATIONS

The bank's permissible operations include: Buying and selling of gold for its own account or the account of the central banks; holding gold for its own account under the earmark of the central banks; accepting custody of gold for the account of the central banks; making advances to or borrowing from the central banks against collateral of prime liquidity; buying and selling of exchange for its own account or that of the central banks; buying and selling of negotiable securities other than shares, and maintaining of current or deposit accounts with the central banks.

The statutes fix acceptable deposits as including those from the central banks, those in connection with trustee agreements between the bank and governments, and such others as are within the scope of the bank's functions.

FURTHER FUNCTIONS

The bank may act as agent or correspondent for any central bank or arrange with the latter to act as its agent or correspondent. The bank also may enter into agreements to act as trustee or agent in connection with international settlements provided such agreements do not encroach on the bank's obligations toward third parties.

To provide for special situations such as might arise in the United States the statutes add: "Any operations which the bank is authorized to carry out with the central banks under the preceding article may be carried out with banks, bankers, corporations or individuals of any country provided the central bank of that country does not object."

The bank may enter also into special agreements with the central banks to facilitate the settlement of international transactions between them.

FORBIDDEN LIST

Things which the bank of international settlements may not do include:

Issuance of currency; acceptance of bills of exchange; making advances to governments; opening of current accounts in the names of governments and acquiring predominant interest in any business concern owning real estate, except when unavoidable. The bank must be administered with particular regard to maintaining the liquidity of its accounts.

Chapter Four vests the bank's administration in a board composed ex-officio of the seven organizing countries or their appointees, or alternates who will be seven persons representative of finance, industry and commerce, each appointed by his central bank governor.

If in the case of the United States the governor does not wish to act or appoint someone, the governors of the banks of other nations may invite two nationals of that country not objected to by the respective central bank.

ADDITIONAL DIRECTORS

Besides these directors one German and one Frenchman may in addition be appointed by the respective central bank governors so long as Germany pays on its reparations account. In addition, not exceeding nine directors may be chosen from a panel of nominees from other countries as provided by the Young plan, non-exofficio directors hold office for three years but are re-eligible.

No government official except a central bank governor or any member of any legislative body may become a director of the international bank. The board of directors must meet at least ten times annually, of which four meetings must be at the domicile of the bank.

SWEEPING POWERS

The powers of the chairman of the board of directors, who also will be the president of the bank, are sweeping: "Subject to the authority of the board, the president will carry out the policy and control the administration of the bank." His term of office is three years but he also is re-eligible.

The bank's general manager will be appointed by the board of directors on the proposal of the president. He will be responsible to the president, who will recommend also to the board heads of departments. The remainder of the staff will be appointed by the general manager, subject to the president's call. The interpretation is placed on this here that the president, thus, is clearly the guiding spirit of the institution.

VOTING RIGHTS

Chapter Five of the statutes provides that at general meetings voting rights shall be in proportion to the number of shares subscribed in the country of each institution represented at the meeting. Extraordinary meetings may be called to amend the statutes, increase or decrease the bank's capital or to liquidate the bank.

Chapter Six fixes the financial year beginning April 1. The bank must publish an annual report and at least monthly statements.

Chapter Seven provides among other things that the bank may not be liquidated except by three-fourths majority in a general meeting and not before it has discharged all obligations assumed under the Young plan.

DISPOSITION OF DISPUTES

Disputes anent interpretation or application of the statutes shall be referred to an interpretation tribunal established under the London agreement of August 30, 1924. By common consent both parties may refer any dispute to the president or any member of the tribunal as sole arbitrator.

Articles relating to the domicile of the bank, its objects, functions, reduction or increase in capital, non-voting right of shares, the veto clause, forbidden operations, composition of the board, yearly profits, or arbitration, cannot be amended except by a two-thirds majority of the board approved by a majority of a general meeting, and sanctioned by law supplementing the bank's charter.

Other amendments need merely two-thirds majority of the board and a majority of the general meeting.

Tells Dozens of His Friends About Sargon

"I only wish I had started Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills before I did for they would have saved me many a dollar and many a day's suffering!

"Three years ago I commenced to suffer with stomach trouble. I don't know what brought it on, but it seemed like my digestion went 'all to pieces.' I hardly knew what it was to be hungry and what little I ate didn't digest right. I suffered a lot with disagreeable and painful gases in my stomach after meals, and no medicines seemed to help me for any length of time. Finally I went on a strict diet, but even this didn't give me anything but temporary relief. Then rheumatism or something of that sort in my shoulders, hips and legs, caused me a lot of suffering. When I began to lose weight and felt weak and generally run down I was very much discouraged.

CHAS. A. HANSEN

"I commenced to read about Sargon and all it was doing for people here in Los Angeles, and I thought surely that if it was helping so many people it might help me, too, and I started taking it. And it did help me, right from the beginning. I have taken five bottles now, am gaining weight right along, my appetite is fine, everything I eat digests perfectly and I feel great! Why, I can feel the strengthening effects of this medicine from head to foot! Now I sleep like a top, am full of strength and pep in the mornings and it is simply remarkable how this medicine accomplished so much for me in such a short time.

"Sargon Pills are entirely different from any other laxative I ever took. My liver seems in splendid condition, and while these pills are mild, they are by far the most effective laxative I ever took. I have told dozens of friends about this wonderful Sargon treatment and I am going to keep on telling them."

The above statement was recently made by Chas. A. Hansen, Hondo. Mr. Hansen is connected with the county engineering department.

The Sargon Man is at the Owl Drug Store, 6th & Broadway, where he is meeting the public daily and explaining the merits of this remarkable new medicine. Sargon may be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores in Los Angeles and other cities.—[Advertisement.

Men and Women have an "After 40 Ailment"

How to combat this After 40 Ailment

It is the forerunner of many serious ills. Many have it without knowledge, for there are no warning symptoms. Doctors have now traced its cause. What they recommend.

HEALTH after 40 is imperiled, says medical science, by a prevalent ailment—kidney breakdown.

Over half of men and women are affected, it says; many without knowledge of it, for there are no warning symptoms.

Doctors tell us that 75% of poisonous waste from the system must be excreted by kidneys, much in too concentrated form. Delicate kidney cells, through overwork, become congested. Breakdown follows, and poisons which should be eliminated, are thrown back in the system. And to this, doctors trace the cause of many serious ills.

What Doctors Urge to Combat Kidney Ailment

Drink 6 glasses of Puritas mineral free water each day, say doctors. It acts to dilute and carry off concentrated poisons, thus easing the burden on kidneys.

It acts then to keep kidneys flushed, without adding the further burden of mineral content, found in ordinary water. Only distilled water is mineral-free. And Puritas, through scientific distillation and aeration, is both mineral-free, impurity-free. It is drinking water in its purest form.

Thus Puritas provides the utmost science has discovered to protect against after-40 ailments.

With your first taste of Puritas you'll note its distinctive flavor, and each drink you will enjoy increasingly.

EMPLOYMENT STILL NORMAL

"Recent Financial Upheaval" Causes No Distress

Production of Automobiles in Seasonal Decline

Industry Sound, According to Labor Department

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Department of Labor in its monthly employment bulletin issued today said October reports indicated the "recent financial upheaval" did not disturb industry or cause any reduction in employment.

The report said this is held to be "self-evident proof" that industry is fundamentally sound and that "the future may reveal that more money will be available for the further development of industry and the creation of new industry."

Seasonal decreases in production of automobiles caused a drop in employment in this industry and a similar decreased employment in the iron and steel mills was attributed to the automobile depression. Conditions in the cotton-textile industry improved somewhat, but were said to be "spotty" still, while large forces were employed in the silk-goods manufacturing plants.

Increased employment in the shipyards, in the jewelry manufacturing business, in radio and lectrical equipment plants and in the boot and shoe factories was noted. Greater employment also was reported in the anthracite and bituminous coal-mining districts.

RAILROAD TIED UP BY SHOPMEN STRIKE

PEORIA (Ill.) Nov. 14. (AP)—The Toledo, Peoria and Western Railroad today lay idle with service suspended indefinitely through the strike of 500 shop employees. The strike started last night. The strike followed a series of union labor difficulties starting in 1926, the shopmen asserting that the railroad failed to recognize various shop-crafts.

FOOTPRINT BAN STIRS SAVANT

Halting Removal of Dinosaur Tracks Proves Surprise

Museum Director Lauds Arizona's Stand

Resents Experts Being Called "Pot Hunters"

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14. (AP)—Horace H. F. Jayne, director of the University of Pennsylvania Museum, who recently announced an expedition would go to Arizona on an archeological project, said today that the action of the government in halting the efforts to remove the dinosaur footprints in that State came as a complete surprise to the authorities of the University of Pennsylvania. "We certainly did not anticipate any opposition from the government or from any other source," he said.

"It is not the desire of the New York Museum of Natural History or our own museum to despoil relics of archeological interest," said a statement by Mr. Jayne.

SEEK TO PRESERVE

"On the contrary, our efforts are directed toward the preservation of such material so that it may be made permanently available for the study of scientists all over the world.

"If the Department of the Interior is determined to prevent the despoiling of archeological relics by what has been termed 'professional pot hunters,' I certainly can find no fault with the department's decision.

"Men of the type of Gilbert Gable, Dr. J. Alden Mason and Dr. Barnum Brown are not 'professional pot hunters,' of course, and I do not think for a moment that there was any intention on the part of any one to include them in this category or to cast the slightest reflection on two great museums which they represent.

CALLS IT SENSIBLE

"What I do believe is that the State of Arizona, realizing the great archeological value of certain material in the State, has very sensibly decided to take measures to preserve it and has sought and received the support of the United States government in the matter.

"In taking this action, the officials of Arizona are to be congratulated. It would be a splendid thing if every State in the United States would take adequate steps to guard the historical and archeological treasures within its borders."

GABLE DENIES PLANS TO REMOVE PRINTS

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) Nov. 14. (AP) Sheriff's deputies who followed a party of scientists into the Painted Desert to warn them not to remove rocks bearing dinosaur prints, said today Gilbert Gable, head of the scientific party, denied to them he intended to remove the prints.

Gov. Phillips of Arizona took action when it was reported to him the scientists intended to take the rocks to an eastern museum.

RETAIL TIRE GROUPS JOIN IN MERGERS

New Corporation Expected to Have Buying Power of at Least $50,000,000

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Five thousand independent retail automobile tire dealers, by two mergers in their principal trade organizations, plan to enter "big business" through a nation-wide purchasing and distributing corporation.

One merger is that of the Automobile Tire Dealers' Association, purchasing body for the Automobile Tire Dealers' League, with the United Tire Stores Corporation of America. The second merger is that of the Tire Dealers' League with the National Tire Dealers' Association. The mergers were announced at the annual meeting of the National Tire Dealers' Association.

The new corporation is expected to have purchasing power of at least $50,000,000, according to George J. Burger of New York, its president. Burger asserted that no par stock will be offered, but that 5000 subscription shares at $100 each will be offered to members of the Tire Dealers' Association.

Other officers of the corporation include S. B. Harper of Fort Smith, Ark., and M. J. Harry of Baltimore, vice-presidents; Thomas J. Lane of Jersey City, N. J., treasurer, and Thomas Barbee of Louisville, secretary.

Turks Join in Carpet Protest

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Turkish republic has added its protest to that of Persia against asserted misrepresentations by American rug and carpet manufacturers in marketing of their products under oriental names.

Officials of the Turkish Embassy here have discussed the question with the State Department and now are preparing extensive data which will be submitted to the State Department.

They will seek to prove their charges that some American rug producers are marketing their products under names designed to lead the purchaser to believe that the article is of oriental design and manufacture.

ACCUSED EXTORTIONIST ALLOWED TO KEEP SON

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Lee Edwards, 6-year-old boy who is the center of extortion charges preferred against his mother, Olga N. Edwards, by Nathan L. Amster, financier, was released in the mother's care today after she had satisfied Justice Samuel D. Levy in children's court that she had been taking proper care of him. The boy was turned over to the Children's Society yesterday after the mother's arrest on Amster's charge that she had extorted large sums from him for the last six years. The accused woman is at liberty under $5000 bail.

FUSS AMUSES HELEN WILLS

Bay City Social Register Omission Fails to Worry Her

BERKELEY, Nov. 14. (AP)—Helen Wills's name may not appear in the new San Francisco Social Register, but that, she said at her home here today, "will not affect my game of tennis." She appeared amused over the wave of interest which greeted the revelation that her name is not in the register issued yesterday.

The name of her fiance, Frederick S. Moody, Jr., is in the register. Where it has been for years. This, said Miss Wills, will not hasten their wedding date. In fact, Miss Wills, who has been presented at the Court of St. James and entertained by Premier MacDonald, said she is not concerned abot the Social Register incident at all.

MORE WOOL GARB URGED ON WOMEN

National Economist Tells Bay City Convention Way to Solve Problems

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Wool men at the twenty-second annual convention of the California Wool Growers' Association at the Palace Hotel here today were told to carry on educational work to pursuade the women of the State to wear more woolen clothing.

"If the female population of the State of Californian would increase its annual consumption of wool by so much as two pounds per person," A. W. Zelomek, nationally known textile statistician and economist, said in addressing the convention "the wool growers of this particular State would have little to worry about and much to rejoice over." Prices would improve and practically all the wool produced in the State would be consumed within its borders, he said.

Speaking of the possibility of further development of co-operative marketing of wool Zelomek said initial steps already have been taken toward bringing the wool grower and manufacturer together through the medium of the national co-operative associations and the Federal Farm Board.

ROSE FIESTA CRASH SUIT AGAIN LOST

Appeals Court Sustains Demurrers Filed by City and Tournament Body

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Abram C. Denman, Jr., of Pasadena, today lost his appeal to the State District Court of Appeals in which he sought to collect damages amounting to $104,500 for injuries received at the collapse of a Tournament of Roses grandstand January 1, 1926.

Denman sued the city of Pasadena and the Tournament of Roses Association. The lower courts sustained demurrers of the defendants which asserted they were not responsible for the accident. The District Court of Appeals sustained the action of the lower courts.

Mellon Tells Old Story in Denying Deal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—Secretary Mellon today used an old joke to illustrate his denial that interests with which he is associated in Pittsburgh were connected with the reported bid in New York yesterday for 1,000,000 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey at $50 a share.

Told of the rumors at his press conference today, the Secretary of the Treasury laughed.

"An old darky," he said, "was once asked if he could change a $100 bill and replied: 'No, sub, but thank you for de compliment.'"

"And that," smiled Mellon, "is my position in regard to the report."

JOHNSON IN NEW ATTACK ON HOOVER

Californian Makes War on President's Nominee for Bay City Place

"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—Senator Johnson of California went on the warpath against the Hoover administration again today when he appeared before the Senate Finance Committee to protest the nomination of Alf Oftedal, former assistant Federal prohibition commissioner, to be Collector of Internal Revenue at San Francisco Spokesmen for organized labor groups supported him in opposing the appointment.

The committee came to no decision and will meet again on the matter tomorrow. There is every indication that the nomination will be sent to the Senate with a recommendation for confirmation.

Senator Johnson objected to Oftedal on the ground that he was a "prohibition detective" and had not been identified with the district in which he is to serve. His real reason for fighting the appointment is said to be in the fact that Oftedal is an anti Johnson man in California Republican politics, and that he has been nominated to take the place of J. P. McLaughlin, who for many years has been a Johnson wheelhorse.

Senator Shortridge in support of Oftedal, presented to the committee letters from many different groups and individuals praising the appointment and urging speedy confirmation. One letter was from the Anti-Saloon League.

INQUIRY INTO BOMB CASE ABANDONED

Prosecutor Says Woman Now Insists Mooney Was on Roof During Hurling

ST. CLAIRSVILLE (O.) Nov. 14. (AP)—Belmont county officials today said they have abandoned investigation of the Tom Mooney case because of conflicting stories told by Mrs. Dora Monroe, who last week made an affidavit placing the blame for the San Francisco preparedness day parade bombing, in which ten lives were lost in 1916, on her brother, Lewis Smith, who died seven years ago at Cleveland.

Prosecuting Attorney McKelvey, who had been directing the inquiry, said today that Mrs. Monroe's latest story of the bombing was that Mooney was on the same roof with Smith when the latter hurled the bomb.

Mooney is serving a life term in a California prison. McKelvey said that if the latest story of Mrs. Monroe is true, then Mooney would be equally guilty, in that he was in the crowd from which the bomb was thrown.

Mrs Monroe had made an affidavit in which she revealed that her brother admitted the bombing to her and that Mooney was not in the vicinity at the time.

BILL INTRODUCED FOR PHILIPPINE FREEDOM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. WOMEN HELP CONQUER OAKLAND CANYON FIRE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—Housewives handling garden hose helped fifty firemen stop a fire on the outskirts of Pine Haven Canyon, Oakland, today after it had consumed 200 acres of pine trees, underbrush and grass and threatened homes. A fire captain and a fireman were burned about the legs, but refused to leave the fire lines.

Three thousand acres of virgin timber in Plumas National Forest was reported still ablaze tonight, although a dying wind during humidity gave hope it will be stopped by morning. The center of the blaze is the Middle Fork of the Feather River.

In the Prunedale district, north of Salinas, a 2000-acre blaze was reported controlled. The Mt. St. Helena fire also was declared completely in hand, control having been attained during last night.

RUSSIA REPORTS WONDER WHEAT

Hybrid Plant Said to be Sturdy as Rye

Yield Stated as Triple That of Ordinary Grain

New Product to be Sown for Use Next Year

MOSCOW, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—The Leningrad Red Star today reports the development by the Minsk Botanical Observatory of a hybrid grain plant—a cross between wheat and rye. The new hybrid combines, it is reported, the resistance to cold of rye with the richness of wheat. The experiments are said to have shown that its yield without artificial fertilizer or special preparation of the land is three tons per hectare, thrice the average grain yield in Russia.

This fall the new product is being sown in sufficient quantity to make possible its general use next year. This, if true, may literally change the face of the world. That is to say, if Russia within the next ten years could increase its grain production threefold it would be an economic revolution, beside which Lenin's first revolution would seem petty.

HYDE SUGGESTS NEW FARM IDEA

Reforestation Plan Urged for Uncultivatable Areas

Withdrawal Viewed as Way to Aid Surplus Curb

Talk Heard by Association of Land Grant Colleges

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Control of farm surpluses by government withdrawal of uncultivatable lands for reforestation was urged today by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde.

Other farm-relief measures discussed at a session of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities devoted to the Federal Farm Board's problems wre removal of county extension agents from county and State influence opposed to co-operative marketing and an educational campaign to acquaint the farmer with his rights under the Agricultural Marketing Act.

Six members of the Farm Board were present, Chairman Alexander Legge, C. S. Wilson, Sam R. McKelvie, James C. Stone, Carl Williams and C. C. Teague. Each addressed the meeting.

CROP ACREAGE

Secretary Hyde explained that of 955,000,000 acres of American farm land, only 505,000,000 actually are cultivatable, while 350,000,000 produce crops large enough "to supply the United States and its foreign markets and to support a farm bloc in the United States Senate."

Overexpansion held by the Secretary to be the cause of agricultural ills, was brought about, he said, by the eagerness of the government to cultivate every potential farm. He proposed that submarginal lands be taken by the government for reforestation.

"The farmers of the United States now are easily able to produce all the foods and fibers the nation needs and will be able to do so for decades to come," he said. "Our immediate concern is not to stimulate greater production, but to avoid it. We need to seek out and make practical application of what we already know, to make researches for new uses of present products.

FEDERAL PURPOSE

"The Federal Farm Board is charged with the task of encouraging and fostering co-operative marketing organizations for agriculture," he continued. "Thus we hope to build up the farmers' own organization which can advise the farmer as to markets, supplies and demands; can aid in controlling the surplus by preventing it; can level out the flow of commodities to market; give the farmer a voice in the sale of his products, and extend his arm and influence over his line fences and into the markets of the world.

"We can take the problems of the farm out of the realm of politics and into the domain of economics by collective thinking, stabilization of prices, reduction of waste in the marketing system, and the mobilization of the economic power of agriculture."

The Farm Board members urged the college delegates to assist in the program for farm relief by carrying to the individual farmer the fact that he must organize and do his marketing through a national co-operative organization. Assistance already had been promised by the executive body of the association, which voted last night to co-operate in every way with the Farm Board.

"The inclination to get together has not existed on the part of the farmers," said Legge. "The farmer is an individualist."

PENNIES FOR ALIMONY MAKE MAN FACE JUDGE

WEST PALM BEACH (Fla.) Nov. 14. (AP)—Getting $30 a week alimony is one thing, but getting 3000 pennies a week is something else, and Cora L. Ferguson has gone to court about it.

She filed petition in Circuit Court here today asking that Harold E. Ferguson be required to tell the Judge why payment of her weekly alimony in pennies is not contempt of court.

Judge Chillingworth ordered Ferguson to explain the flood of small change in court tomorrow.

American Talkie Hissed in Rome

ROME, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—American talkies got an abusive reception in Rome tonight, when the production, "Noah's Ark," was shown for the first time on the local screens.

In order not to confuse the Italian audience with a language they could not understand, much of the talk had been taken out. But some of the dialogues in English had been left in. Each time talking started, hisses, shouts and groans were emitted, causing an uproar.

FIFTY THOUSAND PRAY FOR CURES

Special Police Direct Mob at Priest's Grave

Several Report Faculties Being Restored

Health Seekers Kneel in Driving Rain

MALDEN (Mass.) Nov. 14. (AP)—Priests and nuns today knelt beside members of the laity at the grave of Rev. Patrick J. Power in Holy Cross Cemetery as a crowd estimated at more than 50,000 persons assembled to ask for divine intercession in the relief of the bodily ailments. It was the largest week-day crowd on record since reports of the reputedly curative qualities of the 60-year-old grave became widespread.

Reserve policemen were sent to the cemetery to assist the regular force in maintaining orderly lines to the grave as the crowd increased.

Several partial cures of persons who had been unable to use their faculties to the fullest extent were asserted. They were among the thousands who defied a heavy downpour of rain and remained at the edge of the grave all night and continued their prayers at daybreak today when other thousands joined them.

Among those who visited the grave today were a partly paralyzed priest and a band of eleven gypsy girls. The girls brought with them a member of their group who sought relief from deafness.

ROAD AID FUND INCREASE URGED

Congress Asked to Vote $125,000,000

State Highway Officials Back Project

Private Toll Bridges Will be Opposed

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Nov. 14. (AP)—Congress was urged to increase the appropriation for Federal-aid highway projects to $125,000,000 annually, an increase of $50,000,000, by the American Association of State Highway Officials, completing its annual convention today.

The increase was asked for the fiscal year 1932 and 1933, while it was requested that the present appropriation for the fiscal year 1931 be raised from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000.

The resolution declared that during the last year less than 10 per cent of the funds used in construction of State trunk-line highways was contributed by the Federal government and that several States in answer to public demands had built more miles of the Federal-aid highway system without Federal aid than with it.

TOLL BRIDGES OPPOSED

Congress was asked to refrain from issuing any further permits for the construction of toll bridges by private persons across the Rio Grande between the United States and Mexico. It was suggested that a law be enacted permitting the construction of such bridges by the governments with a provision that tolls may be charged for their use until they are paid for, after which they would become free bridges.

The Federal government was called on to leave the regulation of motor busses and trucks for commercial purposes in interstate traffic "entirely in the hands of the various States," intervening only "in case the States concerned are unable to reach some satisfactory agreement as to the regulation of this traffic."

FOREST ROADS FAVORED

The convention went on record as being "unalterably opposed to privately owned and controlled toll bridges upon State and Federal-aid systems of highways."

The association indorsed increasing authorization for forest highways for 1931 to $10,000,000 and proposed legislation increasing the 1932 and 1933 allotments to $12,500,000 per year.

Samuel Eckels, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania Highway Department, was elected president.

NEW NETWORK IN RADIO FIELD

Anthony of KFI Purchases KPLA as Chain Unit

Latter Station Will be Known as KECA Henceforth

KHJ to Begin Broadcast of Temperature Reports

The Times Forum, KHJ, at 10:30 a.m. will present Rev. Frank Dyer in the first of a series of talks on "Great Living Americans." Dr. Dyer today will discuss David Starr Jordan.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

A new National Broadcasting Company network entered the field of radio yesterday with the announcement by Earl C. Anthony, owner of KFI, that he has purchased KPLA. The latter station's call letters have been changed to KECA and, beginning tonight, it will be heard on 1430 kilocycles, or 210 meters. The network will include stations in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City and Denver.

Modern studios for KECA will be built on the roof of the Packard Building, Tenth and Hope streets, and a dual network switching apparatus installed, by which either KECA or KFI may be connected with either of the National Broadcasting Company systems. A new 1000-watt transmitter also has been purchased.

POLICIES ANNOUNCED

KECA and its policies, it is announced, will conform with those of FI in the broadcast of high quality programs and outstanding news events, Anthony stated.

By means of additional telephone circuits to be installed between San Francisco and Los Angeles, KECA will be equipped to release a program originating in New York, while KFI is presenting one originating in San Francisco or Los Angeles.

TEMPERATURES REPORTS

Minimum temperature reports, gathered at thirty different points from Ventura south by the United States Weather Bureau, will be broadcast for Southern California agriculturists by KHJ, the Don Lee station, at 8 o'clock each evening, beginning tonight.

Floyd Young, chief meteorologist of the government Weather Bureau at Pomona, who has handled this important service for a number of years, will inaugurate the feature with a ten-minute talk over KHJ at 6:30 o'clock. The service is intended to protect the citrus industry in Southern California by sounding warnings when smudge pots should be used in given districts.

SCINTILLATING FOOTLIGHTS

KHJ will introduce a new weekly feature tonight at 8 o'clock with the initial program of "Footlights," which is to originate here and be broadcast over eight western stations, the largest network yet served by this popular station. From one of the reigning musical comedies of New York's White Way, the radio audience will be carried to a little corner in Nashville, Tenn., where a friendly colorful feud is in progress, and then back to the stage of a modern vaudeville theater. A portion of the program will hark back twenty years with a glimpse of a children's theater when Buster Brown and his dog Tige were all the rage.

PRIZE WINNERS TO SING

Donald Novis and Irene Dove Kilgore, winners of the 1928 Atwater Kent Pacific Coast audition, will sing at KFI at 10 p.m. over the network of the National Broadcast Company.

Another feature among the evening radio attractions will be the presentation of the Notre Dame Glee Club and Howard Jones, Trojan coach, on an N.B.C. program from KFI at 7:30 o'clock. Collegiate atmosphere will dominate and the program will constitute a tribute to the Notre Dame-Southern California football game Saturday.

KFWB will go on full time at 3 p.m. today on 950 kilocycles. This station has been sharing thirty-five minutes daily and two hours on Sunday with KPSN, Pasadena. The latter station will share time with KGER, Long Beach, on a wave length of 1360 kilocycles, about one degree higher on the dial, effective today.

MANSFIELD TO MEET

Former residents of Mansfield, O., will hold a pre-Thanksgiving meeting next Sunday at the Huntington Park Municipal Park, it was announced yesterday by Dr. R. R. Barrett. The dinner call will sound at 12:30 p.m., followed by a program.

ROCK MILL ARGUMENTS DUE TODAY

Bell Project Protestants to be Heard in Eleven-Hour Session

Attorneys for the protesting property owners of the Santa Monica Mountain region, who are objecting to the Alphonzo Bell interests locating a cement rock quarry and stone crusher in their neighborhood, will make their arguments today before the City Planning Commission in the Public Utilities Room at the City Hall. The session will start at 9 a.m. and will conclude at 10 p.m., time only being taken out for lunch.

Yesterday, Rollin McNitt, attorney for the Bell interests, talked all day before the city planning body. He will conclude his address Saturday morning, the arguments closing promptly at noon, when the case will be submitted to the commission after nearly ten months' hearing.

McNitt in his argument yesterday declared that the Bell interests never intended to make the Pacific Palisades a purely residential section. He also said that the Bell people did not learn of the cement rock deposit until 1926.

At 9 o'clock Attorney Arthur C. Verge, representing Henry M. Sexton, will open the argument for the protestants. He will be followed by Attorney Thorwald Siegfried representing the Pacific Palisades home owners. Oscar A. Trippett, representing his mother, widow of Federal Judge Trippett, will then take up the burden. Concluding arguments will be made by Chief Consul Arthur R. Smiley, who will occupy the floor during the entire evening session. The public is invited to attend the hearings.

Burglars Rifle Warehouse at Fort MacArthur

The government warehouse at Fort MacArthur, San Pedro, was broken into by burglars late Wednesday and several thousand dollars' worth of blankets, brassards and miscellaneous clothing taken, it was reported to police yesterday by Capt. H. F. Ewing, quartermaster.

Entrance was effected, it was reported, through one of the several doorways of the warehouse, possibly with a passkey. Police were given an itemized description of the stolen property.

CIRCUS WORKER HELD ON BURGLARY CHARGE

Alonzo Freeman, circus employee attached to the Al G. Barnes winter headquarters near El Monte, is being held by the Sheriff's office for questioning concerning a burglary and an asserted attempt to assault Ruth Leebrick, 12 years of age, of 512 El Monte Road, Baldwin Park. Freeman, a negro, was traced by deputy sheriffs through a laundry card which was found at the scene of the burglary the next morning. It also is charged that Freeman attempted to rob the home of David Rand, who lives near the Leebricks.

NEW TANGLE NOW FACES TED DONER

Actor Held in Asserted Kidnaping of Baby Girl Sued for Divorce

Ted Doner, musical comedy actor, yesterday was sued for divorce by Peggy Doner as the climax of a series of marital disturbances that have received considerable public attention recently.

Mrs. Doner asserts that her husband left her last April in Los Angeles practically penniless, with two small children, Edward, 3 years of age, and Roses Elinor, 18 months. On the 6th inst. he returned, she asserts, and accused her of "running around with other men" in his absence.

Doner is further accused of cruelty, in that he took his infant daughter and attempted to leave the State with her a few days ago.

At 10 a.m. today Doner will be given an opportunity to tell his side of the domestic story which resulted in his arrest Tuesday night charged with stealing his baby daughter Roses from the custody of her mother.

Doner is scheduled to appear before Justice of the Peace Billings of Beverly Hills for preliminary hearing, after which the judge will decide whether or not he shall be held for trial in the Superior Court.

RIVER ACCORD HOPE REVIVED

Mathews Sees Prospects of Arizona Agreement

Wilbur Wires Situation to Gov. Phillips

Los Angeles-Edison Clash Belies Power Plot

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—Belief that California and Arizona will resume Boulder Dam negotiations "with some prospect of reaching an agreement" which will cause Arizona to drop her threatened suit and enter into the seven-State Colorado River compact, was expressed here today by W. B. Mathews of Los Angeles, one of the Colorado River commissioners for California.

Mathews said he was certain he voiced the sentiment of his colleagues on the California commission in hoping for a reopening of the discussion with Arizona which might finally lead to a settlement of the differences between the two States and permit the Boulder Dam project to proceed without a fight in the United States Supreme Court where, Arizona has announced, she intends to take her grievances.

COMPROMISE DOOR OPEN

Now that the plans of the government for apportioning the water, power and other benefits from the project are "fairly definitely established," Mathews said that in his opinion an approach to a compromise has been opened up, whereby Arizona may find it to her advantage to come into the development instead of resisting it through the courts.

Secretary Wilbur announced yesterday, at the conclusion of two days of hearing protests against his power allocation, that completion of contracts will be held up until the middle of December to allow time for a final effort to draw Arizona into the project picture. He appointed everyone at the hearing as a special ambassador to help him bring about a resumption of negotiations among the three lower-basin States of California, Arizona and Nevada, and the implication was that he expected the California river commissioners to make immediate overtures to Arizona.

WILBUR WIRES PHILLIPS

Wilbur followed this up today with a lengthy wire to Gov. Phillips of Arizona. The message was not given out, but it is understood the Secretary outlined what had taken place at the power protest meeting, expressed regret that Arizona had not been represented, and explained that he was delaying action on California's power applications in the hope that Arizona would yet join in the project.

Between now and the middle of December, Secretary Wilbur and his staff of experts will sift the mass of testimony and claims adduced at the power hearing and make their decision on the many points raised. Indications are the department will deny the request of Los Angeles and the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California that the government equip and operate the power plant, and the other major demand from the city and district that they be given greater representation upon the board of control for the transmission system than is given the Southern California Edison Company.

It is believed also, that Secretary Wilbur will adhere to the 18 per cent allocation to Nevada, despite that State's insistent and ambitious demand for one-third or even all the power from the dam.

CLASH HAS EFFECT

The most likely revision of the program laid down three weeks ago is one that will give Glendale, Burbank, Pasadena, Anaheim, Culver City, Whittier, San Bernardino and the other so-called "smaller cities" in Southern California a larger share of power between them than the 4 per cent allocated to them at the start.

The clash yesterday between spokesmen for Los Angeles and the Southern California Edison Company appeared today to have had a salutary effect from one angle, in that it disabused the erroneous impression which had been prevalent in the minds of upper-basin representatives that the city and the company were "in the same bed" on the Boulder Dam project, and had conspired together to beat down the price of power for their mutual benefit and to the detriment of Nevada, Utah and the other States and agencies interested in the power.

Mr. Mathews and others speaking for the city and the water district made it extremely clear that from their standpoint Boulder Dam was a public project in which the Edison and other private power companies were to share only to a limited extent, and this through sufferance. They came dangerously close to tipping the entire development off as being primarily a public ownership scheme.

'Diamond Joe' Back From 'Ride'

HOLBROOK (Ariz.) Nov. 14. (AP)—Search for "Diamond Joe" La Mont, who had been missing from his Standard (Ariz.) home for a week while supposedly in possession of a $50,000 diamond necklace, was ended today with his appearance here. La Mont told a sensational tale of having been taken "for a ride" by two Gallup (N. M.) Mexicans a week ago, who he said robbed him of $6000 in cash and jewels.

La Mont reported that he saved his diamond necklace by burying it in the desert. He declared his Mexican kidnapers held him prisoner for a week in a desert shack.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

That unfamiliar scent which had attracted Tarzan's keen nose came from Kai Shang's party as it marched cautiously along the beach toward the ape-man's camp. A short distance from it they had halted to await the appointed signal from the Kincaid's mate. There were many miles now between them and Tarzan, and, before the agile ape-man could cover that distance, Jane was a prisoner and being borne rapidly to the pearl ship.

Midway in his quest, Tarzan halted, an instinctive sense that all was not right causing him to double on his tracks and return to camp. As Mugambi stood, uncertain what to do and dumbly puzzled at the situation he had found, Tarzan of the Apes swung from the branches and crossed the clearing toward him. Tarsan's keen eyes detected at once that something was radically wrong, even before he heard Mugambi's story.

When the black, with many gestures of anguish, had told him the facts, Tarzan's jaws clicked angrily together and he knitted his brows in thought. What could the mate hope to accomplish by taking Jane Clayton from a camp upon a small island from which there was no escape from the vengeance of Tarzan? The ape-man could not believe the fellow such a fool. And then a slight realization of the truth dawned upon him.

The mate, he reasoned, would not have committed such an act unless he had been sure that there was a way by which he could quit Jungle Island with his prisoners. But why had he taken the Mosula woman as well? There must have been others. "There is but one thing to do now," he said grimly. "Ocona, Mugambi, follow me!" And Tarzan, eyes agleam with hate and blood thirsting for vengeance, sprang into the forest.

"Boys in Blue" Guests at Birthday Party of Hostess

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 14.—Venerable and gray with the years, but still young in spirit and memories of the stirring days of Gettysburg, Bull Run, Chattanooga, Vicksburg and Sherman's march to the sea, G.A.R. members of Stephen Jackson Post, Union Veterans, were recent guests of Mrs. Clyde Henry of Van Nuys, a former Santa Monica resident. Mrs. Henry was celebrating a birthday, and she gathered together a party of unusual patriotic significance. With the Civil War veterans were many wives, sons and daughters, members of the auxiliary groups of the post.

Mrs. Henry has a valuable historic collection of Civil War relics. She showed her guests, among other things, an ear of corn taken from "The Bloody Battlefield," a piece of firewood in which was embedded a lead bullet big enough to drop an elephant, a book of quotations found on a dead soldier, with an obliterated inscription on the flyleaf, and a tattered bit of the regimental flag of the One Hundred and Fifty-fifth New York Infantry. All the guests were members of Bay District patriotic organizations.

NEW TELESCOPE DISCUSSED

Dr. J. A. Anderson in Pasadena Lecture Points Out Problems Facing Builders of Giant Reflector

PASADENA, Nov. 14.—Problems which must be solved in connection with the construction of the 200-inch telescope for the California Institute of Technology, which was financed recently by the International Education Board, were discussed here tonight by Dr. J. A. Anderson. Dr. Anderson, executive officer in charge of the design of the giant telescope, delivered the first of a series of popular lectures on astronomy to be given here this winter under the auspices of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific and Mt. Wilson Observatory. A capacity audience attended the lecture which was given in Culbertson Hall, California Institute of Technology.

The speaker displayed models of the proposed telescope mounting and explained the method of calculation of the weights and stresses.

Experiments are being carried on to develop a process for making the 200-inch mirror. Disks of quartz, glass on metal, and built-up or cellular glass are being subjected to rigid tests, he asserted.

Dr. Anderson expressed the opinion that a suitable location for the giant instrument will be found near this city, and thus convenient to the great astronomical laboratories and shops to be erected in the near future on the California Institute of Technology campus.

Considerable effort is being expended, according to the authority, in perfecting and improving auxiliary apparatus that will increase the effectiveness of the 200-inch reflector.

Dr. Anderson described the methods of testing atmospheric conditions at more than a score of sites still under consideration. This testing work, he asserted, is carried on with the aid of small portable telescopes which are so arranged that they may be used to gather the required data by men who are not necessarily expert astronomers.

It is hoped that the proposed telescope will be fully ten times as powerful as the 100-inch Mt. Wilson Observatory instrument, now the largest in the world, and that it will penetrate three times as far into space.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY'S FIRES OUT

Patrols Maintained for Watching Burned Area; Four Youths Arrested

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 14.—Patrols were being maintained today to watch for possible outbreaks of fire in two areas near San Diego which were blackened by flames yesterday. Report at an early hour stated that the Camp Kearny Mesa fire and the fire which raged near the new San Diego State College site were both extinguished.

Meanwhile an investigation was being conducted in connection with the asserted activities of four youths believed responsible for the setting of one section of the Kearny Mesa fire. The four, Edward Valdevieso, 16 years of age; Edward Young, Pedro Sandival and Joe Kovac, were apprehended yesterday by Manuel Pegona of Tecolote Valley, turned over to the police and Battalion Chief George Courrer and placed in charge of the county juvenile authorities.

The only new fire reported by noon today was a small blaze in the southwest of the Sweetwater reservoir, according to Mrs. Luther C. Gordon of La Mesa, wife of the chief county fire warden. The cause or extent of the fire was not known, she said.

Following this a move will be made to finance the erection of a suitable clubhouse building. Paul Schneider is Commander of the San Fernando post.

...ON COMPANY SUED

...Corporation Made Plaintiff in Suits ...Damages by Sulphur Mountain Fire

...10.—A number of suits were filed in the Superior ... Southern California Edison Company for dam... the Sulphur Mountain fire which started September ... total aggregate nearly $100,000 in claims and are ...

...$68,000; Hobson estate, $5000; Hobson ... W. C. Harvey, $12,000, and Charles ... declined to thus settle the losses with the plaintiffs, it was learned.

Nearly sixty days have elapsed since the fire, and according to the attorneys representing the plaintiffs in the suits filed, no offers in settlement or agreements to appraise and arbitrate the loss have been made. Hence the suits.

Negligence in the construction and maintenance of the transmission line as well as the asserted delay of an hour and one-half in shutting off the power so that the fire could be reached with safety and extinguished are assigned as reasons why the fire got under way and wrought such damage and havoc.

Pantages Case Witness Held in Forgery Trial

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 14.—Jay Sheridan must stand trial in Superior Court on a charge that he forged a check for $250, Township Justice Arthur L. Mundo ruled today upon conclusion of a preliminary examination. He was remanded to custody in lieu of posting $10,000 bail demanded by Dep. Dist.-Atty. B. L. Comparet. I. N. Inskeep, handwriting expert, testified in his opinion that Sheridan signed the assertedly fictitious signature, "G. M. Whitcomb," to the check which the defendant deposited in a downtown bank, and, it is charged, drew upon.

Sheridan is further charged with having twice been in prison in the States of Pennsylvania and Missouri. Once was for forgery and the other for burglary, Comparet declared.

During trial of the Alexander Pantages case, when the theater magnate was found guilty of having criminally attacked Eunice Pringle, dancer, Dist.-Atty. Buron Fitts of Los Angeles called Sheridan as a prosecution witness. When, almost simultaneously, Dist.-Atty. Stephen Connell of San Diego threw Sheridan in the jail on the check charges, the two district attorneys "fell out." Fitts said Connell did it just to discredit the prosecution witness.

Long-Drawn-Out Suit Concluded

REDLANDS, Nov. 14.—Settlement of a suit which had dragged through the courts for several months was reached yesterday when judgment of $5000 was accepted by Miss Barbara Tasker, in her action against Mrs. Genevieve J. Cochrane of Redlands. Attorneys representing the litigants reached terms out of court while Superior Judge F. A. Leonard was awaiting the report of a physician sent out to verify the defendant's claim that she was unable to attend court in San Bernardino yesterday.

Four years ago suit was brought against Mrs. Cochrane by Janeway, Beach & Pratt, Los Angeles attorneys, to collect $78,000.90. Decision favoring the plaintiffs returned by the jury at the trial was reversed by Superior Judge Benjamin F. Warmer, according to assertions made yesterday and the case was brought to the Supreme Court by Attorney Pratt. Here Judge Warmer's decision was upheld and a new trial allowed. It was while awaiting the start of the new trial yesterday that the agreement was reached outside of court between legal counsel for the litigants.

The legal firm had transferred its interest in the claim to the plaintiff, Barbara Tasker.

TOO MUCH "FREE AIR" IN GARAGE AT ONCE

UPLAND, Nov. 14.—O. C. Miller and W. P. Jones began repairing their garage at 225 East Tenth street today. While the windstorm was at its height yesterday the high-pressure air tank in the ceiling exploded, blowing out all windows in the structure and shook buildings one block distant.

Miller was in the garage, but escaped injury. An automobile owned by Miss Florence Tarleton was in the building and was damaged.

THREE-COUNTY DISTRICT URGED

San Bernardino Republican County Committee Meets

Resolution Favors Joining With Orange, Riverside

Legislators, However, Not to be Bound by Action

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 14.—Joining in with similar action taken by committees in Riverside and Orange counties, the San Bernardino County Central Republican Committee last night adopted a resolution announcing its preference for a Congressional district to embrace the three counties. The committee, however, indicated that it realized the uncertainties of the census upon which the reapportionment will be based, and expressly provided that it did not seek to bind legislators who will be faced with the problem of protecting the interests of the county at the time the bill is drawn in 1930 or 1931. The motion for the resolution was presented by Lyman M. King, former State Senator of Redlands. Assemblyman Isaac Jones and Archie Brock, Grant Holcomb, J. A. Guthrie and Bruce McDaniel, chairman, participated in the discussion.

The resolution provided:

"Responding to the expressed desire of Riverside and Orange counties that in the apportionment of territory in California to Congressional districts following upon the 1930 Federal census, the county of San Bernardino shall be a part of the same district with Riverside and Orange counties, it is the sense of this meeting we are in agreement therewith, believing that the similarity of interests and industry in these three counties makes such a district desirable. This is merely an expression of preference and does not in any way bind the members of the Legislature from this county, in whom we have full confidence."

The committee authorized Chairman McDaniel to subscribe to the constitution and by-laws of the organization of chairmen of the ten southern counties Republican committees, which has discussed reapportionment at several conferences. The launching of an annual Lincoln Day dinner under the auspices of the county central committee was authorized. Committees will be appointed. Walter McIntosh of Mentone was indorsed for postmaster at that point to succeed George McIntosh, deceased. Vacancies on the committee were filled by appointment as follows: Colton, Walter Pfunder and W. O. Brown; Chino, Elmer Jeriberg, Thomas Bailey, August Phillips; Upland, Harlow Wilson, Mrs. I. C. Baxter; San Bernardino, John C. Ralphs, Jr.

Montecito Oil Well Opponents Spring Surprise

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 14.—With the dismissal of the suit to prevent the drilling of the test oil well within the zoned residential district of Montecito yesterday, county officials and residents of the community are awaiting the next move of the oil well operators before taking up the legal battle to preserve the zoning ordinance.

According to a report from the county planning department, if work is resumed on the oil well the operators will be arrested for violation of a county ordinance.

The dismissal of the suit against Mrs. Elena Meyer, owner of the property on which the oil derrick is standing, and William Inskeep, asserted operator, was a surprise move by the legal representatives of the residents who brought the action. A temporary restraining order to prevent the drilling of the well was granted two weeks ago when the suit was filed.

While the temporary restraining order was in force, the Board of Supervisors passed a supplemental act to the Montecito zoning ordinance, specifically prohibiting the drilling of oil wells in the community. This act was also passed as an emergency ordinance to make it immediately effective.

"CENTRAL" HAS GOOD ALIBI

Glendale Man Learns Why Frantic Calls for Firemen When Home Burns Gets No Answer; Telephone Wire Destroyed at Start of Blaze

GLENDALE, Nov. 14.—H. H. Hope, 203 North Maryland avenue, thought he had a perfectly good ground for complaining about the inefficiency of the telephone service last night, when he tried to call the fire department after he found his house ablaze. For what seemed like an eternity Hope jiggled the hook, keeping up a running fire of remarks that equaled the fire in their warmth, and finally gave it up as a bad job.

Rushing from the house he boarded a passing milk truck and told the driver to take him to the fire station three blocks away on West Broadway.

After the firemen had extinguished the fire and had estimated the damages at $1400, it was found that the telephone wire had apparently been burned through at the very start of the fire, rendering the instrument useless, so Hope has somewhat modified his opinion of the telephone service.

FINANCIER OPTIMISTIC OF FUTURE

Max Fleischmann Declares Business Sound and Stocks Will be Stabilized

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 14.—Dividend checks that will be mailed out this coming December by American's great industrial organizations will be equally as large as those received by stockholders of record in December, 1928.

This optimistic declaration was forthcoming today from Maj. Max Fleischmann, keen analytical student of international affairs as well as industrial conditions in the United States and generally recognized as one of the nation's foremost business men, who has just returned from the East.

"The stock market and the stocks used for trading purposes thereon," declared Maj. Fleischmann, "are undergoing a purifying process."

"Fictitious values have been created in stocks by market gamblers in spite of the fact that values should be determined solely by the earning power of the industrial concerns behind the stocks and, as a result, the inevitable is happening.

"When this purifying process is finished, stocks will go to their proper level.

"I do not anticipate any sudden or early recovery on the part of the stock market.

"Business conditions in the United States are intrinsically and fundamentally sound. The earning capacities of our great manufacturing plants have not been in the least curtailed by the events that have been occuring recently on the New York stock market. They are busy turning out goods for which there is a steady and ready market to return substantial dividends to the investors again this year."

CADET DIES IN MARCH FIELD FALL

Clark Beymer Killed When Ship Nose Dives in Crash from High Altitude

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 14.—When his plane went into a nose dive at an altitude of several thousand feet Cadet Clark Beymer, 26 years of age, this morning crashed to his death at March Field. Beymer was a member of the class to be graduated in February, next. He was registered from Venice and was the son of Mrs. Lillie S. Beymer, 63 Market street.

The plane was a complete wreck and the young man was dead when officers and soldiers arrived at the scene of the tragedy. Officers could make no statement as to the cause of the accident, they said, pending an official investigation.

"Dude Ranch" Promoter Ends His Own Life

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 14.—In a room of the beautiful hotel on his Deep Wells ranch, near Palm Springs, Maj. E. Everet, about 50 years of age, yesterday took his life by sending a bullet crashing through his head, it became known here late last night after the tragedy had been cloaked in secrecy throughout the day.

Maj. Everet, understood to be wealthy, apparently had gone to the room where his body was found at some time between 5 and 9 o'clock yesterday morning. His body was discovered by the foreman of the construction crew as he came to work.

Coroner C. S. Dickson, who spent a part of the day investigating the tragedy, last night refused to give any information regarding the case.

Maj. Everet is married and has been living at the Deep Wells ranch with his wife, it was learned. He has directed the construction of a large hotel resort building with the intention of establishing it as one of the "dude ranches" of the desert where city folks like to contact the open spaces.

Work on the project has been progressing rapidly and he has seemed in the best of spirits during recent weeks and particularly did he seem in an untroubled mood Tuesday evening, it was learned.

Members of the family are understood to have declared they knew of no reason for the act and asserted that to their knowledge he did not have an enemy who might plot against his life.

Boy Fractures Skull in Fall Off Street Car

PASADENA, Nov. 14.—His skull fractured when he was hurled by centrifugal force from the platform of a street car as it rounded a sharp curve, Harold Wheeler, 18-year-old John Muir High School student, had not regained consciousness late today. The accident occurred on North Lincoln avenue, at La Mesa Place, this morning.

City Director N. J. Shupe, who was near the scene, rushed to the boy's aid, and, being told by a passing physician that the victim's condition was critical, ordered the ambulance driver to go direct to the Pasadena Hospital.

The ambulance driver, however, drove to the Pasadena Emergency Hospital, where Shupe, who had followed in his own car, finally convinced the driver of his identity, and had young Wheeler taken to the Pasadena Hospital without unloading him for preliminary first-aid treatment.

GIANT TROUT CAUGHT BY SOUTHLAND MAN

Ernest Sadler and Catch

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 14.—This gigantic fresh-water trout came down to the sea at Santa Monica, but not on its own power. It was brought by automobile from Mono National Park, where Ernest Sadler of Ventura caught it from the bank of Convict Lake, after a furious forty-five-minute fight.

Believed here to equal or break all records for its species, the Loch Levon beauty weighed sixteen and three-quarter pounds and measured thirty-four inches. No official record could be sought, Sadler explained, because he did not catch the fish on a fly. He used salmon eggs and a hook, casting in from the bank of the lake. In the party were Frank Pritchard, 2024 Lincoln Boulevard, Santa Monica, and his daughter Virginia, who is Sadler's cousin. The beautiful specimen is being mounted to preserve it as a souvenir of a remarkably successful fishing expedition into one of California's great fish and game preserves.

Reseda Seeking Lower Gas Rate

RESEDA, Nov. 14.—Through the local Chamber of Commerce, Reseda residents are making effort to have the prevailing gas rate reduced for this community.

Some time ago when gas lines were introduced into Reseda a special rate, higher than the usual rate, was agreed on, with the stipulation that after a certain number of consumers could be obtained, the per-cubic-foot rate would be shaved to the normal charge. Residents assert there are sufficent consumers on the gas lines now to warrant the reduction said to have been promised. A committee has been appointed to take the matter up with gas company officials and will soon report back to the Chamber of Commerce.

Reseda also is asking for a reduction in Pacific Electric fares. Reseda is four miles nearer Los Angeles than Owensmouth, yet, it is maintained, both towns have the same fare schedules.

Lecturer Picks Weighty Theme

PASADENA, Nov. 14.—"Weighing the Earth" is the subject announced for the regular weekly public science lecture to be given by Dr. B. M. Sutton tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Norman Bridge Laboratory, California Institute of Technology.

The mass of the earth is known to be "more than six thousand million million million tons." Although this weight is too enormous to be comprehended, it has been determined with remarkable precision by methods which Dr. Sutton will explain in detail.

CITRUS RETURNS FOR YEAR TOLD

Two Redlands Packing-house Annual Meetings Held

Crafton Orchards Reports Its Greatest Season

Foothill Groves Reveals Gratifying Figures

REDLANDS, Nov. 14. — Two of the large citrus packing-houses of the Redlands district held their annual meetings today with reports showing heavy pack of fruit during the season.

The Crafton Mutual Orchards had the biggest season it has ever had. Announcement was made that David Derco has been made the manager of the house succeeding E. W. Ginsel who retired to give his attention to private interests. Ginsel will continue as secretary. The house shipped 160 cars of navels, thirty-four cars of Valencias, fifty-two of grape fruit and four cars of odd varieties. The officers and directors are H. H. Ford, Jr., president; E. D. Patterson, vice-president; E. W. Ginsel, secretary, A. D. Knight and R. L. Cranmer. The packing costs for the year were $54,732. The total revenue from packing was $79,000, leaving a return to the growers of $24,000.

PACKING-HOUSE BOUGHT

There were 131 growers of the Redlands Foothill Groves at the annual meeting. This association was formed five years ago and in that time has purchased the J. E. Straight packing-house and cleared all indebtedness except $20,000.

Speakers were C. P. Barly, general manager; J. A. Steward, sales manager, and Bruce McDaniel, counsel for the Mutual Orange Distributors, shipping agent for the house.

Perry, in his annual report, asserted that the Redlands Foothill Groves packed 298,576 boxes of fruit during the 1928-29 season. There are 139 growers in the house representing 1250 acres. During the season just closed labor alone represented an outlay of $93,484. The next season's crop be estimated will probably be 45 per cent of that of the season just closed.

GROWERS GET REFUND

Supplies purchased for members totaled $84,803. The house will refund to the growers a total of $35,485.50 on the packing season, or at the rate of 15 cents a box.

The old board of directors was unanimously re-elected, only one change being made because of the withdrawal of Dr. W. R. Hocock, who has sold his grove. H. F. Horton will take his place on the board. The full board is M. W. H. Williams, president; George Cortner, vice-president; T. J. Attwood, J. H. Straight, H. F. Horton, Charles Soffel and R. J. Henry, the latter a grower of Moreno.

Barbers Survive Close Shave in Crossing Crash

ANAHEIM, Nov. 14.—The thirteenth hour of the thirteenth day of November was a death grimace to Charles Brown and Curley Sims, Anaheim barbers. But only a grimace, for they were left sitting unscathed in the tool box of Brown's sedan after the tonneau had been shredded and demolished by the impact from a Pacific Electric locomotive.

Bound for Los Angeles to attend a barbers' school, the men drove on to the Pacific Electric intersection a short distance east of La Habra without seeing the approaching locomotive. The automobile was struck at the rear wheel and carried along the tracks for 150 feet, where it was cast aside without being turned over.

The men climbed over a 6x12-inch plank that had thrust itself into their machine from a broken platform on the locomotive and summoned a tow car. The barbers today were not offering their patrons a closer shave than the one they had with death. They were not scratched.

LINDY'S NEW PLANE READY

Lockheed Officials Ask for Police Escort When Ship is Transported to United Airport Today

BURBANK, Nov. 14.—That the special Lockheed-Vega monoplane which has been built here for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, will be transported to the United Airport, adjoining Hollywood Way, early tomorrow morning was the information contained in a request made by Lockheed officials today for police escort while the plane is being hauled to the new airport.

According to Cliff Henderson, the colonel and his wife are expected to attend the Western Aircraft Show Sunday.

Information at the Lockheed Aircraft Company today was meager as to the plans for the test flight to be made by Col. Lindbergh in the new monoplane but it was learned that the famous flyer is expected in Burbank sometime Sunday to make the test hop.

The plane has not been painted as it is reported that Mrs. Lindbergh desires to use a special color scheme for the new sky cruiser. Publicity men at the factory said late today that the Lindbergh plane may not be sent to the United Airport as "several minor adjustments have to be made."

According to W. L. Campbell, resident Boeing representative, the runways at the United Airport are nearly completed and are in condition now for flights by experienced flyers. He would not confirm reports that Lindbergh will take off on the field Sunday.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Covering and trade buying, prompted by larger domestic mill takings, were reported in behalf of smaller offerings in the South and rallies in the stock market caused renewals for 4c gains in totals during today's trading. Active months sold about $1 a bale above yesterday's closing quotations, but met a little more realizing and some southern selling at the advance, which was followed by reactions. The midafternoon market was spiny at net advances of about 5 to 8 points.

ELECTRICAL NET PROFITS SHARPLY UP

Diamond Manufacturing Earnings 51 Per Cent Higher for Period

Net profits of the Diamond Electrical Manufacturing Company for the ten months ended October 31, last, amounted to $126,811 after all charges and provision for Federal taxes, equal after preferred dividends to $4.85 a share on the average number of common shares outstanding during the period, according to a statement issued yesterday by J. H. Pengilly, secretary-treasurer.

Compared with the corresponding period of last year, the net earnings showed an increase of $42,961, or more than 51 per cent. The net earnings for the 1928 period were $83,850 after all charges and Federal taxes, equal after preferred dividends to $2.74 a share on the average number of common shares then outstanding.

Earnings for the month of October, which set a new monthly record, totaled $17,200 after all charges and provision for Federal taxes, equal after preferred dividends to 71 cents a share on the common stock, as compared with $11,865, or 45 cents a common share after preferred dividends in the same month last year.

Earned surplus increased $79,374 from $63,297 on October 31, 1928, to $142,681 on October 31, last. This surplus is sufficient to meet preferred dividend requirements for three years and ten months, Mr. Pengilly said.

Prospects for the remainder of the year are good, according to Mr. Pengilly, who estimated that the common stock would earn about $6 a share for the full year. The common stock dividend of $2 cash annually was recently increased by the addition of 4 per cent in stock, 2 per cent payable semiannually.

Net Income of Power Utility Gains in Year

Consolidated net profits of the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation and subsidiaries for the twelve months closed September 30, last, were reported yesterday at $2,939,885.31 against $2,791,792.85 for the previous twelve months, an increase of $148,092.46, or more than 5 per cent.

The operating revenues of the organization aggregated $11,059,591.86, against $10,254,606.19 in the former period, an increase of 7.85 per cent. This gain was due chiefly to a heavier demand for power for farm irrigation and sales activities in developing heating and cooking load, according to the statement.

Operating expenses, maintenance and taxes totaling $4,688,274.99 show an increase of 9.76 per cent, largely due to production costs and fuel for steam power, it was stated. Taxes, increased $140,000; interest charges, $100,000, and depreciation, $155,000.

Seaboard Bank President Sees Bright Future

A three-weeks business trip was concluded yesterday when George L. Browning, president of the Seaboard National Bank, returned to this city from visits to Oklahoma City, St. Louis, Chicago and New York.

"The banks in New York City, as well as Los Angeles, had anticipated and prepared for the recent stock market deflation and from a banking viewpoint the situation was handled in an excellent manner," said Mr. Browning.

"The deflation in market values of stocks and the ceasing of speculation would release an enormous amount of credit for use in the commodities and general business, and after a temporary depression caused by the psychological effects of the break, business should move forward with substantial strides."

RIGHTS EXPIRATION DATE SET FORWARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (Exclusive) Reynolds Spring Company has extended the expiration date for the right to subscribe to an additional 247,610 shares of common stock recently authorized, from the 21st inst. until January 24, 1930. Charles G. Munn, president, explained that such a move at this time would no doubt prove of benefit to stockholders in view to the present situation in the stock market.

SIGNAL OIL MAY PAY EXTRA

Declared 50 Cents Additional Last Year in Fourth Quarter; Stock Expected This Time

BY EARLE E. CROWE

When the directors of the Signal Oil and Gas Company meet early next week, the oil industry and the stockholders of this company may learn some cheerful news. About this time last year the Signal company paid an extra cash dividend, and it is not at all unlikely that an extra distribution of some kind will be declared this year, if unofficial reports are correct.

Oil companies, in fact, are the principal source of cheerful news in these days of gloom in the stock market. The industry, particularly in California, seems to have corrected its economic ills, and the companies are not backward in passing some of the anticipated benefits on to stockholders, as recent actions by several of the larger companies indicate.

PRECEDENT ESTABLISHED

Following the precedent set by Union of California, Rio Grande and Standard of California, the market might logically expect the Signal Oil and Gas Company to pay whatever extra distribution is made in shares of capital stock. Standard Oil of California authorized 2 per cent in stock as an extra, apparently in reflection of a prosperous year and in anticipation of larger benefits to come through stabilization in the industry. Signal Oil could have no better leader to follow.

While the Signal directors paid 50 cents extra in cash last year at this time, the rules of good business judgment at this phase of the cycle would probably lean to conservation of cash resources, especially in a business like petroleum, which has been unsettled for a good many years. Like most of the stronger companies, however, Signal Oil and Gas is earning sufficient to pay a higher cash rate, either regularly, or in extra distributions.

EARNINGS AMPLE

For the year Signal should earn approximately $7 a share, which comoares with the regular cash dividend of $1.75 annually. Net earnings for the first ten months of the year are understood to have been well above those reported in the corresponding period of 1928.

If the company decides to take extra dividend action, and to pay in stock, it would seem likely that the cash equivalent of the stock would run more than the 50 cents extra in cash paid last year. On the current market of 31 for the stock, a distribution of 2 per cent would equal 62 cents in cash. If 2 per cent is decided upon the cash equivalent would amount to 93 cents a share.

If payment of the anticipated extra is made late in December, as was done last year, the stockholders probably will realize a higher figure, assuming that the prices of oil stocks improve by that time to reflect progress in stabilizing the industry. Oil companies that have already paid out stock as dividends have had this possibility in mind, hoping that stockholders would receive greater benefit from additional shares than from a fixed payment in cash.

Supply House Votes Higher Dividend Rate

Directors of the Republic Supply Company at a meeting yesterday declared regular dividends for the year 1930 at the rate of $3 per share on the 200,000 no par shares of the company, J. A. Crawford, president, announced yesterday. Quarterly payments of 75 cents per share will be made on the fifteenth of January, April, July and October to stockholders of record on the first of each of the said months.

This action authorizes the payment in 1930 of $600,00 and the rate of $3 per share compared with the 1929 rate of $2 per share including extras, figured on the same share basis.

The company last summer split its stock two for one. Dividends on the old stock were at the annual rate of $3 with an extra of $1, the quarterly payments being $1.

Loan Executive Issues Warning

Charles A. Whitmore, California Building and Loan Commissioner, yesterday issued a statement warning investors who are approached to buy guarantee capital stock in building and loan associations to ascertain whether or not such stock is being sold under a permit issued by the Division of Building and Loan Supervision.

"No association, selling stock without a permit, or not possessing a State license to do a building and loan business, has any right to advertise that it is under State supervision," he said, adding that investors are advised that they buy such stock at their own risk.

Defunct Banking Trust Loss Set

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—George J. Mintzer, assistant United States Attorney, after looking over many entries today in books and papers of record of the Bankers' Capital Corporation, which was petitioned into bankruptcy Monday, estimated the losses of its patrons and those of twelve affiliated companies at $6,000,000.

Many of the books of record called for in subpoenas issued yesterday have already been delivered to Federal investigators and these are expected to throw light on a complicated system of bookkeeping which grew out of the interlacing interests of the thirteen concerns.

DETROIT, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—Used car sales of the Chevrolet Motor Car Company totaled 130,274 units in October against 89,716 in October 1928, a gain of more than 40,000 cars. Combined sales for September and October totaled 243,666 used cars against 173,163 for the same months last year, a gain of 40 per cent.

Moreland Truck Profits Higher

Net earnings of Moreland Motor Truck Company for the nine months ended September 30, last, were $140,146 after all charges except Federal taxes, equal to $2.85 a share on 49,222 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock as compared with $96,166, or 19 cents a preferred share in the corresponding period of 1928, according to a report released yesterday.

Gross sales for the period were $2,843,383, against $2,492,478 in the 1928 period. During the period 646 units were sold as compared with 587 in the first nine months of last year. Current assets as of September 30, last, were $1,850,092, against current liabilities of $548,900.

TRADE SURVEY OPTIMISTIC

Tenor of Responses from 600 Leaders in Business and Industry Generally Cheerful

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—General optimism as to the future volume and profitableness of American commerce characterizes a summary of views of 600 representative business men throughout the country, as shown in their responses to queries circulated in the last week by W. M. Kiplinger, conductor of a business information service here.

More than ordinary official attention has been given the information elicited by the survey, the frank but confidential opinions having been scanned by Cabinet members closely in touch with the commercial world. Practically all of those questioned are leaders in business and financial enterprises of consequence.

MIDDLE WEST BULLISH

Taking all the replies, it was noticeable that the middle western writers expressed themselves much more cheerfully than the average of eastern writers. Scores of the letters insisted that the fundamental soundness of American business could be gauged by the lack of stocks on hand in any lines of importance and by the lowness of general commodity prices.

Actual earnings of business enterprise, it was concluded by the majority, during the fourth quarter of this year would be fair for small as well as large enterprises, though it was also expected by many that the first quarter of 1930 would not show as large returns for corporations generally as the first quarter of the present year.

"No business panic ever happened when corporations had ample cash," one writer said in pointing to the business position of several organizations of his acquaintance.

"Farmers have not been speculating, and Christmas trade with them will be good," another westerner observed.

COAL IMPROVED

From Pennsylvania, a man in the industry remarked that "anthracite coal demand is improving," while still another mercantile specialist advanced the view that "chain-store business always improves with any declines in purchasing power."

Three characteristic general views were incorporated in statements that "basic industries are in good position;" that "slack is seasonal after nine months of record output;" and that "railroad buying now in progress may offset declines in other lines."

Other general views were that "purchasing power will be curtailed progressively for the next six months," while it was noted that "insurance companies have been lending heavily on policies."

A plentiful supply of business credit in all quarters of the country was also indicated, and comparatively few of the writers went into discussion of government or Federal Reserve policies as having been responsible for security price subsidence.

NEW YORK CUTS DISCOUNT RATE

Cut to 4 1-2 Per Cent Made by Reserve Bank

Fee for Paper Handling Down to July, 1928, Low

Slash Viewed as Harbinger of Better Conditions

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—The New York Federal Reserve Bank today decreased the rediscount from 5 to 4½ per cent.

The 5 per cent rate was established about two weeks ago. The change is effective tomorrow.

The reduction to 4½ per cent places the rate at the lowest level since July, 1928.

The latest reduction of the rate, coming on the same day that the administration in Washington announced a plan to reduce both individual and corporate income taxes, is regarded in Wall street as part of a plan to head off a depression in business which might result from the damage to confidence caused by the stock market crash.

During the moderate depression in industry in 1927, the rate was reduced to 3½ per cent, the lowest in the history of the Federal Reserve System, but with the beginning of violent securities speculation in 1928, the rate was raised first to 4 per cent in February, then to 4½ per cent in May, and to 5 per cent in July.

The first reduction, from 6 to 5 per cent, was made after the first violent convulsion of the market in the recent collapse, when it became apparent that the heavy flow of credit into speculative channels had ended. The credit of the market has reduced brokers' loans to the lowest levels in more than a year.

The reduction to 4½ per cent places the New York rate ½ of 1 per cent below the rates in force at the other eleven Federal Reserve banks, and is interpreted in Wall street as foreshadowing a general reduction.

Clearinghouse Re-elects Last Year Officers

Henry M. Robinson, chairman of the Security-First National Bank, yesterday was re-elected president of the Los Angeles Clearinghouse Association at the annual meeting of the members. Mr. Robinson has just concluded his first term as the head of the association, of which most of the banks in Los Angeles are members.

Other officers were also re-elected, including A. M. Chaffey, president, California Bank, vice-president of the association, and Henry N. Thompson, clearinghouse examiner, manager and secretary-treasurer.

Members of the clearinghouse committee are Messrs. Robinson and Chaffey, E. J. Nolan, president Bank of America of California; Ben R. Meyer, president Union Bank and Trust Company; H. R. Erkes, vice-president and chairman board of management Los Angeles division, Bank of Italy; Victor H. Rossetti, vice-president Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank, and H. D. Ivey, president Citizens' National Bank.

Richfield Buys Storage Tanks

Facilities for the storage of 22,000,000 gallons of gasoline and other refined oil products in the New York district have been acquired by the Richfield Oil Corporation of New York, a subsidiary of the California company, C. M. Fuller, Richfield president, announced yesterday.

Two distinct plants were taken over, one with 21,000,000 gallons of steel tankage and complete waterfront facilities at Bayonne, N. J., which was formerly the property of the Petroleum Terminal Corporation. The other terminal is the modern distributing plant of the Municipal Service Real Estate Company, Inc., on Newton Creek, Brooklyn, N. Y., which will be used as a tank wagon distributing bulk station for Brooklyn and Long Island.

Bolsa Chica Lists Holders

Shares in the Bolsa Chica Oil Corporation are held by stockholders in twenty-six States of the Union, the District of Columbia, the Island of Guam, France, England, Mexico and Canada, according to an analysis of the list of A stockholders just compiled by the company.

A total of 486,106 shares is held in California outside of Los Angeles. Of these 85,058 shares are held north of the Tehachapi Mountains while a total of 179,446 shares is held in States other than California.

Standard Oil Unit Pays Extra

NEODESHA, Nov. 14. (Exclusive) Standard Oil Company of Kansas yesterday declared an extra of 25 cents and a quarterly of 50 cents on its capital stock, payable December 16, next, to stock of record the 30th inst.

The last dividend was at the rate of $2 annually and was paid in June, 1924. It is understood that earnings for the third quarter were unusually good and that net profits for the fourth quarter will compare favorably with those of any similar period for a number of years.

MARKET QUESTION RAISED

Wall-street Banker Asks "Should Corporations Act to Protect Stocks in Trading Crash"

BY JOHN P. SINCLAIR

(Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—"Should a company, in a stock market crisis, protect its stock by taking its own money and buying stock on the open market in sufficient quantities to prevent the inevitable drop which other stocks, not protected, suffer?"

That question is asked by a Wall-street banker.

Study the gyrations of the 1200 stocks on the New York Exchange during the last thirty days. It is easy to pick those which were "pegged"—supported—held up artificially. When black Thursday dawned some companies, after meetings of the officials, decided to "peg" their stocks at certain definite figures, and to buy all stock offered at such prices.

One corporation—very large and prosperous—after an all-night conference decided to support its stock. Efforts to communicate with its president, who was in Europe, were unsuccessful. So it entered the market and spent more than $100,000,000 of its own money, buying the stock at the high "pegged" price.

But there is a limit even to that kind of activity. There was in this case. So much stock was offered that the company finally had to throw its hands up and let the market take its course.

Now its officials are fully convinced that it would have been better to let the stock drop, even if it went to a fraction of its former price. Here is a case where a company was far too interested in its stock and too little interested in its business. With $100,000,000, which was frittered away, it could now have started building and expanding without asking anyone for cash.

Yes, the big organizations have made mistakes, like the little ones. Some of them have made mistakes in the last two weeks from which it will take years to recover.

With the entrance of the sound pictures and their increasing cost, many small-town motion-picture exhibitors have found themselves in a precarious situation.

They did not have the resources to buy the new sound equipment, and the increasing costs of these pictures added to their burdens. So it looked like bankruptcy for many of them.

But a committee was formed, headed by Sidney R. Kent, general manager of Paramount, to study the situation and revise such contracts with the small-town exhibitors as seemed warranted.

So more than 3800 contracts with the small independent exhibitors have been modified, and $1,300,000 in film rental for the small owners has ben taken off.

"I believe the big producers of the motion-picture industry have an obligation to the small-town exhibitors," said Mr. Kent to me. "And I believe that the treatment accorded this type of faithful exhibitor will be the measure of greatness and wisdom accorded the leaders of the big companies of our industry in the years to come."

"Do you thing there is a real future for the small-town exhibitor?" I asked.

"The live, independent exhibitor who operates his theater properly, who sells his personality to his own community, will always have a large following. The industry and the public both need him."

"Have the good roads movement and the automobile anything to do with the changed conditions of the small-town exhibitor," I asked.

"The small-town exhibitor must be alert and a modern merchandiser in every sense, to offset the natural disadvantages inherent in small-town operation today," answered Mr. Kent.

Terms of the exchange of stock by which Home Service Corporation, United Linen Supply Company and Consolidated Hotels, Inc., will be brought into a consolidation through the formation of the Consolidated Public Service Corporation, a $12,000,000 holding company, was announced yesterday by John Morris, president of United Linen, who has just been elected president of the new company.

One and one-half shares of the holding company, which has an authorized capital of 1,000,000 shares of no-par, nonassessable, capital stock, will be issued in exchange for each common share of Home Service. The exchange for United Linen common stock will be on a share-for-share basis, and one share of the holding company stock will be issued for each three shares of Consolidated Hotels, common.

While no scrip or fractional shares will be issued, stockholders of the three units combining may dispose of or purchase additional fractions to make a full share on the basis of $19 a share for Consolidated Public Service stock. The exchange offer expires December 30, next. Application will be made in due course to list the stock of the new company on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, Los Angeles Curb Exchange or the New York Curb Exchange, Mr. Morris stated.

Home Service has 62,365 common shares outstanding; United Linen, 60,000, and Consolidated Hotels, 348,308 common shares.

Upon completion of the exchange of stock of the three constituent companies, Consolidated Public Service Corporation will own and operate fourteen power laundry plants in Los Angeles metropolitan area, five linen-supply plants and will operate under lease a chain of 110 hotels and apartment-houses containing more than 12,000 rooms. The company will have approximately 6000 employees and will operate a fleet of more than 500 motor trucks. Total assets are estimated at in excess of $12,000,000.

Foshay Company Receiver Quits

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 14. (AP)—Resignation of Joseph Chapman as receiver for the W. B. Foshay Company and appointment of former Judge C. J. Rockwood to succeed him was announced today. Mr. Chapman will retain his post as receiver for the Foshay Building Corporation and the Public Utilities Consolidated Corporation, another Foshay enterprise.

Mr. Chapman took charge of all three firms when receivership petitions were filed the 1st inst. In announcing his resignation as receiver for the W. B. Foshay Company, the general holding concern for a number of Foshay interests, Mr. Chapman said he quit in justice to creditors of all three companies after finding that conflicts of interests probably would develop.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Prices on the New York Curb Exchange rallied briskly today and their ground-floor gains in the active issues ranged from 1 to nearly 21 points with even larger advances in a few specialties. Most of the selling of weakened marginal accounts made its appearance and carried more than a score issues to new low levels.

The proposed cut in Federal income tax, the stock exchange inquiry into recent "bear splitter" and the appearance of organized buying support for high grade stocks provided the background for the afternoon, which embraced all grades of stocks. Trading was again in heavy volume, but failed to maintain the record set in yesterday's abbreviated session.

Electric Bond and Share was one of the leaders on the rally, closing with a net gain of 13 points at 84, after having touched 88. American Gas and Electric made nearly 17 points, while Allied Power and Light, small turnover; Allied Power warrants, American and Foreign Power warrants, Commonwealth and Southern, Electric Power & Light A, Northern States Power A, and Utilities Power and Power 2 closed with net gains of 4 to 7 points. The rebound in Oils was led by Gulf, which closed 9 points higher, Vacuum advanced 7 points, Atlantic Refining 5, and most of the others a point or two.

Investment trust shares also rallied sharply on the return of public premium. Goldman Sachs, Lehman Corporation, National Investors, Reynolds Shares, Standard Investing, Tri-Continental and Tri-Continental Allied sold up 4 to 6 points.

Wide irregularity took place in specialties. Auburn Auto sold off 20 points, Hydraulic Brake jumped 30 points, Deere & Co. (Del.) Second Series, 20%, and several others 8 to 10 points. Atlantic and Pacific Tea dropped 36 to a new low of 160 and rebounded to 178 and Hoodaille Corporation 11.

Among the new lows were Federal Screw, General Industrial Alcohol, Ground Gripper, Metropolitan Chain Stores and Potter Grocery B.

The closing price is omitted when same as the last sale. Unit low and close when no sale is made.

Dividend Paying Stocks are on the Bargain Counter

Upward movement which took place in 1928 swept down all stocks without regard to earnings, dividends being paid or any measurement.

This movement, as we have previously indicated, is over.

Stocks which are selling far below their intrinsic value should recover. Business is good. There is nothing in the business horizon. The investment position of the country as a whole have not been changed.

Individuals and the great investment trusts are now in the market to BUY. They are looking for returns.

Many sound stocks are yielding from 8 to 10% on the present price, and from six to eight times earnings. There is no justification for such prices. It is logical to suppose that a very substantial movement is shortly in order.

Stocks with the great oil stocks and the big utility companies. We believe that those who buy sound stocks at present levels may look forward only to substantial returns but a very substantial price.

We believe, in our opinion, many outstanding issues at present price levels. We have prepared a digest of six such stocks, which we will be glad to mail at once upon receipt of written request.

We suggest immediate action we suggest you call at our office either in Los Angeles or San Pedro, for your convenience.

This convenience we shall remain open each evening this week.

We will arrange to make purchases from $10 down on our Partial Payment Plan of Only 10% Down.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Bond holdings were again sacrificed for the benefit of stocks today and prices of fixed charge securities declined rather sharply for the third successive day. The Associated Press combined average dropped to a new low for more than a year. The composite price of 91.14 was more than a full point below the average for a month ago and 4½ points under the figure of a year ago.

The market's situation, however, is regarded as only technical, for bonds have been sold freely during the sharp declines in stocks, both to provide funds for weakened margin accounts and also for purchases of shares at their lower levels. A steady investment demand has been maintained during the temporary depression, and this is expected to quicken when market quotations have become stabilized. The credit outlook has improved vastly in the last two months, with loans for stock speculation showing an enormous drop. Time money, at 5½ to 6 per cent, is the easiest in several months contrasted with the rates of 9½ and even 9¾ per cent which held for a time in midsummer. The rates on bankers' acceptances are also working lower, while the New York Federal Reserve Bank has reduced its rediscount rate within a fortnight.

Obligations of the United States displayed moderate strength. Large blocks of registered Liberty 3½s changed hands at an advance of nearly ½ of a point. This gain was by far the largest in the group but the other listings attracted substantial attention.

The sharpest declines came out in the foreign list. Argentine and Chilean issues were especially weak, while German Republic 7s and numerous secondary loans dropped a point or more.

Share privilege bonds made a quick recovery in most instances. American Telephone 4½s rose 15 points, closing at 140, the top price of the day. International 4½s, 42, Missouri Pacific 5½s, 3, and Reading Coal and Iron 6s, 4, also were in demand and several others.

Quotations on leading carriers showed that holdings were sold with some fractions and losses of 1 to 2 points appeared in Baltimore and Ohio 6s. In and sold 6s. Chesapeake and Ohio general 4½s, Erie 1st 4s, and several others.

Bethlehem Steel listings stood out in the industrial division, showing an average gain of about a point. Inland Steel 4½s lost 1¾. Standard Oil of New York 4½s made a new low on a decline of 2¼, other movements also were firm to slightly higher. Foreign issues were weak. The Cuba Cane 8s and 7s going to new low.

The trend in the utilities was downward, although losses were small. New York Telephone 4½ capped to a new minimum on a decline of ¾.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission the zeros in quotations are omitted when the key figure in both buy and close when same as high.

COPPER FREIGHT RATE CUT PENDS

Sharp Slash from Points in Arizona Looms

Rail Board Examiner Finds for Local Port

Heavy Red Metal Shipment Gain Forecast

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

Freight rates on copper matte from Arizona to Los Angeles Harbor will be reduced radically if the Interstate Commerce Commission approves recommendations of its examiner, J. Edgar Smith. His report has just been issued on hearings here last March on complaints of class and commodity rates brought by the San Pedro and Wilmington Chambers of Commerce.

Steamship men say the proposed rate reduction would increase the movement of the red metal through this port by perhaps 300 per cent.

FAVORS HARBOR

Smith's reports, just received by the Harbor Department, intervenor on the bullion item in the complaint, finds the rate westbound on this item "unjust, unreasonable and indefensibly high" at $21.20 to $30.20 per ton from Arizona points and $31.20 from El Paso. He recommends a rate of $6 from Arizona points and not more than $8.50 from El Paso to here.

Present rates, he declares, give an "undue preference and advantage to Galveston and an undue prejudices and disadvantage to Los Angeles Harbor." Eastbound, the copper bullion can travel all the way from Arizona to refineries on the Atlantic seaboard by rail for $14.50 per ton, or for $12.50 if it is trans-hipped by water from Gulf points. Rates from El Paso eastward are $2.50 lower.

TRAFFIC GAIN LOOMS

A $6 rate has been in effect from Clarkdale for years, and from there has come the only copper moving westward from Arizona. It amounts possibly to 20,000 tons. Shipping men say this would jump to 100,000 tons if Smith's recommended rate for the whole area is approved.

They go farther, and indicate their belief that even the $6 rate is high, and they look forward to more relief from the Hoch-Smith resolution, which questions rates on all basic metals and orders a general study by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The latter, meanwhile, has fixed December 2 as the final date for exceptions to Smith's report. Its findings will come later.

CALIFORNIA HUB OF GLOBE TOUR TRAFFIC

California continues to hold the record for bookings on the big Red Star liner Belgenland, due here early in January, bound westward on a special cruise around the world. More than one-fourth of the 600 and some passengers to which the cruise is limited, are signed from California, a figure unequaled by any other State or country, according to Leo E. Archer, coast manager of International Mercantile Marine, of which the Red Star Line is a unit.

"There is no other section of the world in which so many travel-minded people are to be found as California," he declared.

It will be the sixth such trip by this ship, the largest ever to make special globe cruises, and will consume 134 days and cover about 30,000 miles. A side trip through the Sulu Sea to the island of Bali, will be a feature.

The stock market slump has not affected bookings, Archer said, twenty sleeping up one day for suites ranging from $4000 to $27,000.

Forty-five years of missionary work in Japan is the record of Dr. R. A. Thomson, who arrived from Kobe yesterday with his wife on the N.Y.K. liner Taiyo Maru, which brought fifty-four travelers and 1000 tons of freight. He said it is he who reopened the Liuchiu Islands, south of Japan to world trade in 1890, after they had closed following Peary's visit in 1855. He is a native Scot with degrees abroad and a D.D. from the University of Redlands. They are on their first leave in seven years, and after visiting Long Beach will proceed to Scotland till their return to Japan next autumn. The liner will embark 100 passengers, load 1500 tons of freight and sail back at 2 p.m. today.

American Hawaiian steamer Nebraskan put in from the east coast yesterday twenty-four hours ahead of schedule and with 3000 tons of sweets and other Christmas "eats" for discharge here. Items include almonds, dates, puddings, mushrooms, salad dressings, cigarettes and such. The Texan of the same line yesterday was loading 2700 tons of southwest copper, cotton and beans and Hawaiian pineapples for the east coast.

Actual dredging in West Basin under government contract will get under way by the middle of December, due to completion of laying of pipe on Terminal Island, according to Franks Construction Company. The job calls for deepening the basin's water way to thirty feet, involving the removal of about 600,000 cubic yards of earth. Standard Dredging Company has the subcontract. A booster plant remains to be brought from Oakland, and pipe laid across channel to connect with the line laid on Terminal Island, which will discharge into the open sea.

On the Pacific Coast folks say "Hello, how's your wife? How's tricks? How are you, and here's how." On the Atlantic seaboard they merely say "How." At least that's why Capt. R. Rasmussen says he likes this coast better. He is on his first visit here as master of the Knudsen motorship Nyhaug, operated by Winge & Co., from Iquique with nitrates. Balfour, Guthrie & Co., are agents.

FATHER SLAIN BY SON AND MOTHER WOUNDED

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP)—With one bullet from his revolver, John Rosinsky, Jr., shot his father and mother last night. The father was killed, the mother wounded. The police account of the affair says that during a dispute the elder Rosinsky sprang at his wife with a knife. The son snatched the knife from his father, picked up a revolver from a drawer and fired as his father sprang toward him. The mother, rushing between the men, was wounded in the arm.

METAL MARKETS

CLEVELAND, Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—Daily Metal Trade today says:

Galvanized sheet demand is not brisk, but sizes point to more stable business in this product than in the general run of steel materials. Highest steel mills in the Chicago district find back logs reduced to the lowest point in many months and large operations slowing down. Steel sales in Cleveland district were disappointing.

Larger tonnages are not developing and buying is being conducted along more decided hand-to-mouth lines than lately.

Sales resistance has increased and prices consequently are not so firm. Strip steel mills in the Pittsburgh district have cut operations to 90 per cent of capacity, with demand still lagging. Pig iron mills in the Pittsburgh district are filling their premost needs but are not buying large tonnages.

METAL PRICES

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Copper quiet; electrolytic spot and future, 18.

Iron steady; unchanged.

Tin firmer; spot and near-by, 46.00; future, 46.50.

Lead steady; spot New York, 6.25; East St. Louis, 6.10.

Zinc steady; East St. Louis spot and future, 6.25.

Antimony, 6.30.

E WIDNEY'S S ARRANGED

Funeral Will be Conducted Tomorrow

Los Angeles Booster Pioneer Years

Observed Yesterday at 81 Years of Age services will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. at Brasee funeral chapel for Judge R. M. Widney, one of the most active and prominent of Los Angeles pioneers, who died yesterday at the home of his son-in-law, Rev. Harry Watson, 1000 South Fort Drive.

Judge Widney, who was 81 years old, had been ill for about a year, but the time he was forced to retire from active practice of law had been admitted to the bar in 1873. The services tomorrow will be conducted by his brother, Dr. Robert Widney, who is only two years younger than Judge Widney was. Interment will be at Rosedale Cemetery.

BORN BY ROWBOAT

Judge Widney was born in a frontier settlement in Miami county, Ohio, on March 31, 1848. He came to California in 1868, making his first 50 cents in the state by rowing a boat at Santa Clara. Later he entered the University of the Pacific, from which he received his bachelor of arts degree and then his master's degree. Three years after he was graduated he was admitted to the bar in 1873 and married Mary Barnes. She died in 1916.

Judge Widney came to Los Angeles shortly after his marriage, coming overland from the east in a wagon train. At that time, according to Boyle Workman, his brother-in-law, Los Angeles was a village of 5000 inhabitants, but Judge Widney was confident in its future and had no sent pamphlets all over the country boosting the place, in the hope that friends not to come to California. He opened a real estate office in Los Angeles.

BOOMER DEVELOPER

In 1886 he was appointed judge of the Fourteenth Judicial District, Los Angeles county. He was interested in checking a whole-sale massacre in the Chinese riots of 1871, and was one of the founders of the First Methodist church.

He took the lead in bringing to Los Angeles the first transcontinental railroad to enter the city, the Southern Pacific. It appeared certain that Los Angeles had succeeded in inducing the road to run its line there as a result of this work of the Boosters' organization, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and drew up the articles of incorporation, with the assistance of J. G. Downey, R. Lamard, John T. W. Lott, M. J. Newmark and others, on the list.

The judge also was granted the contract to build the first house in the city, a horse-car line, to built the first house in Pasadena, a summer home for Indian chiefs, at a time when water had to be carried for miles.

Judge Widney was the man who first suggested the move that resulted in the founding of the University of Southern California, called on Dr. J. P. Widney, Dr. W. M. Bough, Dr. J. P. Widney, Dr. W. M. Widney and Dr. O. D. Compton to discuss the matter, and presided at the meeting.

Judge Widney leaves two daughters, Mrs. Harry W. Watson and Mrs. Ralph Widney Workman, a son, A. B. Widney, and a sister, Mrs. E. W. Hall, all of San Francisco.

It was reported by him that 5004 passports had been issued by him since January 1st. He said that number would exceed last year until December 15th. Most of the passports were for visits to South America. It was also stated that South American travel increased greatly in the last year.

GAS WASTE HEARINGS SHIFTED

Writ of Prohibition Action Ordered Transferred from Appellate to High Court

Confirming rumors that have been current in local Appellate Court and law circles for several weeks, the State Supreme Court yesterday officially ordered the transfer to its jurisdiction of the writ of prohibition proceedings sought by Santa Fe Springs oil operators in the State's gas wastage injunction suits.

Oral arguments, originally set for hearing in Division 1, District Court of Appeals, and which were continued from time to time and finally set for yesterday morning, were halted by the Supreme Court's action. Argument on the writ of prohibition, which temporarily halted the State's injunction trials before Judge Hazlett, will be heard in the State Supreme Court here December 11, when the winter term of the court opens.

The court will be in session here four days and the oil men's writ proceedings have been set down for the opening day of the term.

Funds Voted for Sports at Camp Seeley

With prospects of unusual development in winter sports in the mountains near Los Angeles, according to Supt. Hjelte of the playground department, the Playground and Recreation Commission yesterday appropriated $2465 for winter activities at Camp Seeley, in the San Bernardino range.

With this sum the department will put in a ski-jumping layout, a small open-air ice-skating rink and other conveniences for sport programs which are to be held throughout the winter months. In addition twenty-six cabins are being remodeled to accommodate visitors who already are showing more interest in winter activities.

Hjelte reported that it is probable that the growth of interest in mountain winter sports may require the opening of Camp Radford during the cool season, in addition to Camp Seeley.

ACT ON IMPROVEMENTS

Protests against the ordinance of intention for the improvement of Coiden avenue, between Halldale and Western avenues, were denied by the City Council yesterday, but action was deferred until December 11 on the protests against the ordinances of intention for the improvement of Dolores street between Broad avenue and Avalon Boulevard and of the streets in the Hyler-avenue and Langdale-avenue improvement district.

CHEST'S QUOTA FOURTH RAISED

Total Result of Campaign Given as $777,464

Colorful Gathering of Aides Taxes Luncheon Room

Women Carry Off Honors for Soliciting Work

The momentum gained in the first three days of active solicitation for the Community Chest was expressed yesterday by a colorful gathering of Chest workers, who taxed the capacity of the Sala de Oro in the Biltmore, and reported the results of their labors to date.

The sum of $207,436 was the report of yesterday's harvest. This brings the total amount raised to date to $777,464, which represents 24.44 per cent of the total Chest quota of $3,200,000. This sum has been subscribed by 45,333 individuals or 18.13 per cent of the 250,000 pledge quota goal.

While yesterday was known as "residential and business districts day," it really was "women's day," for from the moment J. A. H. Kerr, Chest campaign chairman, turned the meeting over to Mrs. Albert Crutcher, president of the Children's Hospital and chairman of the residential districts, to the very end of the meeting the reports announced testified to the splendid work being done by the women in these divisions.

VOTE OF THANKS GIVEN

Mrs. Critcher, veteran volunteer welfare worker for a quarter of a century, received a rising ovation from the assembled workers. Visibly touched by the demonstration, she paid tribute to her associates who have worked hard with her to perfect the finest residential divisions organization in the history of the Chest.

Ex-Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe was the speaker of the day. In a forceful address in which he traced the progress of the Chest idea, he urged the workers to "persuade everyone of their common responsibility, for no man has a right to consider himself exempt from this community duty."

William Lacy, president of the Community Chest, summarized his belief in the Chest as the best instrument devised for caring for the unfortunate. He said: "Our community duty is where we have been given the opportunity to earn our worldly goods. The Community Chest develops the character of our citizens and gives our city a soul."

Mrs. Crutcher announced that in each residential district the vice-chairman will award two American flags as prizes to colonels on the following basis; One flag to the colonel of the division with the highest money amount produced, and one flag to the colonel of the division with the highest number of subscriptions produced. These awards will be made on a basis or report on next Friday.

WINNING CAPTAINS

The vice-chairmen making the awards will be Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy, Mrs. Benjamin F. Bledsoe, Mrs. Florine Wolfstein and Mrs. Frank R. Schaefer.

The ten captains in the residential districts who led with number of subscriptions obtained to date were announced at the meeting. They include the following: Mrs. H. L. Carnahan, Team No. 815 of Division No. 33, with 54 pledges; Mrs. Leo M. Simmons, Team No. 490 of Division No. 20, with 54 pledges; Mrs. Thomas J. Murphy, Team No. 431 of Division No. 18, with 53 pledges; Mrs. J. J. Jarnette, Team No. 396 of Division No. 16, with 50 pledges; Miss Winifred Huntington, Team No. 457 of Division No. 19, with 43 pledges; Mrs. G. L. Matthews, Team No. 453 of Division No. 19, with 41 pledges; Mrs. M. B. Blickley, Team No. 384 of Division No. 16, with 40 pledges; Dr. Maurice Smith, Team No. 82 of Division No. 16, with 40 pledges; Mrs. Lizzie H. Buck, Team No. 266 of Division 266, with 35 pledges, and Mrs. W. J. Conrad, Team No. 376 of Division No. 16, with 34 pledges.

The grand summary to date was announced at the meeting showing the percentages of the various units to date as follows: Business district, amount raised to date, $33,981.65, representing 17.98 per cent of quota; residential district, including five divisions, amount raised to date, $40,729.13, represent-

TOURIST BOOM FORECAST

D. M. Linnard Predicts Unprecedented Travel This Winter to Southland Despite Stocks Debacle

Southern California particularly and the Southwest generally are to be favored this season with unprecedented tourist travel and business conditions here will remain stable, sound and progressive despite the depression in the stock market, according to D. M. Linnard, operator of the Linnard hotel system, who recently returned from an extensive tour of the United States.

D M LINNARD

"The present hysteria in the stock market," Linnard said, "is purely psychological. The fundamentals of securities have not been damaged and are sound as ever. It is the 'paper fortunes' that have fallen. Sane business cannot and will not suffer unless the people lose sight of the governing economic principles."

"In the periods of financial readjustments in 1903, 1907, 1914 and 1921 Southern California did not suffer because those investors here, residents and visitors, had invested wisely, kept clear of speculation and knew that the actual values could not be destroyed."

In addition to his optimistic opinion on finance, Linnard, drawing on thirty years' experience as operator of hotels, feels that the tourist influx will be greater this year because of the growing popularity of Southern California throughout the United States. He said that wherever he went on his recent tour he found people expressing the desire and intention to come to the Southland.

Linnard also felt that the Southwest generally is just entering an era that will see remarkable development of winter resorts adjacent to Los Angeles which will be needed to care for the visitors that each year come in increasing numbers.

"We are fortunate in having the most delightful locality in the world," Linnard said, "and we shall

THOUSANDS SEE OPENING OF FESTIVAL

Santa Claus's Vanguard Welcomed Downtown by Gay Blast of Trumpets

Santa Claus's vanguards came to downtown Los Angeles last night to be met by at least 100,000 window shoppers, most of them top-coatless, but caught by the Christmas spirit that emanated from the dazzling display windows of the city's great stores.

At 7 p.m. Merry Workers, the helpers of Santa Claus, sounded bugle blasts at the major corners of the metropolitan district. Windows that had been darkened and curtained blazed forth in light.

It was the beginning of the first event on Los Angeles ambitious Christmas festival program—a program that will swing along in keeping with the rising spirit of Christmas holiday, one that includes a mile-long Thanksgiving Day parade and 100 other novel features for local shoppers.

Children, bareheaded during last evening's nearly balmy after-dinner hours, gazed with awe at the wonders in the store windows.

And winking back at them from their places of prominence in the windows were lions, wagging their heads; rolling-eyed jiggling dolls; bears—big shaggy ones, little teddy bears and just ordinary bears; tigers and monkeys. In one store on Broadway these ferocious playmates of toyland inhabited a realistic jungle.

And the children were not the only ones to chuckle at the mechanical toy displays. In fact some of the tots had all they could do to shoulder their way through the crowds of grown-ups that came to see the products of the world's toymakers.

Things that run, jump, speak and bark; things that fly; things that scoot along on tracks; things that climb; soldiers with guns; soldiers manning forts; racing motorboats that cut the water at a merry clip—in fact, the world in miniature was unveiled for inspection.

For the dominant tone of last night's display—to remain unchanged for a few days—was one that placed mechanical toys first.

This motif, however, left many windows filled with gift suggestions, ones costing much and many within the reach of the average pock-

JOHN QUINCY MURRAY'S will filed for probate Wednesday left $4000 in trust to a trio of grandchildren, but to obtain the income the two grand-daughters, Miss Jean Murray and Mrs. Alice Murray Laposss, must abstain from lipstick, face paint, dancing, jewelry and short skirts, and Malcolm John Murray, the third beneficiary, must never wear facial adornment described as "a Charlie Chaplin mustache" nor fritter away his time in motion-picture shows. If they, the heirs, do not fulfill the terms of the will the money goes to the superannuated ministers of the Free Methodist Church.

Yesterday the three grandchildren were engaged in deep thought.

Mrs. Alice Laposss, a bride of two months, and a social science teacher in the Gulf-avenue school at Wilmington, who is to receive $1000 if she complies with the terms of the will indicated she will attempt to meet the terms by lengthening her skirts a hem or two and foregoing the bobber's shears, and although she doesn't use make-up, she will miss the picture shows, she says.

Miss Jean Murray, a title company clerk at San Bernardino, and a favorite of her late grandfather, will receive $2000 under the same terms imposed on her sister. She is a bit more fortunate, however, because she does not dance nor use lipstick and her long dark tresses have never been sheared. She admitted, nevertheless, that the films are a powerful attraction.

While John Quincy Murray mentioned his aversion to skirts that are "too short at both ends," the girls feel that they can arrange that with the dressmaker and so seem well on their way toward the collection of their legacy. Besides, haven't long skirts come back?

But the case of Malcolm John Murray as to the acquiring of the remaining $1000 benefit is a little more difficult.

It would seem that he is going to have to rearrange things all around.

In truth he is Dr. John Malcolm Murray, a 27-year-old dentist of San Bernardino, and he smokes, dances, belongs to a fraternity, which is barred as a secret society, likes motion-picture shows and wears becomingly a mustache, although he says it's not the Charlie Chaplin variety. It was cut of that class when he left school, he says.

The mustache to the contrary, since he easily can go to the barber, which is forbidden to the girls, Dr. Murray smokes manfully and dances gracefully. He is unmarried, enjoys picture shows and will not likely renounce his fraternity, so he is in a predicament demanding the wisdom of a Solomon.

But mustache or no mustache, Dr. Murray is to be the executor of the will, and he indicates he will have something to say before he decides

ACTRESS TO BE LET OUT OF PATTON

Alma Rubens, Reported Cured of Drug Addiction, to Take Sea Trip

Alma Rubens, stage and film actress, is to be released during the week from the Patton State Hospital, where she has been confined four months undergoing treatment for addiction to narcotics. Probability of her prompt release was announced yesterday by Earl Jensen, director of State institutions at Sacramento.

ALMA RUBENS

Miss Rubens will be taken to a mountain retreat for thirty days, during which period, according to the terms of her release, she must report or send a certified report back to Supt. Webster at Patton. Dr. Webster, Dr. Joyce, superintendent of the Spadra narcotic addicts institution, and Director Jensen served as a board of examiners, and reached the decision as to Miss Rubens's case.

If the report is satisfactory at the conclusion of this thirty-day probational period, she formally will be discharged. She then will go on an ocean voyage, probably to Hawaii, according to her mother, Mrs. Teresa Rubens. Supt. Webster reported to the State hospital board that Miss Rubens is "completely cured" of her addiction to narcotics. Information as to the location of the mountain retreat chosen has not been divulged by her husband, Ricardo Cortez, her mother, or Dr. Webster.

Miss Rubens was committed last February to Spadra, an institution for men addicts. She later was transferred to a home in Pomona, from which she escaped. She then was sent to Patton, where she is reported to have made steady improvement.

COL. LINDBERGH COMING HERE FOR MYSTERY PLANE

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will arrive here Sunday to test the fastest and longest cruising range pleasure airplane ever built—a Lockheed low-winged monoplane that has been constructed behind closed doors for Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh at the Burbank factory of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation.

A short communication from the hero aviator was received at the Burbank plant yesterday. Although the colonel desires his mission here be kept a secret, eastern press reports that he is coming brought the local verification.

MAY ARRIVE BY AIR

Whether Mrs. Lindbergh will accompany her husband is not stated in the colonel's message. It is understood the trip will be made by air. The Lindberghs are believed to be in New York.

The new Lindbergh plane is ready to fly, it was admitted at the Lockheed plant last night. Plans call for it being trucked to Los Angeles Metropolitan Airport and test-flown from there.

When the ship was ordered the Paris flight hero expressed a desire to be the first one to fly it. Col. Lindbergh probably will not take the plane aloft until Monday.

Mrs. Lindbergh, it is understood, has her own ideas on a color scheme for the craft and it probably will not be painted until after the test flight.

The monoplane practically is a flying gasoline tank. It will carry 540 gallons of fuel enabling the craft to fly 4320 miles at 160 miles an hour without landing. It has been named the Evans Special—after Edward E. Evans, president of the Detroit Aircraft Corporation, of which Lockheed is a subsidiary.

MYSTERY IN USE

Considerable mystery has surrounded the plane since Col. Lindbergh ordered it. Lockheed officials assert that they do not know why the Lindberghs want a craft with such a wide cruising range. The ship could fly from New York nonstop to Paris and then on to Berlin with 300 miles to spare, estimating the 425-horsepower Pratt-Whitney Wasp motor's fuel consumption at twenty gallons an hour.

SHULER VERDICT POSSIBLE TODAY

Prosecutors Flay Pastor in Libel Arguments

Kent Parrot Denies Story Told by Churchman

Minister Pictured Leader in Ousting of Oaks

The case of Rev. R. P. Shuler, charged with criminally libeling former Mayor Cryer, will go to the jury of nine women and three men in Municipal Judge Pope's court late today.

Final arguments in the case began late yesterday shortly after Kent K. Parrot, politician, appeared as a surprise rebuttal witness for the prosecution.

Today the jury will hear Defense Attorney D'Orr and the closing argument of Deputy City Prosecutor Brockman. Cryer, associated in the prosecution, probably will not speak. Although each speaker announced that he intended to consume several hours in argument, Judge Pope declared that the case will go to the jury today if he has to hold a night session to accomplish it.

ASKS GUILTY VERDICT

In opening his argument Deputy City Prosecutor Lindley told the panel that there was not a word of truth in the assertedly libelous articles written by Shuler. He discussed at length the law and the evidence in the case and ended by declaring that the prosecution is entitled "to the verdict the evidence calls for—guilty."

Brockman took up where his associate left off and was even more sharp in his criticism of the pastor. Cryer, he said, had gone on the witness stand and testified how he made every dollar of his money, refuting any insinuation of graft that may have been intended by Shuler's article.

"You saw him (Cryer) on the witness stand," Brockman told the jurors. "There was no hesitancy, no stumbling about the way he gave his testimony. Now, you are privileged to take his appearance on the stand into consideration in judging the credibility of his testimony and we offer him in contrast of Mr. Shuler."

PARROT TESTIFIES

Parrot testified immediately after Defense Attorney D'Orr had rested his case at 2 p.m. In response to questions, he flatly contradicted testimony previously given by Shuler, his words leaving no doubt of his disagreement with the testimony given by the minister.

Shuler had testified that Parrot had told him on one occasion that he (Parrot) was forced to solicit campaign funds for Cryer because of the latter's small personal fortune when he ran for Mayor the first time; that Parrot had told him that Cryer was a poor man that "didn't have a lick of business sense." The testimony was given in support of his reason for "challenging" Cryer to explain wealth he accumulated during his incumbency.

"Did you make that statement to Mr. Shuler?" asked Cryer, who, as associate counsel, was examining the witness.

"I did not; neither directly or indirectly," replied Parrot.

"Did you say I was a poor man?"

"I did not."

Parrot continued with the assertion that not only did he not say that Cryer was poor, but had told Shuler that the Mayor was a man of independent means, possessed of considerable property.

OUSTING OF OAKS

The witness asserted in answer to further questions that he did not "order" Mayor Cryer to discharge former Chief of Police Oaks; in fact, he declared that Shuler and Dr. Montgomery, once Police Commissioner and Anti-Saloon League head, who were present at a conference at which the Oaks discharge order was signed had "taken the lead" in the ouster proceedings.

On cross-examination, Parrot refused to alter his testimony in any major detail, adding to his former assertions the statement that he never made any demand of Cryer "in any shape or form" in the Oaks matter.

DAVIS CHARGES DUE TODAY

Commissioners Drake and Pierce Say Chief Will be Accused of Incompetency and Neglect

General charges of incompetency and neglect of duty divided into several counts are scheduled to be filed against Chief of Police Davis by the Police Commission today, according to Commissioners Drake and Pierce, who, together with several members of the City Attorney's office, have been preparing the accusations.

With the charges filed, the Police Commission, sitting in special session, must decide whether or not Chief Davis will be suspended pending his public hearing and a time will have to be fixed for the public trial of the eighteenth man in twenty years to head the local police department.

HEARING IN TEN DAYS

Rumors about the City Hall yesterday were to the effect that Davis will be retained in office until the hearing and that it will be set for ten days from today. None of the police commissioners, however, nor the Mayor would comment on the situation, although Mayor Porter was quoted several days ago to the effect that he can see no reason for Davis's suspension pending the trial.

In the meantime, Mayor Porter yesterday morning called on Dist.-Atty. Fitts and was in conference with him for more than an hour. Both of the public officials declared following the meeting that it was a "social" call and that the police matter did not come up for discussion.

STEWART INVESTIGATES

And with the decks cleared for persons seeking the removal of Chief Davis to come out in the open with their charges and enable Davis to learn just what he is accused of having done or not done, Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Stewart, in charge of the investigation of the asserted conspiracy to produce false testimony against the Chief, as disclosed almost a week ago by Miss Odette Bachelard, French dancing girl, announced that detectives from his office are delving into the various angles of the asserted plot and progress is being made. Stewart refused to reveal any details of his investigation.

Up to a late hour yesterday Chief Davis had not been notified by any member of the Police Commission that the charges expected for the past two weeks, are to be filed today and declared that, while he had been unofficially informed that a special meeting of the commission was called for 10 a.m. today, that so far he had not been invited.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

"I AM wondering if the newspapers will decide to devote any space to me," writes the young girl who committed suicide in Philadelphia by throwing herself from an airplane.

If that is what she did it for—which is extremely probable—it would seem that she must feel pretty sure the papers are delivered regularly in the next world. Otherwise headlines would not be much satisfaction to her.

DEATH OR OBSCURITY

When I was a police reporter murders generally left me cold; embezzlements bored me to tears; but how I licked up suicides!

One fact always astonished me; the farewell-to-the-world notes were always so well written and had so much genuine drama. I have known more than one case where the suicide was very obviously sorry he had written the note, but, having done so, killed himself (usually herself) rather than tear it up, or where it had been mailed beyond recall, rather than fail to make good on it.

A good many sentimental crooks would have been respectable citizens if some other way were provided whereby they could show off; and a good many suicides would be alive and happy if they had been able to think of some other outlet for their avid appetite for melodrama.

WHERE STATE BEGAN

I am writing this in San Diego. This town always puts me under a spell. There is more history here to the square inch than in any other city in the United States—unless it might possibly be Santa Fe, N. M.

Yet I think that for great drama San Diego stands alone. Cabrillo landed here a century before our forefathers ever heard of Plymouth Rock; Vizcaino, Vancouver, Fray Junipero Serra—this old town whispers of their memories.

THE OLD MISSION

The ruin that was Father Serra's first mission is the loveliest relic on the American continent. Age has given it a soft radiance. Although it has been saved from further destruction, no attempt has been made to restore it; and this is well. As it stands in the glow of the dying sunset it seems to be like the embodiment of the tears and the disappointments—the quiet joys, the serene consecration of the sweet soul of the founder of the missions.

To restore it—to clothe its ghost walls in new brick and mortar, would be like putting a toupee on the bust of Socrates.

If you love this old mission as I do, you can restore it in your imagination.

THE ITALIAN REVOLT

Inasmuch as the report comes from a French date line, the story of the revolt of a group of towns in Northern Italy may be taken with a grain of salt. Yet if it hasn't happened, it is by no means an improbable event. There is bound to be a reaction against the tight rein held by Il Duce. Especially in the north of Italy, where Austrian propaganda is always at work.

THE BAND'T STRONGHOLD

Sheriff Traeger is looking for the wrecker of the Southern Pacific train in the old stronghold of Tiburcio Vasques, the bandit.

If the ghost of old Tiburcio lingers there, at the mouth of Owens River Valley, I think he will resent the intrusion. Jem-

STUDIO BOMB LINKED TO RED

Explosive Expert Declares Type Not for Films

Deadly Content Would Have Caused Catastrophe

Detectives Watch Suspect and Trace Dynamite

Corroboration of the theory that an anarchist fashioned the bomb, packed with enough dynamite and shrapnel to have caused an appalling catastrophe of death and destruction, which was found at the abandoned Metro studio lot at Cahuenga Boulevard and Willoughby street, was given to police yesterday by J. D. Vail, superintendent of explosives at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in Culver City.

Mr. Vail declared, according to Captain of Detectives Katzenberger, that bombs of this type never had been constructed by any of the motion-picture companies and it therefore could not have been intended for use in any legitimate blasting project. Studio bombs, used in scenes calling for explosions never are formed with metal containers, he explained.

POWERFUL BOMB

The bomb found by J. Kenworthy, night watchman, under an old warehouse on the former site of the Metro studios, was constructed of a piece of steel pipe fourteen inches in length, four inches in diameter and contained sixteen sticks of dynamite, broken in half and tamped tightly into the cylinder with more than 200 steel ball bearings as shrapnel. An electric detonator equipped with wires was found sunken four inches into the powder. A spark from a flashlight battery would have set it off, Katzenberger stated.

Search for a suspect narrowed yesterday though Katzenberger still declined to disclose information obtained by himself and Detective Lieutenants Colling, Slaughter and Kleinfeld in their investigation of the case.

RADICAL SUSPECTED

"We are almost certainly convinced," Katzenberger stated, "that the bomb was made by a radical with intention to use it on Armistice Day. Only the presence of a gang of workmen at the old lot on that day, we believe, prevented the anarchist from getting hold of the bomb. Explosion of the machine undoubtedly would have been destructive enough to blow up part of an entire city block building. We have a suspect under surveillance at present."

Investigation of the bomb discovery is being carried on by Katzenberger and his safe and loft squad under Captain of Detectives Lynn, head of the police burglary detail of which the safe and loft squad is a part.

CHECK CARRIED ON

While Katzenberger and his men were investigating angles of the case which may reveal where the explosive was obtained and where the bomb was constructed, Capt. Lynn declared he had detailed other men to check on several other recent finds of dynamite.

Capt. Felts, explosive expert of the police department, who took the bomb apart, declared that he never had seen such a dangerous explosive machine since the Haymarket riots in Chicago in 1888 in which nearly a score of policemen were killed.

Pickwick Plans New Mail Line

Thomas E. Morgan, general manager of Pickwick Airways, Inc., announced yesterday that the company has been granted a contract by the Guatemala Postoffice Department for carrying the mail between Guatemala City and Flores, center of the chicle producing territory in Northern Guatemala.

Inauguration of a weekly round-trip mail, express and passenger service over the 163-mile air route is scheduled for about December 1, Mr. Morgan said. There is no railroad between the two cities, and the 225-mile journey by ox cart or mules requires from eighteen to twenty days. Pickwick planes fly the route in one and one-half hours.

JUDGE ANNULS MARRIAGE HUSBAND TERMED COSTLY

One day of married life cost Rudolph Stahl $850, according to his cross-complaint to an action brought by Mrs. June De Masters Stahl to annul their marriage. Following a hearing before Superior Judge Engs yesterday the annulment was granted.

The plaintiff's petition, filed by Attorney Arthur C. Fisher, set up that Mrs. De Masters already had a husband when she married Stahl. His cross-complaint had been filed by his counsel, Frank K. Titus.

The couple were married at Riverside on March 3, 1927, and separated the same day.

Stahl asserted that when he courted Mrs. De Masters she agreed to marry him if he would lend her money. He says he gave her $450.

Following the marriage ceremony, according to Stahl, his bride told him her father was ill and it would be necessary for her to live with him. She asked Stahl to loan her $15 a week for a time, promising him that later she would live with him as his wife. Mrs. De Masters borrowed $400 in this manner, it was said. Later she told him she already had a husband. In his cross-complaint Stahl asked for an annulment of the marriage and a judgment for $850. However, when the case was called yesterday there was a stipulation on file whereby Stahl let his side go by default.

And each window had its admirers. From First to Twelfth streets and from Figueroa to Main streets, onlookers strolled, halted to gaze and strolled on again.

WHO STOLE TROJAN WAR FLAG?

Students All Worked Up Over Deed

Many Solutions Suggested

Sam Newman, president of Trojan Knights; Bud Medbury, president of Trojan Squires, and Martha Van Buskirk, co-ed, examining flag staff on which Trojan war flag hung before it was stolen.

JUST who stole the Trojan war flag from its mast fastened to the tower of the Bovard Administration Building on the University of Southern California campus is unknown, but at least 100 possible solutions were offered yesterday by campus sleuths.

The traditional flag had been flying since it was unfurled at a Tuesday morning rally for the Notre Dame game. It was scheduled to fly until the game is played. Late Wednesday night the flag mysteriously disappeared.

Bud Medbury, president of the Trojan Squires, sophomore organization which was supposed to take care of the flag, said he had received no orders to maintain a guard in the tower. Sam Newman, president of the Trojan Knights, senior organization which supervises the work of the Squires, said he thought no guard would be needed.

Each organization blames the other, and the students gather in small groups to discuss the possibility of another repetition of the Stanford ax case, involving University of California students.

Britain Seeking Talkie Talent

What is described as "the greatest dearth of directorial talent ever experienced in British film annals" may result in an influx of American directors in England, according to Denison Clift, well-known Los Angeles director-dramatist, who yesterday received two bids to produce talking pictures in London, from which metropolis he but recently returned.

The advent of audible screen entertainment, declares Clift, is the cause of this unusual condition. But few British directors are familiar with talking-picture production methods.

BORROWING TIPS GIVEN BY SPEAKER

Junior Chamber Hears Building and Loan League Official at Luncheon

"How to approach a building and loan company official for a loan on real estate," might well have been the title of a talk given the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Biltmore yesterday by R. Holtby Myers, vice-president of the United States Building and Loan League. He was the speaker at the organization's weekly luncheon meeting.

"There is a vast but apparently generally unrecognized difference between the wants and the needs of the average human being," he told his hearers.

"Building and loan officials never ask a prospective borrower to state the amount he wants. That would be fatal and would lead nowhere. We ask 'How much do you need?' and the difference always proves surprising."

The meeting, held in the Biltmore music room, was largely attended.

LeRoy D. Owen and Edward S. Shattuck were nominated for president at the meeting. One will succeed Kennedy Elsworth, who will retire in January.

Nominations for vice-presidents, of which four will be elected, include: C. Quinn Brady, F. Halsey Denman, Caine Farrell, Harvey Humphrey, Raymond Tremaine and Carl H. Wittenberg. For the board of directors, fifteen to be elected, nominees include: Walter Allander, Raymond E. Brown, J. Lamar Butler, Sidney A. Chernins, Everett N. Crosby, Lyman C. Dunbar, Aubrey Devine, Bert J. Easley, Waldo E. Edmunds, Kennedy Elsworth, E. W. Faupel, J. H. Gilliland, H. R. Goldnor, Daniel C. Hay, R. Randall Irwin, Allerton H. Jeffries, Harry B. Lamport, Ralph D. to shave his upper lip, quit dancing or whatnot for the will.

"Grandfather was a Free Methodist and very religious," Dr. Murray said, "and hated to se me smoke. I don't know what I'm to do about this thing."

"I think I'll comply," Mrs. Lapossa says. "I'll miss the movies, though."

Miss Jean is the only one of definite mind just now.

"I've already started to live up to the conditions," she says. She is a pretty girl, not long out of high school, but is efficient in her work and an artist of considerable ability. Miss Jean suffered an attack of infantile paralysis when a child, but her disposition is sunny and cheerful.

Considering Dr. Murray's mustache and his views of pleasure, the superannuated ministers of the Free Methodist Church still may be on the track in the sweepstakes for his share of the money, for, if the rules and provisions of the will are violated by any of the trio the ministers receive the share.

But if the superannuated ministers wear watch chains or their wives go in for wrist watches the will says they shall have none of the money, and there's no telling where it will go in this age of one pleasure or another and mustaches. taches.

INITIAL HEARING SET IN TRAFFIC KILLING

Charged with manslaughter and failure to stop and render aid, John Clark Bebb is scheduled for preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Ambrose the 19th inst. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Bebb is 37 years of age and lives at 248 South Western avenue.

WITNESS IN PANTAGES TRIAL SUES

Man Who Wrote Pringle Girl's Playlet Seeking $500,000 for Slander

Nicholas A. Dunsaev, playwright and one of the State's principal witnesses at the recent trial of Alexander Pantages, yesterday filed suit in Superior Court against Pantages for $500,000 damages for asserted slander.

Pantages, who was convicted of a statutory offense against Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, charged that Dunsaev, Miss Pringle and others with conspiring to "frame" him, according to the complaint, which was prepared by Attorney S S. Hahn.

Dunsaev, who wrote the play Miss Pringle was trying to place on the Pantages circuit at the time of the asserted attack, makes Pantages's reputed remarks about him the basis of his slander suit. The playwright declares Pantages's asserted charges are false and caused him great mental anguish. He asks $200,000 general and $300,000 exemplary damages.

About two weeks ago Frederic Taylor Wise, another prosecution witness in the Pantages trial, filed a similar suit against the multi-millionaire for $350,000 damages. Wise's action, which now is pending in Superior Court, charges Pantages accused him of conspiring with Miss Pringle and others to make Pantages the victim of a blackmail plot.

was unannounced. Throughout the trial he has been the target of many caustic references by Shuler, who charged that he gave Cryer orders while the latter was Mayor and was friendly to interests involved in underworld activities.

ATTACKS ADMITTED

Shuler resumed the stand for further cross-examination when the trial opened yesterday morning. He admitted that he had made verbal attacks on four out of five chiefs of police that served during the Cryer administration. He admitted also that there always was a representative of the Church Federation on the Police Commission through Cryer's incumbency.

On redirect examination, the pastor asserted that Jim Alexander, a negro politician, once told him that he had been employed by Parrot to check on various vice resorts and report these places to Cryer, and that Alexander also told him he was employed by Bob Gan to check against merchants operating slot machines so that the merchants would be forced to give the police a "fair cut."

MRS. WYMAN TO GIVE NEW YULETIDE RECIPE

The holiday season fast approaches but it will find those attending The Times cooking classes awaiting eagerly the days so that they proudly can place their newly learned recipes on the festive board. Chef Wyman will prepare a new kind of stuffing in her stuffed roasted Arabian chicken and two kinds of garnishes—spiced apple rings and stuffed baked oranges. These can be placed in a ring around the chicken or served separately. The persimmon now in season will be utilized in the form of persimmon sponge and oyster souffle will be included as a luncheon or supper suggestion. The Times holds free cooking classes every Tuesday and Friday afternoon in the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway. All recipes are prepared by Mrs. Mabelle Wyman. Classes are open to the public.

VERDICT IN DEATH CASE

of Mrs. Bolton Still Issued After Inquest

Refuses to Testify Cause of His Wound

of Bullet Victim Tells of Asserted Threats

Mrs. Estelle Bolton, 30-year-old wife of John Bolton, Los Angeles [illegible] proprietor, came to her death a week ago Sunday from a bullet [illegible] by a person or persons unknown, the homicidal finding according to a verdict returned by a Coroner's jury yesterday afternoon.

The young husband, refusing to take the stand to testify in his behalf, stating that he was suffering from the bullet wound and therefore would be unable to collect his thoughts sufficiently to discuss the case.

Despite the [illegible] damaging evidence against Bolton by Deputy Chief, an aunt of Mrs. Bolton, who said that Bolton and [illegible] of his wife and had uttered threats against her, the [illegible] Bolton evaded questions put to him by the Sheriff office when [illegible] to sign a release in order that officials might remove the body from the County Morgue to enable funeral arrangements. Bolton refused to sign the paper, stating that the officers would not be able to view the body.

Bolton was taken to the Coroner's office, where his request was granted. A few minutes later he was questioned again by newspaper reporters. When this was questioned again by Deputy District Attorney William J. Bright, chief of the county homicide investigation staff, Bolton still denied any connection with the slaying.

According to Bolton's story, his wife died and he was wounded early last Friday morning on Roosevelt Highway, when two bandits held them up and robbed him of $20. Mrs. Bolton was shot twice in the head and Bolton received a flesh wound in the left shoulder.

He told officers that after the bandits had taken his money Mrs. Bolton recognized one of them, and asked him if his name was not Woods, whereupon the other bandit said, "You'd better bump them off." The shooting followed, according to Bolton.

Investigators contend, however, that the evidence indicates the shooting could not have occurred in the manner asserted by Bolton.

He was returned to the County Jail and held under suspicion of murder pending a hearing before the county grand jury next Tuesday.

HEARING POSTPONED

While negotiations continue to go forward which may lead to the abandonment of the proceedings for the opening and widening of Raymond avenue, between Eighty-third street and Manchester avenue, the City Council again yesterday postponed until December 11 hearing the appeals against the confirmation of the assessments which have been levied.

SELF-INFLICTED WOUND RUED

Barber Walks from Home to Hospital After Firing Suicidal Bullet

After shooting himself yesterday, Frank McKay, 37 years of age, a barber, decided to continue living and walked from his home at 929½ South Ardmore avenue to the Methodist Hospital.

Police who interviewed him there report that McKay admitted he shot himself with suicidal intent because his wife threatened separation.

HUGE CROWD GOES DAILY TO AIR SHOW

More Than 67,500 Attend Exhibits During First Six Days of Exposition

More than 67,500 persons attended the Western Aircraft Show during the first six days of its run, according to a check of gate receipts revealed last night by Managing Director Henderson.

American Legion Day at the exposition headed the list for attendance with 12,500 persons.

"The interest displayed by Los Angeles in this exposition has far exceeded our expectations," Henderson declared. At the present rate of attendance, he stated, it is expected that the total for the nine days will be in excess of 115,000 persons. The show closes Sunday night.

Exhibits totaling $2,000,000, which have been gathered from all parts of the United States and Europe, are on display at the show and occupy 100,000 square feet of floor space. Sixty five airplanes are shown, which range in size from the smallest two-seater to the giant trimotored transports.

Featured in the aeronautical equipment is the first known reversible propeller which enables a plane on the ground to back up the same as an automobile. Instruments which make possible the safe passage of a plane through the densest fog and over high mountains are also on exhibition.

Doors of the expedition building open each day at noon and close at 11 p.m.

WORK OPPROVED

The City Council adopted final ordinances yesterday for the improvement of Eleventh street between Kingsley Drive and Hobart and for the construction of sewers in Ninety-third street between Figueroa street and its western terminus.

JOBLESS NEWCOMER LANDS IN HOSPITAL

Miss Marie Lee

Despondency over failure to obtain work landed Marie Lee, 19 years of age, in Georgia-street Receiving Hospital early yesterday for treatment of iodine burns suffered, according to a police report, as the result of an attempt at suicide.

Miss Lee is an entertainer and until a few days ago she lived in San Francisco. But work was scarce, so she decided to try her luck in Los Angeles. Unable to find employment by the end of the day, and without funds, she walked the streets all night. Just before daybreak she bought a bottle of iodine and swallowed it at Fourth and Figueroa streets, where she collapsed. A taxicab driver rushed her to the hospital, where Police Surgeon Saverien treated her and then turned her over to Juvenile Hall.

GOV. YOUNG IN ADDRESS HERE TODAY

San Bernardino Speech and Talk Before Local Bankers Also Scheduled

Tonight he will address a group of service clubs at San Bernardino. Accompanying him there, according to the schedule announced at the Governor's local office yesterday, will be Lieut.-Gov. Carnahan, Lyman King, former chief of the Division of Service and Supply, State Department of Finance, and State Assemblyman Isaac Jones.

Tomorrow Gov. Young is scheduled to address a group of Los Angeles bankers and will depart for Sacramento tomorrow night.

HOSPITAL ADDITION PLANNED

Ground to be Broken for $1,000,000 Sylvan Lodge Structure December 15

Ground will be broken December 15 for a $1,000,000 addition to the Sylvan Lodge Hospital, on the northwest corner of Hoover and Willowbrook streets. The announcement of the project was made yesterday by Mrs. D. E. Bell, owner of the institution.

Plans as prepared by William E. Flannery, Beverly Hills architect, call for a seven-story reinforced concrete structure of modern design.

There will be 168 guest rooms, each with an accompanying bath, a floor devoted entirely to hydrotherapy and physiotherapy equipment, a solarium, roof garden, library, kitchen, operating rooms and the usual hospital facilities.

The Southwest Construction Company has been awarded the general contract.

Gayner Joins Agency Staff

Walter Gayner, well known in Los Angeles advertising circles, has joined the staff of Smith & Ferris, Los Angeles advertising agency. The addition, according to A. Carman Smith, president of the agency, is part of a program of expansion and business development.

Mr. Gayner has been identified with Foster & Kleiser, a Los Angeles metropolitan newspaper and a prominent Los Angeles advertising agency. He has been intimately identified with the organization and financing plans of several corporations that have developed into large national and territorial advertisers.

THOUSANDS TO ATTEND EXHIBITION

Salvation Army Young People's Life Guards to Give Demonstration

More than 2000 delegates from all over Southern California are expected tomorrow night at the young people's demonstration in Trinity Auditorium. These delegations will represent every corps of the Salvation Army in the Southland. Commissioner Gifford, commanding the army forces in eleven western States and Hawaii, with the aid of Brigadiers Bell and Bradley, will have the affair in charge.

KENNETH BELL

Work of girl guards, life-saving scouts, life-saving chums and corps cadets will be demonstrated in a spectacle ending with a pageant of camp fire. Music will be given by the citadel band of Los Angeles and by the young people's band of San Diego.

A group of girl guards will receive the degree of "general's guards." This is the highest honor an army girl can receive.

Kenneth Bell, 16-year-old son of Brigadier Bell, noted for his acts of bravery the past summer in rescuing four people from the surf at Redondo, will receive a gold medal.

The Sunday sessions will take the form of inspirational meetings and conferences. These will be held in Patriotic and T.C.V. halls.

Fire Damages Three Homes in Pasadena

PASADENA, Nov. 14. (Exclusive) Rapidly spreading from building to building, fire tonight partially destroyed three homes near the intersection of South Catalina avenue and East Del Mar street, causing damage estimated at close to $12,000.

Apparently breaking out in the garage in the rear of the home of A. A. Martin at 1035 East Del Mar street, according to firemen, the flames first reached the homes of Mr. and Mrs. William Winning at 262 South Catalina avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Ball at 266 South Catalina avenue before leaping to the roof of the Martin house. A small sedan standing in a parkway near by also was consumed.

The conflagration brought out three engine companies. Because of difficulty experienced in making water connections, Fire Chief Coop stated he was going to conduct an investigation. He asserted that possibly through some mistake the water had been disconnected underground, delaying fire department activities.

SEWING CIRCLE TO MEET

The Loyal Women's Sewing Circle, Stanton W.R.C., will hold an all-day meeting today in Patriotic Hall, 1816 South Figueroa street, it is announced by Bird Thomas.

Aviators Will Stay Down for Ball Tonight

An aviators' ball in which several score prominent flyers will take part is to be held at the Ambassador tonight under auspices of Aviators' Post, American Legion. The ball will be preceded by a banquet arranged by the women's committee of the post. The grand march is scheduled to start at 10 o'clock.

The affair is to be in the fiesta room, which has been decorated to resemble a landing field. Music is to be furnished by the Beverly Hills Hotel orchestra, members of which are to be garbed in military uniforms and steel helmets. Joseph Nickrent, automobile race starter, will preside.

Those on the women's committee are Mmes. Helen Maddux, Frederick Williamson, Milton Bacon, George Burgess, Paul Richter and Norman Lyon. A dozen other wives of members of the post also assisted in the arrangements.

Invitations have been issued to many prominent persons and officials of Southern California and most of them indicated they will attend. Among those well known in aviation circles who are expected to be present are Amelia Earhart, Bobby Trout, Elinor Smith, Gladys O'Donnell, Lieut. E. W. Tomlinson, Henry Ogden, Ralph Graves, Jack Holt, Paul Penland, J. J. Quinn, McKinley Carr, Paul Perron, Richard Barnitz, J. J. Carris, W. H. Henry and many others.

Favors to be given the guests will be miniature airplanes and "blimps." Proceeds of the ball will go toward the building contemplated by the Aviators' Post of the Legion.

Six coal miners were among the new students at Ruskin College, Oxford, Eng., this year.

Today's Bible Text

"All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out." St. John vi:37.

COMMUNITY CHEST
Also the health and breathing capacity of a city may be known by its chest measurement.

LESS AND LESS
Girl in Hollywood who used to get $800 a week is now glad to be on the list at $125. That might be called reducing her figure.

UNEARNED INCREMENT
The most impressive fact disclosed in connection with the investigation of the lobby at Washington is that there are a lot of guys who are taking easy money.

ON HER OWN
Pola Negri has been eluding all photographers and reporters on her journey toward Paris. The lady doesn't want to make a talkie of her divorce, but she owes too much to the films to snub them in the eye.

THE HIGHER UPS
New British dirigible will take eighty members of Parliament on its cruise. Mayhap using them for ballast. On this side of the water a ship laden with legislators might be said to be taking on gas.

THE BIG PEACE
President Hoover invites the world to come to the Word's Fair in Chicago in 1933. By that time the big chief can promise that the town will be disarmed. In fact, a marked reduction in armaments is said to be already well under way.

THE SHORTER WEEK
Union bricklayers and plasterers are seeking to establish a four-day week as the measure of their labors in California. They may have a five-day week in other parts of the country, but there is so much to see and so many places to go in California that the toiler needs at least three days a week to make the rounds. But why work at all? By this time there should be leisure enough to go 'round.

WOOD MUST BE HARD
Congressman William R. Wood of Lafayette, Ind., is the new chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations. This is the group that must resist all the blandishments of the other legislators to save the Treasury from being looted. It takes a man of iron—like the late Congressman Madden—to serve as chief. The gentleman from Indiana is a man of Wood, but he is not soft Wood by any means.

BANK OF REPARATIONS
This new international bank will be located at Basel, Switzerland, which will make it handy for the Germans. All they will have to do will be to swim across the river and slip their money under the door. Incidentally although Basel is not quite as big as Zurich it is the richest town in the Swiss republic and has a bunch of millionaires. That should give the place the proper banking atmosphere.

MORE REDUCING
With everybody reducing why not try it on Mars and Neptune? In talking of the cut in world armaments President Hoover, in his Armistice Day speech, said that it cannot be too low for us. Let the reverse play be tried. Instead of building a new battleship every time somebody else starts one let's try give-away. See which nation will be the first to get rid of its war units. It's a good game and it doesn't cost much money.

THE LIVELY LADY
Speaking of mixed athletics here was a Tyrolean girl who the other day ran a quarter of a mile, rolled a hoop a mile, skipped the rope a mile, rode a bicycle a mile, danced a mile, swam a quarter of a mile and walked on stilts a quarter of a mile all in less than two hours. She took a ten-mile motor spin to kill the balance of the time she had alloted herself. Also it may be assumed that the damsel yodeled a few miles on the side. Here is a girl who can be kept awake without using pins.

TAX SLASH PROMISED
A dropping of the tax rate all along the line by 1 per cent, applicable to 1929 incomes, will be recommended to the forthcoming Congress session by the President and Secretary Mellon, it is indicated in Washington. News stories announcing the prospective slash carry the impression that it is to be done to stimulate business and help overcome the effect of the stock market collapse, but this is probably erroneous. It would be truer to say that the cut is considered justified by the state of the Treasury and by revenue prospects, and that it will undoubtedly have a favorable effect on business and industry. But the effect on business can only be incidental; it should not be the primary purpose of any such move.

The cut itself must be predicated on a favorable state of business, which has produced and is producing incomes in the current year far in excess of expectations, and since it is proposed in the face of probable huge losses in some speculative incomes, of which Secretary Mellon, of course, has full knowledge, the state of business which would justify a reduction is obviously not in need of much stimulation.

Of course a large amount of the loss in the stock market crash was the loss of something which never actually existed and which might never have been realized for income-tax purposes. A man cannot be taxed on paper gains, nor can he deduct paper losses in making his income-tax return. So far as the losses were actual, they have been balanced by the gains of speculators who played for a downward turn—and got it; in other words, a lot of money has changed hands, but very little has actually been lost. What actual effect the plunge in stock prices will have upon income taxes will not be shown until the returns are in, but it may not be very much.

The only inference that can be drawn from Secretary Mellon's statement is that despite what has happened or may happen in the stock market, industry and commerce are sound, are far better than in 1928 and that overwhelming proof of these facts is in the hands of the Treasury Department.

The reduction method proposed by Secretary Mellon may seem to some too absurdly simple to be just. But any other method would entail a detailed examination by Congress of the whole revenue-producing structure, and Congress would be unlikely to get this completed in time to do 1930 taxpayers any good. The present rates were carefully worked out, "hammered on the anvils of debate," and are presumably proportionately fair, so that if all are reduced the same amount they will still be fair. The cut will amount, in Secretary Mellon's judgment, to approximately $160,000,000, and Congress could give the nation no better Christmas present than to provide for it, by joint resolution, as soon as possible after December 2.

In reference to stock speculation, it will be noticed that the governors of the New York Stock Exchange have undertaken an examination of "short" accounts. This will be interpreted by some sensationalists as an effort to uproot a "conspiracy" to bear the market. It is not probable the investigators have any such idea in mind or that they will find evidence of any such conspiracy. There is plenty to show that the price recession was a perfectly natural reaction from a boom swing that had gone too far, and that, while bear trading may have accelerated it, it was not the cause. When stocks are not priced at more than they are worth, all the bear assaults in the world have little effect; when they are priced in excess of their true value, no amount of "public participation" will keep them there indefinitely. It must not be forgotten that taking of profits by short sellers helps support a declining market.

One of the causes of the prolongation of inflation, likely enough, was the income tax. Bull traders were reluctant to convert paper profits into real ones because of the high shares of their winnings they would have to pay into the Treasury, and this may have produced an artificial scarcity of stocks which helped in keeping prices up. To the extent that this has been true, the income-tax reduction will aid in producing healthier market conditions in the future. The announcement of the reduction may have an immediate effect in inducing bears to cover and take their profits, thus checking the price decline which is the subject of the stock exchange investigation.

HOW AMERICA GROWS
All preliminary work incident to the taking of the census of 1930 has been practically completed, so William M. Steuart, chief of the Bureau of Census, announces. He also states that it will be the most thorough enumeration ever performed, giving not only the population of the country and of every State, county, city and town, but a mass of new data showing the growth and development of the nation.

The director of the census will undertake in one month to enumerate about 120,000,000 people and to obtain rather extensive information as to 6,250,000 farms, 14,000 mines and quarries and more than 100,000 irrigation and drainage projects, together with a vast amount of other material. It is a big job and the tabulation must be handled mainly by experts.

How rapidly America grows in population is shown by the bureau's estimate that there is added to its number one new human unit every twenty-three seconds, the total annual increase being about 1,600,000 persons. This increase is made up of the total excess of births over deaths and the excess of immigration over emigration.

In 1790, when the first census was taken, the United States had but 4,000,000 people. By 1930 the population will be more than thirty times as great as it was in 1790 and nearly twice what it was in 1890, only forty years ago. This enormous rate of increase would seem to justify the foreboding of old Malthus that there would be a food shortage in the course of time, but as overproduction is likely to continue for many years the day of that shortage will be very far distant.

There is little doubt that the population of Los Angeles will be found to be upward of 1,250,000. The census of 1920 gave the females a majority of 6323 over the males, in a ratio of 97.8 males to 100 females. The total population of the city has more than doubled since that time, and if the ratio should hold good it will be found that we have approximately 13,000 more persons of the gentler sex than of the sterner. This condition is not a unique one, however, in American cities, as the ratio of men to women in Boston and Baltimore is about the same as in Los Angeles.

BRICKLAYERS STRIKE
The strike of union bricklayers here and in San Francisco against the P. J. Walker Construction Company is over no question of hours, wages or working conditions. The men, receiving $11 a day for eight hours work, had no complaints on this score. They had had no disputes with the company. They quit work on orders from Indianapolis, headquarters of their international union, issued for the sole purpose of attempting to impose the closed shop.

The hardships these men face, thrown out of work just before the holiday season, will not be felt in Indianapolis, where the leaders who forced the strike will continue to draw their salaries.

Fortunately for Los Angeles, for the Walker company and for the owners of the buildings under erection, Los Angeles is not a closed-shop town and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association was able to supply open-shop workmen who do not take orders from Indianapolis, to take the places of the strikers immediately. Erection will proceed.

Incidentally, the affair furnishes an answer to a frequently heard assertion that the open-shop employers of this city are antiunion. Here were union bricklayers working peacefully side by side with nonunion men, when their places could have been filled at any time from wholly nonunion ranks. This condition would have continued but for outside interference. The fact is that union men can and do find employment here without discrimination against them, and can hold their jobs as long as the unions will let them.

TARIFF ON TINSEL
Through the efforts of Senator Tydings the Democrats have been able to get the tariff on tinsel reduced. This should be great stuff for the Democracy. Gov. Smith will be able to turn up in the next campaign with a shiny new sword. Also the American farmer will be permitted to snag his tinsel at lessened rates. Good Tydings!

The LEE SIDE O' L.A.
By Lee Shippey

THE third, fourth and sixth ranking swordsmen of Japan arrived in Los Angeles about two weeks ago, and ever since then have been guests of honor in our Japanese colony. They brought with them an exhibition of historic weapons, swords and spears and shields of the Samurai, many of them centuries old, which have been on exhibition at Hori Brothers, 231 East First street. The swordsmen are making a world tour for the purpose of reviving among Japanese in other lands an interest in the great traditions of the Samurai and already have given two remarkable exhibitions in the Buddhist temple at First street and Central avenue. They probably will give another exhibition before they leave, because of the great interest among the Japanese here, and the fact that fencers from the Los Angeles Athletic Club and the Hollywood Athletic Club have shown readiness to co-operate with them in exhibitions which give one a chance to compare the fencing methods of the Orient with those we have borrowed from Europe.

Two-Hand Swordsmen

We saw one of those exhibitions at the Buddhist temple and can testify that while football is a rather tough sport we would greatly prefer it to Japanese fencing. When an American fences with foils or even with the saber any touch, no matter how light, counts as a point. But a Japanese swordsman holds his sword with both hands and blows not hard enough to cleave the bone are disregarded. In exhibition matches, of course, bamboo sticks rather than sharp swords are used, but they whack each other with those in a way English-speaking people have never seen duplicated since the grand old game of quarterstaff was in flower.

Plenty of Action

There is a good-sized class of Japanese fencers here, and about twenty Japanese took part in the matches we witnessed. They wore masks and pads and trousers so broad they looked like skirts and a fencer ready for combat looked very much like a curiously garbed little nun of most amazing liveliness—ability to spring five feet into the air and bring down a bamboo pole on an opponent's head with a whack which you could hear out into the street. Nakamura, the greatest of the visiting swordsmen, is a very short, strong, smiling man who certainly must be made of rubber. All he seemed to have was the speed of Fidel La Barba, the strength of Jack Dempsey and the strategy of Howard Jones. Though he acted as referee in most of the bouts, the few in which he took part would have thrilled any American sportsman who loves the crack of the bat. At one time he took on seven antagonists in succession, and the fact that our Japanese friends rarely lose their heads never was so strongly impressed on us. If they had been easy to lose he surely would have knocked all seven of them clear off.

In fencing with Americans, he did not hit so hard. But all the Japanese, while fencing with each other, swing just like Jimmie Foxx.

When Knights Were Bold and Overbowled

So many people who have seen the exhibitions of fencing, and of old armor, have understood very little about them, that we went to Masao Dodo of the Japanese Daily News for accurate information. He said:

"The historic rather than the athletic side of this expedition should be accentuated. They give astonishing evidence of what powerful men the knights of old Japan used to be.

"The iron helmet looks heavy enough to fumble any stuck-up in Los Angeles. The cross-spear may be all right as a wheelbarrow yoke; but to brandish it would be somewhat beyond the youths of today.

Ladylike Weapons

"A spear with a big blade is called Naginata, a lady's weapon. And the wooden fan of fine lacquerwork was used as the general's official toy to give him dignity, very much like Ambassador Dawes's now famous pipe. The enormous seashell in good polish is a feudal bugle to summon and command a host of soldiers. And then the pom-pom! A side-line co-ed would look well with it at a football game. But that was the general's command stick. Surrounded by the proud pennants floating and flipping at the back of every well-armed knight on mount, the general's pom-pom would suddenly rise above his head. The seashell bugle would bellow out its monstrous call. A sharp rustle of the pom-pom. And then the 'Charge!'"

Americanized Japanese

Our Japanese citizens retain their love for old and historic things, but we are continually amazed to see how thoroughly American the young Japanese are. While calling on Mr. Dodo we were struck by the high idealism of his own Americanism and the spirit which pervades the English section of that Japanese newspaper. In one issue were these significant stories: Theodore Takase plans chain of talkie theaters for Hawaii. Seventeen-year-old American-born Japanese girl was engaged by her father to marry a youth of her father's choice—and ran away with her lover. And young Japan in America seems to sympathize with her. Nobu Kawai, a couple of years ago a football star at Pasadena J. C., is regarded a football find at the University of Missouri and may be the first Japanese to make the All-American team. Mrs. Porter (wife of the Mayor) feted by Mrs. Tukaoka.

And on the front page, the new editor's stirring appeal, "Blossom forth, ye flowers of new Japan."

TOO MANY SKYSCRAPERS
There is a strong movement for height restriction in Chicago buildings. Structures of the tower type are running up forty to sixty stories in the air and the resulting congestion in the business district is becoming something for the citizens to worry over. There is plenty of flat and level land in the Chicago district and there was never any reason for centering the city's activities within the loop. In New York the skyscraper was inevitable, but in Chicago it is an excess. Nearly all American cities would be better off in a business way had they adopted the Los Angeles plan of limiting the height of buildings to 150 feet or thereabouts. It is conceded that the regulation has done wonders in shaping the future of this city.

THE SUPERIOR RACE

By James J. Montague

The cat's aloof, disdainful mind
Despises all of humankind.

He always is persuaded that
The world was fashioned for the cat,

He looks on us, and all our ilk
As made to give him meat and milk

And shows no sign of gratitude
Though fed upon the daintiest food.

He lives alone at our expense
And merely purrs for recompense.

He does no work of any sort
Excepting catching mice for sport.

Yet we, quite of our own accord,
Supply him with his bed and board

And, when the winters rage and storm,
A cozy hearth to keep him warm.

His every gesture is a sneer,
His every purr is insincere.

And yet his furry head we pat
And whisper softly, "Nice old cat!"

But I admire him, I admit,
Because he gets away with it!

Sees No Improvement

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] We of the northeast section of the city await in fear and trembling the decision of the Supreme Court regarding the refunding of the excess 2 cents car fare. Not that we would begrudge the Los Angeles Railroad Company the 2 cents if we were getting improved service, but up to date it's simply "worse and more of it."

The "W" cars are relics of the age one—those wretched long side seats where one must stare at one's neighbors or crane one's neck in looking over their heads. But even so, we would not object so much if we would only get any kind of a seat! The cars are all packed to the guards and there is no chance of getting a seat, since nearly all ride to the end of the line.

This condition is hurting real estate in one of the most beautiful sections of Los Angeles.

Defends Vaccination

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The British people are law-abiding except in the matter of betting. Since the British law requires that all children be vaccinated at 3 months of age, unless their parents are conscientious objectors, it is a safe assertion that more than 75 per cent of the people of England are vaccinated—not unvaccinated, as Mrs. Rosamonde Rae Wright declares. If the English people were composed of 75 per cent conscientious objectors to vaccination, there would not be enough intelligence there to run the government.

Mrs. Wright quotes some army medical journal in opposition to the general use of diphtheria antitoxin as a prophylactic. Her quotation is only of one sentence, not enough to give the general tenor of the article. It might be found on examination that the objection is based on the fact that nearly all adults are immune to diphtheria, anyway; or it might even be found that the toxin-antitoxin treatment is recommended instead! Mrs. Wright's quotation is from 1923; but in 1929 toxin-antitoxin prophylaxis is required for the staffs of all our best hospitals. And whether or not prophylaxis is desirable, the antitoxin is still in almost universal use as a therapeutic.

Mrs. Wright mentions typhoid. Does she care to compare the mortality rate for this disease in the World War with that of the Spanish-American War? In the World War antityphoid vaccination was universal.

The preparation of vaccines, serums and bacterins is, in fact, as uncommercial as anything can be in a buying and selling world. None are patented and there are no secret processes.

A Child Problem

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] An article on "Mental Diseases," by Suzanne Pehkoff, in a recent issue of your paper raises some interesting questions which I think can be answered satisfactorily.

Miss Pehkoff calls attention to the startling increase in late years of the number of insane persons in hospitals for the insane. She concludes that "the numbers of the insane increase much faster than the population itself does." I think this is only partly true. What is true is that a great many more are being taken care of in institutions because of an awakening social consciousness that is providing more facilities for the care of the insane.

We are coming to regard insanity as a disturbance in the adaptation of the individual to his social environment, with the exception of the relatively small number of cases due to physical disease. When we then contemplate modern civilization, the rapidly growing complexity of the social environment and the resultant increasing demands on the adaptive power of the individual it is easy to understand the many failures of adaptation which manifest themselves as insanity.

Miss Pehkoff raises the pertinent point of what to do about it, how to prevent this state of affair. In these fields, as in all of modern medicine, the ounce of prevention is receiving the attention that the pound of cure used to receive. Since the signs of future difficulties of adjustment are already discernible in childhood in most instances, our greatest hope lies in what we can do with "the child. A study of the causes of behavior problems, delinquency, nervous breakdowns, insanity, etc., invariably leads us to the environment of the child, physical, mental and social; to the habits and attitudes formed in childhood; to the influences and relationships of the parents.

I would like to call Miss Pehkoff's attention to the work that is being done to meet this problem by such representative organizations as the National Committee for Mental Hygiene; to the many behavior clinics, child guidance and mental hygiene clinics; to the visiting-teacher movement; to child study clubs; and to parent education classes.

TO A YOUNG STUDENT
By The Foothill Philosopher

Dear Friend Who Wants to Know: You must not imagine that you are alone in your desire to solve the riddle of the Sphynx. There are about 2,000,000,000 other human beings in the world who stand in your mental shoes. The world always has been a school in which the wisest savants have admitted themselves to be only advanced pupils. Many great scholars have dogmatically declared that the mystery of life is unsolvable. Yet how could they know that? It would seem that a more modest statement would have been to the effect that the mystery had not been solved.

The fact that something is unknown is no proof that it may not become known. Anyway, there is great joy in striving to learn life's secret, even if, in the pursuit of that knowledge, only a few relative aspects of the Absolute be discovered, and only the true student realizes the increasing joy in the attempt to know. May we offer a few suggestions for you to follow as you walk the highway of learning?

In the first place, read and study only those things that your teachers and your good judgment tell you are worth while. Read only the best books, magazines and newspapers and read them with discrimination. In newspapers, read sparingly of sensational news, but read with care all instructive, constructive articles. As regards "best sellers," read only a few pages of such books and drop them like hot coals of fire if you discover that their appeal is only to lovers of sensation. Budget your time. You live eternally, but why should you waste one precious minute of the small portion of eternity which you spend on earth?

Cultivate the society of those who are wiser, and who know more than you. This will cure you of much vanity and will be a certain means of steady growth. Keep your health. Squander neither your mental nor physical forces, for no one can be at his best mentally if he be physically weak. You cannot focalize your mind on an intellectual problem if a sour stomach calls for a share of your attention. Exercise reasonably, eat sensibly and sleep sufficiently. Burning the candle at both ends soon puts an end to tallow, wick—and light.

Never "lose yourself." Let all your actions and thoughts be deliberate. Do not read in bed until your eyelids droop and you are forced into the kingdom of sleep. Sleep when you will to sleep, not when you are compelled to surrender to Morpheus. Above all, keep a clean conscience, for remorse is the purgatory of the soul and he who lives in those flames is a stranger to peace and that calmness of mind which are essential to intellectual attainment.
JAMES WARNACK.

GOOD MORNING

Good morning—Good morning,
How cheery your voice is,
It touches my heart
In the words that you say.
O lighter the toil
And the task of the day is
For the cheery good morning
You wished me today.

So often the day has
A shadow in starting—
Just one little cloud
And you scarcely know why—
One word and a smile
And a cheery good morning,
And shadow and cloud
Are clean gone from the sky.

Good morning—good morning,
How gladly we hear it,
That moment the sky
Has a tenderer blue—
There's something we know not
Uplifting the spirit,
And nature seems saying
Good morning to you.

The birds and the flowers
They bid us good morning—
Let us be as kindly
And gracious as they—
For are we not brothers
Abroad on a journey?
And all are God's children
We meet on the way.

WHERE CAN I LEARN
Piano?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

Three classes in piano instruction, beginning, advanced and very advanced, are offered to the public free by the Roosevelt Evening High School, 450 South Fickett street. Not only is the theory of piano music taught, but the students get to actually play on the piano and receive criticism from the teacher, Mrs. Desdemona Ross Edwards, who studied at the College of Music at Cincinnati and who is an experienced church organist.

The classes meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings from 7 to 9 in room 111. Tryouts will be given to new pupils and they will be placed where they can study to the best advantage.

The course of instruction includes beginning theory intervals, formation of chords, use of tetrachords, formation of triads (tonic, subdominant and dominant) and cadences.

People of all ages are welcomed into these classes, and there is no charge of any kind.

Neighbors in Los Angeles courts will rejoice to learn that Wimbledon Conservatory of Music has introduced a curriculum course in pianola playing, so here's hoping that some Los Angelean enthusiasts of the mechanical piano will run over and take a course. W. B. J.

BRITON BUYS SOUTHLAND HORSE

Arabian Stallion Added to Earl's Stable

Earl of Feversham With Shelif

THAT the Earl of Feversham, sojourning here at present, has purchased and is sending to his English estate a Southland-bred Arabian stallion was learned yesterday when the horse was started via the Southern Pacific Railroad to New York.

Lord Feversham came here with the Winston Churchill party and visited the W. K. Kellogg Arabian horse ranch near Pomona. There he was impressed greatly with the spirited action of Shelif, a 3-year-old pure-blooded Arabian stallion. The Earl bought this golden chestnut steed and is shipping him to Duncombe Park, Hemsley, Yorkshire, Eng., for his own stable.

Lord Feversham will leave Los Angeles shortly for New York to supervise the shipment of Shelif on board the Minnewaska. Shelif descends from Arabian stallions imported by the late Homer Davenport, cartoonist, through special arrangement of President Roosevelt with the Sultan of Turkey in 1906.

'WITCH-WOMAN' ELUDES NET

Policeman Fails to Identify Arrested Suspect as One Who Kidnaped and Beat Boy

While the city and county were combed for the so-called "witch-woman" who on Wednesday seized 4-year-old Tommy Hetherington from his mother's automobile and lashed him severely with a switch, police yesterday took in custody as a suspect a woman found wandering in Pershing Square, only to release her shortly afterward when identification failed.

Identification was attempted by Policeman Quivanen, who, in addition to the boy-victim of the whipping, is the only person known to have seen the woman. Quivanen lives next door to the house at Fiftieth and Wall streets, in the rear of which the woman administered the beating after dragging Tommy there from the automobile his mother had parked at Fifty-first street and Broadway.

NOT SAME WOMAN

The policemen told Detective-Captain Slaughter of the crime-prevention bureau that he noticed a woman take a boy to the rear of the house next door, as he was leaving home in his car. He attached no significance to the incident, believing the pair friends of his neighbor. He declared he had a good look at the woman and is certain he could single her out of a crowd. But when he viewed the suspect yesterday he stated she was not the woman.

Quivanen described the woman he saw as follows: An American, French woman or Italian, 35 to 40 years of age, five feet six inches in height, weighing 175 pounds, heavily set, dark complexion, round face, black, straight, short, bobbed hair, wearing a one-piece black dress of light-weight material, light-colored stockings and black oxfords, no hat, coat or purse.

Any person seeing a woman answering this description is requested by police to notify Capt. Vernand, Lieut. Stone or Lieut. Donohue at University station.

REPEATS WHIPPING

After lashing the boy in the rear of the Wall-street house, the woman coaxed him to South Park, under the pretext of buying him candy, and there repeated the whipping in a rest room. Meanwhile, Tommy's mother, Mrs. Joseph Hetherington of 9721 Graf street, Graham Station, had notified police her son had been kidnaped. As officers were broadcasting the alarm, Tommy appeared at the home of his aunt, Mrs. A. V. Standard, at 293 East Forty-ninth street, and sobbed out his story.

Capt. Slaughter announced last night that no new complaints involving the reappearance of the "witch-woman" had been received yesterday.

Goodwin Enters Race for Office of Controller

Jerome P. Goodwin, native of Los Angeles and former civil service employee, yesterday announced his candidacy for the office of State Controller in 1930.

Mr. Goodwin was born at the northwest corner of Sixth and Hope streets fifty-one years ago. He was educated in the public schools of the city, later entering the employ of various large corporations, including the Southern California Edison Company. For a number of years he was associated with both the city and county assessor's office.

When the Philippine insurrection broke out Mr. Goodwin enlisted in Troop M Fourth United States Cavalry, and served for three years under the late Gen. Harrison Gray Otis. Four years ago he was awarded the Congressional silver star for gallantry in action against the insurgents at Luzon, P. I.

Mr. Goodwin's home is at 1935 Arapahoe street.

Public School Enrollment in October Gains

Students enrolled in the public schools for the month of October totaled 284,065, an increase of 16,771 over the average daily attendance for the same month last year. The increase in the number of elementary school children is 6964 over the number enrolled a year ago.

A greater increase in high-school than in the elementary and kindergarten groups is shown in the 102,075 students now enrolled as against 93,297 in high schools last year. In special classes, such as Americanization, citizenship, part-time and trade extension, the increase over the same period last year is 5823.

The new Los Angeles Junior College in the second month of its history had 1268 students enrolled. At the time arrangements were completed for the opening of the college it was anticipated that the enrollment would be only about 500 for the first year, although arrangements were made to take care of a possible 800 students.

Chambers Vote Hellman Praise

Marco H. Hellman, financier and sportsman, has returned to Los Angeles after several weeks of touring the horse shows in Washington and Oregon, where he exhibited his string of thoroughbreds. Yesterday he received copies of resolutions adopted by the chambers of commerce of Portland and of Seattle, accompanied by letters from their presidents.

Resolutions and letters praised the interest which Hellman and his horses contributed to the Pacific International Live Stock Exposition at Portland, and to Seattle's second annual International Horse Show.

Copies of the expression of appreciation were ordered sent to Hellman and to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

SHRINERS TO SEE FILM; DANCE AFTERWARD

A double program of entertainment for Shriners and their families will be given at the Al Malaikah Temple Theater and ballroom tomorrow night. A motion-picture show will be given in the theater at 8 o'clock and at 9 o'clock a family Shrine ball will be held in the ballroom, with carnival features and vaudeville acts between the dances. Potentate LeRoy M. Edwards said plans have been made to care for a crowd of more than 5000 dancers.

Fire Board Held Final Authority in Building Use

Use and maintenance of buildings in Los Angeles do not come under the jurisdiction of the Building and Safety Commission but under the authority of the Fire Commission, according to an opinion by City Attorney Werner's office yesterday to the Fire Commission. The opinion was written by Deputy City Attorney Kitsmiller.

The opinion holds that while the Building and Safety Commission may allow deviations or modifications in the construction of buildings, this does not allow the commission to permit the operation or use of such buildings when the structures do not comply with the requirements of the ordinances governing.

The opinion was requested by the Fire Commission, which has been faced with the question of allowing occupation or operation of buildings on which the Building and Safety Commission has granted modified construction permits.

As a result of the opinion, the commission decided to remain firm in insisting that the fire laws be fully complied with.

The informal manner of displaying the fashions at the style promenade featured every noon at Mme. Helene's Tea Room on the mezzanine floor of J. Haggarty's, has made a decided hit with patrons, according to Mme. Helene, whose tea room has become a rendezvous for women seeking new ideas in dress. SEVENTH AT OLIVE HOLLYWOOD AT VINE

Of Interest to Women

Society

by JUANA NEAL LEVY

One of the loveliest of the season's weddings and of more than usual interest to the North as well as in the South was that of yesterday afternoon when at 4 o'clock Miss Alice de L'Arche Hicks, daughter of the late Frank Silas Hicks of San Francisco and Los Angeles and Mrs. Hicks (Carrie Childs) of North Van Ness avenue, became the bride of Clyde Russell Burr, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frank Gross, 7 Chester Place, with Rev. Martin O'Malley of St. Vincent's Church officiating.

The decorations carried out by Raymond Gould were especially attractive, the altar being formed of gold tapestry brocade with cloth of rare old duchesse lace, and lighted by tall antique gold candelabra, the room having a profusion of lilies of the valley, and white gold chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Gross, was most attractive in a gown of rose pinte lace with long sleeves and court train, the veil of tulle held in place by a coronet of the rose pointe and she carried an armful of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Gross, matron of honor, wore a Lanvin gown of gold, fashioned on close fitting lines with long train and carried a sheath of Talisman roses and maidenhair ferns, and shoulder corsage of gold rosebuds.

The attendants including Mrs. Lewis Curtis Torrance, Miss Suzanne Patterson Bryant, Miss Ruth Redman (cousin of the bride,) Mrs. Howard Cunningham, Mrs. Laurence Howard, Miss Margaret Martin and Miss Mollie McBryde were sleeveless frocks of Capucine green moire, fashioned with three ruffles reaching to the floor, and carried sheathes of long-stemmed Claudius Pernet roses and maidenhair ferns.

Henry Grandin served Mr. Burr as best man and Olin Wellborn, III, Dana Hogan, Lewis Curtis Torrance, Ralph L. Chandler, Richard Tracy St. John, Edward H. McLaughlin and Webster B. Holmes ushered.

Mrs. Hicks wore a Chanel model of orchid chiffon, with corsage of orchids, while Mrs. Laura M. Burr, mother of the bridegroom, was in black lace with corsage of orchids.

The Earl Burtnett symphony quartet furnished the music and during the ceremony played Strauss's "Morgen" and Grieg's, "Ich Liebe Dich."

The house was a bower of gold and white great shaggy chrysanthemums while in the dining room bronze chrysanthemums were used, the bride's table being centered with lilies of the valley and gardenias, and lighted by crystal candelabra.

Mr. and Mrs. Burr left after the wedding dinner for an extended honeymoon, not telling their destination and after January 5, will return and make their home temporarily with Mrs. Hicks, until their own home in Hollywoodland is completed.

Mrs. Burr is the grand-daughter of the late O. W. Childs and Mrs. Emmeline Childs of West Adams street, while her paternal grandmother the late Mrs. Elisabeth Hager of San Francisco, was one of the society leaders of the northern city.

Mrs. Burr attended the Convent of the Ladies of the Sacred Heart in San Francisco and later was graduated from the French School in New York, after which she traveled abroad. She is one of the executives of the Los Angeles Junior League and also belonged to The Spinsters, automatically severing her membership upon her marriage. Mr. Burr, one of the prominent young attorneys of the Southland, was a student at Stanford and later was graduated from the University of Southern California Law School. He made his home at the University Club and was one of the members of The Bachelors.

THE CONTENTED CHILD SELDOM STEALS

One of my readers advances an interesting point with regard to petty stealing when she says that it is frequently because of a desire to be popular that the youngster steals. It has been found that if we run down the causes of persistent stealing in a child we almost always find that he is unhappy in his home or unable to keep up with his associates. This doesn't mean that he doesn't have the same amount of money to spend. All of us have to associate with persons who are much more prosperous financially. But a child does need something to be proud of, something that he can do, or be, or have that makes him feel his equality with his associates.

If a child is physically puny and can't be a champion runner or skater or the best pitcher on the vacant lot, he will usually try for scholastic honors. Failing to gain honors of any kind he may seek distinction by bad behavior, bad associations or anything at all which will make him stand out as an individual from his fellows. We can understand better, then, why children who cannot meet the competition of physically or mentally superior children often develop into bullies or rise to noticeable proportions by liberal spending or treating.

The parent can help the child best by understanding what lies behind the impulse to steal. There are children who steal for the pleasure of getting the best of someone, but there must be an inferior emotion preceding this desire, or there must be sheer dislike for the person victimized. Instead of scolding and shaming the child, the parent should try to look at stealing merely as a symptom, an impulse that satisfies some unrecognized craving. Then he should find out what that craving is. Here is the experience of a mother:

"I have just read what you told a mother about her boy's tendency to steal and I wanted to tell you that I had the same trouble and that my boy is coming out nicely. He not only took money but he gave it away when I tried to make him an allowance. He proved that he wanted to be a 'hail fellow well met' and please others. In fact, he showed the early signs of the disposition, which at present, is developing into courtesy and charm.

"Your advice was right as far as it went. I did see that his health was all right, for sometimes adenoids and tonsils, ears, other physical defects may be causing the trouble. Children don't look ahead and I think it is often because of their desire to be popular that starts the stealing habit. If they have a collection of some kind which they can show off, that will help. If you take an interest with them, you will be surprised how it will rejuvenate yourself. If possible give singing or music or elocution lessons and be glad they want to amount to something. Don't be too pointed in any of your lectures and keep his confidence and love. In order to do that one must not be severe on his sins. None of us is perfect and none of us has the same temptations. I always read your column."

Answer: My readers help me a lot, and your letter is full of wise and worth-while advice. In treating any subject, though, one must always remember the limitations of the space and that I can't possibly say in one article everything that is to be said on a subject as big as stealing.

Wife Divorces Studio Worker

A decree was granted at the close of the hearing.

Selph Quoted as Saying: "She Made Me Do It"

Deputies Testify in Watts Barber-Murder Case

State Testimony Expected to Conclude Today

Herbert H. Selph, 43-year-old oil worker and former border patrol officer, told deputy sheriffs that Mrs. Georgia Greggins Bowman, his reputed sweetheart, made him kill her on September 3, last, according to testimony given yesterday by the officers in Superior Judge Fricke's court, where Selph is on trial on a charge of first-degree murder.

The State charges Selph shot and killed Mrs. Bowman, Watts barber, in front of her home in that district.

Officers who testified against Selph yesterday included Tom O'Brien, motion-picture actor, and special deputy sheriff, and Deputies Paul, Wetreck, Hackett and Fashman.

"She made me do it," the officers quoted Selph as saying in response to their questions regarding the slaying of Mrs. Bowman. They said Selph offered no further explanation.

It is expected the State will close its case today.

PROTESTS UP TODAY

Protests are scheduled to be heard by the City Council today against the ordinances of intention for the improvement of Harper avenue between Melrose avenue and Beverly Boulevard, Orme avenue between Sixth and Gurnsdo streets, and the streets in the Park-avenue and Glendale-Boulevard and the Imperial-Way and Granville-avenue improvement districts.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORTON W. BURGESS

UNC' BILLY GROWS BOLDER

Appetite, so we are told,
Sometimes makes the timid bold.
—Old Mother Nature.

Unc' Billy Possum sat down on the stone wall along the edge of the Old Orchard. Bushes grow along that old stone wall and so Unc' Billy was hidden. But he could look out and see what was going on. Now, it was not far from the end of the old stone wall over to the chicken yard of Farmer Brown's Boy. It was dusk, almost dark. Farmer Brown's Boy had shut up the hens for the night. Unc' Billy had watched him do it and dreadful disappointment had taken possession of him as he watched. There was just one chance and one chance only, and this was that the little door leading from the henhouse to the henyard might not be closed. Unc' Billy remembered that little door made especially for the hens to use.

It grew darker. Farmer Brown's Boy and Farmer Brown had gone into the house. So had Bowser the Hound and Flip the Terrier. Common sense still told Unc' Billy to keep away from that henhouse, but hunger and great desire urged him to at least go over and investigate.

Unc' Billy began to get uneasy. He crept down off the stone wall and through the bushes. He peered across toward the henyard. He looked over toward Farmer Brown's house. He could see the lighted windows. "Ah reckon Ah can look around a little and hurt no one," said Unc' Billy to himself. "Ah reckon there isn't anything to be afraid of right now."

So Unc' Billy grew bolder and shuffled across over to the henhouse. He could hear the hens stirring uneasily inside. Now and then there was a low cluck. Unc' Billy's mouth watered. It seemed to him that never in all his life had he wanted anything as he now wanted one of those hens. He couldn't think of anything else. He knew that if he could get into that henhouse there would be no trouble in getting one of those hens. The first thing was to get in there. The next thing would be to get one of those stupid birds without awakening the others. He had no doubt that he could do this if only he could get in there.

That hole led under the floor of the henhouse.

So Unc' Billy went around the henhouse hoping he might find a hole whereby he might get in. He did find a hole used by Robber the Rat one time, but it was not big enough for Unc' Billy to get through. He could poke his nose in, however, and did so. That hole led under the floor of the henhouse. Unc' Billy didn't smell hens there, so he concluded there was no hole in the floor. It would do him no good if he could get under there. So he withdrew his nose and continued on around.

When Unc' Billy came to the high wire fence of the henyard he stopped to consider. It would be an easy matter for him to climb that fence. Nothing could be easier. He could climb up one side and down the other. Then he would be inside the henyard. There he would have a chance to try that little door to the henhouse—the one the hens used. The big door he knew was closed and locked. Somehow, he didn't just like getting inside that henyard. He knew he could get out again just as easily as he could get in; but he couldn't help the feeling that it was a sort of pen. So for a long time he hesitated.

At last he became bold. He started up the wire, close to one of the posts. When he reached the top of the post he sat there for a while. Then he climbed down inside.

Cover in cold water and slowly bring to a boil. Continue boiling for an hour, removing any scum that may form. Strain and let cool. Skim off all fat that rises to the surface. If stock equals two quarts, add the following quantities of vegetables, or more or less, according to the amount of liquid:

Two or three finely diced small carrots (unpeeled,) one small stock of celery and leaves cut fine, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one small can of tomatoes.

Any other green vegetable desired, such as spinach or lettuce. Return to fire and simmer until vegetables are tender. Serve with croutons made of Melba toast.

POWELL WILL PLAY VANCE AGAIN

Universal Star is to Be Directed by William Wyler; Kay Johnson Cast Opposite Warner Baxter; Weber and Fields Arriving Today

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

The Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance team of mystery tales produced at the Paramount studio, namely, Messrs. William Powell, Eugene Pallette and E. H. Calvert, will appear in another of the S. S. Van Dine mystery stories.

William Powell will be starred, while Eugene Pallette and E. H. Calvert will be featured in Van Dine's "The Benson Murder Case." Powell will, of course, portray the role of Pilo Vance, while Pallette and Calvert will appear in roles somewhat similar to those in which they appeared in "The Canary Murder Case" and "The Green Murder Case," both Van Dine tales.

John Cromwell is to direct, and the remainder of the cast will be announced later.

LAURA LA PLANTE'S NEXT FILM IS SPICY

Laura La Plante's next picture, it is announced, will afford her a livelier part than she has had of late in Universal features, since the time she wept her way into our sympathies in "Show Boat."

LAURA LA PLANTE

It will be "The Poor Sport," by Rita Weiman, and will reveal Miss La Plante's fine comedy talents. Needless to say, it will be a talker, and is said to be full of wisecracks.

In the capable hands of William Wyler will be the direction of "The Poor Sport." Wyler lately finished "The Three Godfathers," from Peter B. Kyne's story. It is said that this picture is rated by Universal as one of the best features which Universal has ever made.

Kay Johnson Has Fox Lead

No less brilliant an actress than Kay Johnson has been engaged by Fox to play the leading feminine role opposite Warner Baxter in Elinor Glyn's story, "Such Men Are Dangerous," shortly to go into production.

KAY JOHNSON

Miss Johnson is remembered as leading lady in Cecil B. De Mille's "Dynamite." She was formerly on the stage in New York, playing the leading role when little more than a child in "Beggar on Horseback." She came West to appear in a Duffy production, and it was while appearing on the stage here that De Mille saw her and immediately signed her for "Dynamite."

Barbara Leonard's Test

We all remember the story of the two pictures stars which went the rounds of Hollywood a few years ago—how one of the little picture girls, who was earning $150 a week at the time, seeing another picture actress reading a book, said languidly, "Oh, dearie, put down that book and come out dancing. You don't have to know nothin' to be in pictures!"

BARBARA LEONARD

That day is past, and the story leads up to the contrasting requirements of today, and specifically to the case of Barbara Leonard, who next week has to take a test at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for a part requiring an actress who can speak four languages—English, French, Spanish and German. Miss Leonard is said to be proficient in all four.

At present Miss Leonard has been signed to play the leading feminine role opposite Henry Walthall in "The Pay Off," a Vitaphone shortie.

Weber and Fields Arrive

Those famous comedians, Weber and Fields, will arrive in town today via the Santa Fe Chief.

The noted fun makers are accompanied by their wives. They will be in the West for several months to participate in the filming of a big new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer singing and dancing revue. Associated with them will be Fay Tempieton, William Collier, Louis Mann, Josephine Sabel and many others of the great favorites who helped make American theatrical history.

The new revue is to have three episodes, an olden-time, a modern and a futuristic episode.

Foreign Actress Sought

Raoul Walsh and Winfield Sheehan are going to look over the foreign field, probably the French field, for an actress to play the lead in Walsh's next picture for Fox, which is to carry Capt. Flagg and Sergt. Quirt along on further adventures, this time in France. Indeed, some of the scenes are to be made in France, and we shouldn't be at all surprised if Messrs. MacLaglen and Lowe made a trip over there.

In the meantime Walsh is on his way to London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna. Following a week in London, Walsh, who is accompanied by Mrs. Walsh and their tiny daughter, Marilyn, will leave for Paris, where his party will join Winfield Sheehan.

Eve Unsell Busy

Eve Unsell's busy typewriter can be heard now over at the R.K.O. studios, where she is working on a script not yet titled. Associated with her are A. P. Younger and Phil Goldstone.

Cruze Studio Busy

Three special productions are being prepared for the talking picture screen in the scenario department of the James Cruze, Inc., studios on Gower street.

Walter Woods is writing the treatment of "Circus Parade." Bryan Marlow is adapting Reita Lambert's "Clipped Wings," while Frances Guihan is putting the finishing touches to "The Soul of the Tango."

Cruze will direct "Circus Parade," while Walter Lang will direct the other two.

Richman Story Titled

"Puttin' on the Ritz" is the permanent title of Harry Richman's United Artists' picture, according to announcement made yesterday by John W. Considine.

YOUTH GIVEN FREEDOM TO BE MARRIED

Liquor Sentence and Fine Suspended When Judge Learns Wedding Periled

Punishment for a misdemeanor to the extent of spoiling a perfectly good wedding is cruel and unusual, in the opinion of Municipal Judge Lahey. As a result, Jack Stine, 21-year-old salesman, of 407 South Kenmore street, received a wedding present in the form of a suspended thirty-day jail sentence and $100 fine following his plea of guilty yesterday to charges of sale and possession of liquor.

Following his plea Joseph Painer, his attorney, asked the court for leniency, declaring that Stine's fiancee told him that she would not marry a "jailbird" and that their wedding would be off if he received a jail sentence. When she told Judge Lahey that if Stine did not go to jail the wedding would be held, the court not only suspended the jail sentence for selling liquor, but, as a wedding present, also suspended the $100 fine for possession.

Police Officers W. J. Clark and T. R. Bryan reported they watched Stine make a delivery to 657 South Cochran avenue on the 2nd inst. and arrested him, finding $8 which he received for three quarts of gin, and an additional quart on his person.

Two More Claims Allowed to Aides in Bonelli Race

Two more claims against William G. Bonelli were allowed to political workers in his recent campaign for Mayor of Los Angeles by Charles P. Lowy, attorney for the State Labor Commission, yesterday.

The claims allowed are those of Willard Capen, 161 South Avenue Twenty-one, $12.50; Miss Sarah Waters, 4467 Kewanee street, $19.50. A third claim of William J. McNamara, 991 Marview street, for $10, was settled for $5.

L. E. Fuller, 505 North Bushl Boulevard, Glendale, giving his business as politics, was asked to produce more evidence in support of his claim of $446.92. Bonelli's representativer stated he had received $500. Fuller said he was an organizer for the Bonelli campaign.

The Bonelli organization contends many persons were employed without authority. Bonelli has personally paid out considerable in settling claims of campaign workers.

McCORMACK KEEPS OLD DISTINCTION

"Beloved Tenor" Retains Right to Singing Title at Philharmonic

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

The eminent John McCormack, tycoon of singers (and that means leader, peerless one and all the rest,) sang at the Philharmonic last night before a packed house. He earned anew the right to the title of "beloved tenor." It is entirely correct to say "earned" for John McCormack works at a concert. No one in the world could so easily rest on his singing laurels as Sir John and I am convinced no one strives more earnestly to live up to his singing ideals. No phrase is too small, no song too easy nor too familiar for him to grant it every bit of his concentrated musical intelligence as he gives it to the public. Naturally his audience return the compliment. No radio keeps them away and they listen in breathless silence.

The program was all of well-known songs—songs that John McCormack has made known. Some of them were fine songs and others were just well-loved songs which the McCormack voice and art had furbished up and made presentable. Of the finer songs there was Handel's "O Sleep," and the "Sweet Elysian Groves," encored by "Lusghi Gerenti" (Donaudy.") The climax to the distinctive first half came in "Die Mainacht" by Brahms—a performance of arresting beauty.

Mr. Alexander Borissoff, violoncellist, was the capable assisting artist. He took the place of Cornelius Van Vliet, whose New York engagements called him back before this postponed Los Angeles concert. Mr. Borissoff played pleasing concert numbers of short length, displaying a suave tone and facile technic.

Too much is never said about Edwin Schneider, that prize accompanist whom McCormack drew many seasons ago and has cherished every since. This is a case of two voices that blend as one, the pianist's singing tone and the exact intonation of the tenor in unvarying unanimity.

Of Irish folk songs there were plenty, but, as usual, never enough. Besides those on the printed program, there was "Kitty, My Love," and "The Rose of Tralle," by Malloy. Other encores were "She Rested by the Broken Brook" (Taylor,) "To the Children" (Rachmaninoff,) "Birds of Song at Eventide" (Eric Coates) and "Barlett's Dream." The compliment to Los Angeles came in the singing of "Just for Today," by Blanche Ebert Seaver.

Most of the songs were of the heart rather than the intellect, because McCormack has a place of his own in the hearts of his listeners, but it is the fine intelligence of the man that illumines his art.

'Shelf' Presents New Guest Star

Frances Starr

Makes her local debut in the comedy by Dorrance Davis at El Capitan Sunday. Miss Starr will be seen in the role which she played successfully last season in the East.

SCOTLAND YARD SOLVES MYSTERY

A fantastic tale entitled "The Unholy Night," directed by Lionel Barrymore from a story by Ben Hecht, slipped quietly into the Boulevard Theater yesterday, and, it is forecast, will slip out again equally as quietly.

"The Unholy Night" is no great shakes as a picture, despite the glamour of names connected with its concoction. Somewhere along the road of production, some one slipped a cog and threw out of gear an effort which might have been a smoothly running, well-motivated and colorfully embellished film.

Yesterday afternoon's matinee audience failed to take it seriously to any degree. There were titters when there should have been shudders. There were, toward the conclusion of the showing, bored recalcitrants stalking out of the theater at the very moment when the suspenseful unfoldings of the story should have glued them to their seats.

As may have been guessed from the title, "The Unholy Night" is a mystery yarn. Under cover of one of those butter thick London fogs (you cut 'em with a knife,) four dastardly murders are committed. Four officers of a famous English regiment are strangled to death and a fifth (Roland Young,) escapes by a miracle.

Scotland Yard, anxious to unravel the mystery, has Officer Young invite the remaining officers of the regiment to his stately British home. Here, after drinking many toasts to auld lang syne, they settle down to the necessary business of unraveling.

All manner of weird and fantastic events occur during the remainder of the day and night. Eventually, through a fake seance, the perpetrator of the murders is caught.

Director Barrymore has applied his talents to the achievement of some strikingly effective settings. Some of the scenes stand out in sharp relief through the very boldness of the use of shadows and light. Occasionally there are crisp bits of acting.

In the attempt, however, to develop suspense and mystery, the film slides far away from the boundaries of reality and into the realm of the preposterous. Even as a good old-fashioned "thriller," it is hard to take at one gulp. Too much is too much.

Roland Young heads the cast of well-known names which adorns the production. An excellent actor of the stage, he delivers his lines with authority and precision. Dorothy Sebastian is the dark-eyed menace. Ernest Torrence and Natalie Moorhead, are among other players.

Talent Found in Revue at Loew's State

Imagination takes the stage at Loew's State this week, for the Fanchon and Marco revue, "Let's Pretend," transforms an everyday stage into the land of make-believe. Scenically and artistically this is one of the most attractive of Fanchon and Marco's "Ideas." Featured is a variety of talent which to the accompaniment of Georgie Stoll and his band, offers unusually good entertainment.

Tilyou and Rogers, two lads with young ideas, astound by the agility of their acrobatics. Fred Bernard introduces himself with a song or two, then bows himself off with an envious imitation of Al Jolson.

A dazzling blond from Poland, Lyda Roberty, proves an energetic combination of American syncopation and Polish accent.

Ed Chaney demonstrates what's new and tricky in tap stepping, while Rita Jane and the Sunkist Beauties do their bit for popular approval.

On the screen "Marianne" appears for a week's popular run. Marion Davies is starred and supported in her first talkie by Laurence Gray, Cliff Edwards (Ukulele Ike) and Benny Rubin.

Reception Will Honor Pangborn

When the first week of "Merely Mary Ann," starring Marjorie Rambeau, ends Saturday night, it will mark the end of the fortieth consecutive week of Franklin Pangborn's tenure as lessee-producer at the Vine-street Theater.

Pangborn's friends are planning an informal reception at the theater Saturday night to congratulate him on the success he has achieved. He personally has starred in five productions at the Vine-street, including "Weak Sisters," "Broadway," "Tons of Money," "The Ghost Train" and "Expressing Willie."

Colored Star to Appear at Cafe

Because of her success in "Hallelujah," the recent M.-G.-M. all-negro production, Eddie Brandstatter has arranged for the personal appearance of Nina Mae McKinney at the Montmartre tomorrow evening. The 20-year-old dancing and singing star will repeat some of the songs that were such a hit in the screen play. She will be assisted by Jimmy Kerr's Rhythm Boys. An exceptional bill of entertainment has been arranged for the evening by Brandstatter, with Henry Starr also featured.

FIRST OF THE KIND

"Courting Wild Cats," Hoot Gibson's latest starring vehicle, produced under his own banner for Universal, is the first all-natural sound and dialogue picture to be released by that company. The "flying cowboy" will begin work in another for the same studio within a few days.

Brown Secures Time-table for Sound Film Use

Clarence Brown is making motion pictures on a trolley car schedule! Since the introduction of sound pictures into the studios there have been many unusual restrictions and conditions imposed upon their making, but the latest seems to be shooting scenes persuant to a traction time-table.

For the past two days Brown has been directing some of the most important exterior incidents for his production of "Anna Christie," Greta Garbo's first talking venture, at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. The set is located on the far corner of the studio's back lot. Parallel to the huge set runs the Pacific Electric tracks, and the other boundary is an important road crossing, which means every car passing whistles for warning.

At first, Brown would be in the middle of a long talking sequence when the shrill blast would invariably ruin his "take." In desperation he sent for a schedule, and luckily found it fitted exactly into his scene schedule. The longest episode runs six minutes' shooting time and the trolley cars run on a seven-minute headway.

Radio Mystery Continues Run at President

"Remote Control," the radio mystery play which the Henry Duffy Players are presenting at the President, starts its third week with the matinee Sunday. This play is being presented simultaneously with its production in New York.

A radio studio furnishes the setting for the exciting action which starts when a band of Junior League girls is held up by a gang of robbers. Throughout the play runs the theme song, "Tune in on My Heart," by Gene Johnston.

Robert Fraser has the role of Walter Brokenchild, "the world's greatest radio announcer," and included in the cast are Betty Ross Clarke, Clarence Geldert, George Leffingwell, Harry Hollingsworth and others.

DIRECTOR ARRIVES

Edgar MacGregor, noted director who staged "Follow Thru," "New Moon," "Good News," "Sketch Book," George White's "Scandals," "Fioretta," "Queen High," and other New York musical successes, has arrived here to assume his new duties at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, where he will assist Irving Thalberg and Harry Rapf in the production of film revues and musicals.

"SPEEDWAY" STARTS

Chinese Plans Novel Event at Late Matinee

Grauman's Chinese Theater, at tomorrow night's Hollywood midnight frolic, will offer a most novel and unusual entertainment. Since the advent of talking pictures the studios have been virtually closed to the public. There are very few people who have seen a talking picture produced.

Tomorrow night Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will present the actual "shooting" of a thrilling scene from "The Bishop Murder Case." This will be personally arranged by the directors of the production, Nick Grinde and David Burton, with all the sets, assistant directors, cameras, lights and other necessary properties used in the studio. In the cast which will appear on the stage are Basil Rathbone, Lelia Hyams, Alec B. Francis, George Marion, Zelda Sears, Roland Young, Bodil Rosing, Caroll Nye and others.

This is the first time that a full scene from an unreleased talking picture will be presented on the stage of a theater exactly as originally made in the studio. After the scene has been "shot" and a brief explanation made of the mechanics of making the talking picture, the film-recording voices of the actors in this scene will be projected on the screen.

Filmarte Books Unusual Picture

"Ten Days That Shook the World," Russia's film masterpiece, is announced by the Filmarte Theater, as its special feature for a week, beginning tonight. This production, besides being unique in subject matter, contributes a significant chapter in the exposition of Sergei M. Eisenstein's original theories of motion-picture technique.

In "Ten Days That Shook the World" he introduces unusual camera shots that come from every direction. Eisenstein also departs from the star system, choosing to make the vast crowds become the heroic element in the action, rather than elevating a single person as the hero.

A film version of Edgar Allan Poe's story, "The Tell-Tale Heart," adds entertainment.

"SPEEDWAY" AT UPTOWN

"Speedway," William Haines's latest M.-G.-M. starring vehicle, opening a three-day run today at the Uptown, is said to be one of the most thrilling and realistic racing stories to come from the pen of Byron Morgan. Morgan wrote practically all of the "roaring-road" stories in which the late Wallace Reid was starred. Anita Page, Ernest Torrence and Karl Dane appear in the production.

LORD ASSIGNED

Robert Lord has been assigned to supervise Alice White's newest picture for First National, "Show Girl in Hollywood," a J. P. McEvoy story. Mervyn LeRoy, who has guided this petite star in numerous of her other box-office successes, is directing.

COLLEGIANS FROLIC IN FUN FEST

'Sophomore' Depicts Light Side of University Life; Quillans on Stage

BY JOHN SCOTT

A merry melange of comedy and action was unfolded yesterday on the screen at the R.-K.-O. Theater where "The Sophomore" had its first local showing. Taken for what it is worth, namely, a potpourri of college antics, with a football game inserted for a final climax, this story left little to be desired. In fact, the closing sequence, in which the radio announcer finds that he has wasted his valuable breath, left the audience in stitches, no doubt glad of the opportunity to quit laughing.

An unusual yarn written by Corey Ford and adapted to the talking screen by Joseph Franklin Poland served as the basis of "The Sophomore." Joe Collins, which sounds suspiciously like Joe College, a favorite term of the collegiates, escorts Margie Callahan, a co-worker in the Toot Sweet ice cream parlor, to his fraternity dance and is left flat by the blue-blooded members and their partners. Joe loses his job dispensing wisecracks and sodas and then his money by the dice route. Margie secretly pays his tuition and he remains in school.

A college play, using all male characters, is presented by the boys about this time and Joe portrays the queen. Some side-splitting comedy is included in these scenes, with Tom Weck, the fraternity president, in the role of Lochinvar. It is one of the high points of the piece.

In short, Margie stands by Joe and in attempting to recover the canceled tuition check is caught in the fraternity lodge. Joe is expelled in dishonor and renounces Margie. In the football game which follows, he is sent into the game and after one play is borne ungracefully out on a stretcher. Leaving the field, he spies one of his players (Tom Weck, of course) streaking down the field with the ball—but headed the wrong way. Joe runs out on the field, tackles his own man, thereby saving the contest.

Another highlight of the film is the radio announcing by Walter O'Keefe. The realism of his efforts to give an accurate and detailed account of the game results in much hilarity. The final denouement is unexpected and extremely humorous.

"The Sophomore" was directed by Leo McCarey, who motivated it to the best possible effect. Action in the film did not lag and the essential object sought for, comedy with a minimum of pathos, was excellently realized. One element which probably played a large part in the success of "The Sophomore" was the fact that the director and the leading players inserted several situations and "gags" during the filming of the production.

Eddie Quillan found the part of Joe Collins to his liking. It afforded him a chance to display versatile talents which he has used effectively also on the stage. His scene with Tom Weck in the college play was ludicrous and yet highly entertaining. Quillan, it is understood, is to make another college picture, and following his keen interpretation of a college sophomore in the current effort, should gain tremendously in popularity.

Margie Callahan, the sweetheart of Collins, was ably played by Sally O'Neil, while Stanley Smith had the necessary dignity for the part of Tom Weck. Jeanette Loff as Barbara Lange had little to do, appearing in a pictorial role with pleasing effect. Other players were Russell Gleason as Dutch, Joe's room mate; Sarah Padden as Mrs. Collins; Brooks Benedict as Armstrong and Spec O'Donnell as the hick nephew. The picture was produced by Pathe.

The stage presentation brought the leading performer, together with the Quillan family, with Eddie as John, Buster, Marie and Joe in a lengthy act of singing, dancing and clowning. The Quillans are all gifted in the art of entertaining, inherited no doubt from their parent, who watched his offspring from the wings. Charles Irwin is terminating his engagement this week as master of ceremonies and sang a song, a thing he has been threatening to do for ten weeks. Other acts rounded out a fine program.

Odd Characters Presented in Biltmore Play

John Drinkwater's ebullient comedy, "Bird in Hand," has entered upon its second week of its limited engagement at the Biltmore Theater. This comedy, which has steadily been attracting capacity and enthusiastic audiences, contains a group of characters vividly and sympathetically contrived, and presented so that the auditor feels himself to be a guest in the little wayside inn where the action transpires.

The group is rarely assorted, bluff old, class conscious Greenleaf, keeper of the inn; his sensible wife, who before marrying was a circus performer; their lovely daughter Joan and three gentlemen who seek shelter for the night in the quaint hostelry.

These people of Drinkwater's imagining are portrayed by Freda Bruce Lockhart, Olga Slade, Denis Mantell, Douglas Jefferies, Eliot Makeham, Richard Littledale and others.

Actors' Theater to Open Doors

The Actors' Theater, formerly the Orange Grove, will open its doors for the first time December 2, next, when the Renick Players present Henry B. Walthall in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." The playhouse has been completely remodeled and, according to Miss Renick, will prove to be one of the comfortable show places of the city.

BAND CELEBRATES

Mal Hallett's orchestra, now playing at the Cocoanut Grove at the Hotel Ambassador, will celebrate its tenth anniversary as a musical unit Monday night. Organized in Boston in 1919, it has kept intact ever since. This marks its initial Coast engagement.

WRECK BANDIT HUNT EXTENDED

Systematic Search to Cover Entire Coast

Cleaner Mark on Coat Being Thoroughly Traced

Espee Agent Joins Forces With Sheriff's Office

Plans for a long systematic search for the elusive bandit who wrecked the Southern Pacific West Coast Limited near Saugus Sunday night and robbed passengers were formulated yesterday at a conference between Dan O'Connell, chief special agent of the railway, and Capt. Brooks, chief of the robbery detail of the Sheriff's office.

The officers announced that their field of hunt has been extended to include all States west of the Rocky Mountains, with only the clew of a cleaner's mark in a discarded coat worn by the demented vandal as the best possible solution of his identity.

COAT DESCRIBED

Complete descriptions of the torn gray garment, carrying the marks "293X" and "13135," which the fleeing bandit threw away as he raced down a narrow trail in his flight from the overturned locomotive and two cars, thrown into the ditch by loosened rails, were broadcast to all law-enforcement agencies in the Middle West and the Pacific Coast. Requests were made that a diligent search be conducted in each city in an effort to identify the two telltale marks.

Half a hundred dry cleaning and laundry establishments in Los Angeles lent their aid to the officers yesterday, but none could shed any light on the markings. Investigators checked other tailoring shops on the belief that the wide publicity given the description of the garment had not penetrated outlying sections. They reported that no one could be found that used such a combination of numerals and letters as stenciled on the lining of the coat.

SUSPECT TRAIL LOST

Reports from various sources of purported conversations heard between strange men and their movements in and near Saugus prior to the piling up of the twelve-coach train and the serious scalding of Engineer Ball were checked yesterday. All proved to be of no value in the intensive man hunt, and were discarded by the two chief investigators.

O'Connell and Brooks are agreed that the lone, coatless man, who begged a ride from Saugus to a hospital here shortly after the wreck is the strongest suspect. His description is identical with that supplied the officers by the passengers who were robbed of between $200 and $300. The man was trailed from Saugus to the hospital, where he said his daughter, who had suffered both arms broken was being treated. It now develops that the man, who reached the hospital about three hours after the robbery, did not enter the building, but covered his movements by going to a fire escape and then returning to the waiting car and announcing that his daughter was undergoing an operation. His whereabouts from that time are a complete mystery to the investigating officers.

PRESIDENT PRAISED BY DEMOCRAT

Texan Approves Policies of Hoover, But Asserts Aid to Aviation Lacking

COL. E. EASTERWOOD, JR.

Col. W. E. Easterwood, Jr., who will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Texas in 1930, is an admirer and firm believer in President Hoover. He so said at the Biltmore yesterday, when he arrived via Southern Pacific from his home in Dallas, for a ten-day tour of Southern California airports.

"Democrat though I am, I cannot help but admire President Hoover and the policies he is putting into effect. In an interview last February with Benito Mussolini at Rome, the Italian dictator was frank to say to me that Mr. Hoover will prove to be one of the greatest presidents. And I am firmly convinced he is right."

Although unstinting in his praise of the nation's Chief Executive, Col. Easterwood is critical of the government's attitude toward aviation and he charges it with backwardness.

"I believe that aviation is of sufficient importance in this country to warrant the government in creating the post of Secretary of Aviation in the President's Cabinet," he said. "A separate arm of war service should be created and the aviation activities of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps should be placed under its sole jurisdiction," the Texas visitor maintains.

Col. Easterwood places Germany as first in the world in aviation, with England as second, France as third and the United States as fourth.

Col. Easterwood is a nationally known aviation figure and was the backer of the Spirit of Dallas entry in the Dole flight and a promoter of the proposed Rome-to-New York-to-Dallas flight. He plans to visit the airports of the Pacific Coast before returning to Texas.

COLLECTOR ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF THEFT

Benjamin H. Livingston, collector for the Moss Glove Company of Los Angeles, yesterday was charged with grand theft in a complaint filed by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Charles V. Kearney. The complaint charges that Livingston withheld $991 which he had collected from a branch store on the 12th inst. and failed to place it in the company's safety deposit box.

NEW FEATS IN AVIATION PREDICTED

Speed of 500 Miles an Hour and Giant Dirigibles Forecast by Expert

Praising the initiative and enterprise of the air-minded citizens of Southern California, as evidenced by the present aeronautic display at the Western Aircraft Show, Dr. Ford A. Carpenter, manager of the department of meteorology and aeronautics of the Chamber of Commerce, in an address at the Women's University Club last night said that ideal weather conditions in this State, especially in the Southland, largely are responsible for the extraordinary activities in aeronautics throughout this region.

Speaking on "The World's Oldest Dream and America's Youngest Industry," Dr. Carpenter said that the airplane always will be supreme in the matter of speed, but that for comfort the airship will become popular as a means of transportation over the ocean and between continental terminals.

"The recent exploit of the Graf Zeppelin in circling the earth is a remarkable example of the safety and satisfaction in lighter than air transportation," said the speaker. "But contrasted with the massive dirigibles now being built at Akron, O., the Graf is like a river boat compared to a trans-Atlantic liner."

"Judging the future by the past, we shall see airships of approved design flying from continent to continent at speeds approximating 100 miles an hour.

"A study of the performance of the competitors in the international Schneider seaplane races indicates that by 1937 a speed of 500 miles an hour will be attained," said the speaker.

Commission Unable to Aid Pool Project

If West Los Angeles, otherwise known as Sawtelle, is to have a swimming pool the funds will have to be appropriated by the City Council or provided by an assessment or bond issue in the district, it was decided by the Playground and Recreation Commission yesterday.

The board approved the proposal for a pool, recently requested by the West Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, but finds that with no funds for the purpose provided in its budget and improvement of twelve playgrounds under way no financial aid can be given.

It was pointed out to the commission by Supt. Hjelte that other districts have provided their own funds for pools under like circumstances. He said that the Sawtelle playground would be a good location for a pool for the entire West Los Angeles district. He estimated that it would cost $30,000.

Convictions in Liquor Case

Operation of an asserted bootlegging establishment by John Testino and James Carlt at 622 North Main street was a public nuisance, a jury in Municipal Judge Wood's court decided after deliberating less than an hour yesterday. The two men will be sentenced Monday.

The police vice squad made eight arrests at the North Main-street establishment, obtaining convictions in each case, Deputy City Prosecutor Fox charged. Testino and Carlt were arrested by a raiding squad under Police Officer Southard on October 19, last, witnesses declared.

A TATTERED and soggy doll with a coat of brave red felt and a skirt of faded yellow looks cheerfully out on the world from its place beside Mitzi Green's make-up box, for it is the talisman of the only child ever to be signed to a contract by Paramount-Famous-Lasky.

A gift from Toto, the famous clown, it has traveled with the 8-year-old girl ever since she was headlined two years ago in vaudeville as Little Mitzi, the child mimic. Now that her make-up box rests in the Paramount studios in Hollywood, the doll is in the studio, too. She believes the doll brings her good luck.

OPINION ON BONDS ASKED

Supervisors Would Use San Gabriel Dam Money to Pay for Surveying Other Sites

An opinion on whether or not the money voted for the $25,000,000 San Gabriel dam may be used for surveying sites in the watershed for other dams was asked of County Counsel Mattoon by E. C. Eaton, engineer of the flood control district, yesterday.

Engineer Eaton said he had surveyors' camp sites selected, and equipment assembled, but that there is not enough money in the general fund available for flood control work to start the engineering parties working. There is still more than $20,000,000 of flood control bonds, voted for the San Gabriel dam, left unsold in the county treasury, according to records of the Board of Supervisors. The county of course, does not pay interest on this money, and it is customary to refrain from selling district bonds until payment is about to be made for work done.

It was pointed out that a section of the laws under which the flood control district is organized expressly states that by a vote of four-fifths of the board, money voted for a certain purpose, may be spent for flood control work in the same watershed in which the proposed project was located. If this statute is upheld, the board need lose no time, it was stated, in ordering other dams to be planned in San Gabriel Canyon.

OPEN FORUM PLANNED

The Los Angeles City Planning Association will give a dinner program and open forum next Tuesday evening, at the City Club, 833 South Spring street. Ralph Cornell, landscape architect, will be the principal speaker. He will describe a six months' tour of Europe, with the help of colored slides. The open discussion will be: "Should Commercial Skyscrapers of the City Hall Type be Allowed by Charter Amendment?"

VALUABLES STORED FOR YEARS GONE

Woman Reports Theft of Almost $14,000 Worth of Goods from Basement

Oil paintings, silverware and china were valued at almost $14,000 were obtained by burglars who broke into the basement of the residence of Miss Josephine J. Pollock at 5227 Inez street, according to Miss Pollock's report to police yesterday.

Six of the oil paintings, according to the report, were worth $3500. The silverware and china were contained in two trunks. The valuables, Miss Pollock informed police, were packed and stored by her when she left the city several years ago. Upon her return yesterday she discovered the loss, she said.

Miss Pollock stated she now resides at 3044 East Sixth street. Because of the long absence of the owner from the city police despair of locating the stolen valuables.

Child Slayer's Husband Held

Sabatino Valenti, husband of Josephine Valenti, recently sentenced to life imprisonment on conviction of burning her baby to death, yesterday was ordered held for trial by Superior Court on a statutory attack charge by Municipal Judge Stutsman. Bail was set at $1000.

Helen Portesi, 17 years of age, of 1931 Monart street, called to the witness stand by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Broker, declared she was "picked up" by Valenti and a companion on the night of October 31, last, and taken to the Ocean Park pier and later to a North Main-street hotel, where both youths forced her to submit to their advances. She was held prisoner for twenty-four hours, she declared, finally being taken by Valenti to a theater near her home, where he left her. Valenti, she said, offered her a wrist watch and ring and promised to marry her if she would "keep still about this."

REGISTRATION OPEN SOON

Registration for evening adult study courses to be given during the winter quarter of University College, downtown division of the University of Southern California, is to open December 2, according to announcement of Dr. Ernest W. Tiegs, dean of the Trojan night school. Night college work will be given in architecture, commerce, English composition, nursing education, science, modern languages, sociology, aviation, mathematics, engineering, real estate, parental education, and oriental studies.

BANDIT SUSPECT TRIED AS KILLER

Hold-up Near Bandini Laid to Dennis A. Chester

Was Freed in Kansas City Petting-Party Death

Hunted Here Under Name of D. A. Womach

An asserted sequel to the murder of Miss Florence Barton in a "petting party" hold-up near Kansas City in 1921, was brought to light at the Sheriff's office yesterday when it was revealed that Dennis A. Chester, who was tried and acquitted of the murder of Miss Barton, is wanted here for the robbery of a man and woman companion at Bandini a week ago.

Chester is being sought by Deputy Sheriffs Davis and Wiggington under the name of D. A. Womack, 701 South McDonnell street. He and a woman companion are accused of holding up J. W. Taber of 4408 Triggs street, and Miss Wilma Jessecoate of 4428 Triggs street, on the night of the 5th inst. near Bandini on Telegraph Road.

The robbery was one of the most sensational in Los Angeles during recent months, for the bandit pair after robbing the two victims wrecked their own car in making their escape, and then while the woman held the two victims at bay with a pistol, the man enlisted the aid of two motorcycle officers in removing his car to a near-by garage. Meanwhile the woman bandit returned the $10 in money which they had taken from Taber and his companion.

In checking the ownership of the car, the officers found that Womack had moved to 661 Arizona street and there they questioned Mrs. Lillian Chester, who they report, admitted that Chester is her son and adopted the name of Womack in Los Angeles to escape notoriety.

"Denny" Chester was accused of slaying Miss Barton in a petting party hold-up near Kansas City, Mo., in 1921. After fleeing the city he was captured in Montana, but while being returned for trial escaped from the train near Broken Bow, Neb. He was recaptured, however, and returned for trial, but was acquitted.

Angels Sell Berger for Players, Cash

BRAVES OBTAIN LOCAL SLUGGER

Art Delaney, George Harper Coming to Cherubs

Deal is First of Series to Build Up Seraphs

Lelivelt, Reichow to Jaunt East for Players

BY BOB RAY

As the Angels' first step in their campaign toward building up a pennant-winning ball club for Los Angeles next season, it was announced yesterday by Oscar Reichow that Walter Berger, hard-hitting and hustling young outfielder, had been sold to the Boston Braves for an unannounced sum of cash and two players.

WALTER BERGER.

The two athletes whom the Braves send to the Angels in exchange for Berger will be Art Delaney, capable right-handed pitcher, who made such a good record with Oakland during the 1926 and 1927 seasons, and George Harper, a veteran outfielder, who is a driving hitter and bats from the left side of the plate.

Berger's sale to the Braves came as quite a surprise to baseball followers, who figured that the hard-hitting Angel fly chaser would go to the Chicago Cubs when he graduated to the majors. Berger, however, is a right-hand hitter and the Cubs have a surplus supply of clouters who swing from that side of the plate and had no place for him what with Hack Wilson, Kiki Cuyler and Riggs Stephenson going great guns in their outfield.

Berger came to the Angels from Pocatello during the fall end of the 1927 season and has performed brilliantly since wearing a Los An-

JONES PICKS STARTING LINE-UP FOR CONTEST

Will Use Heaviest Men to Insure Good Work on Muddy Field; Squad Enjoys Workout

BY PAUL LOWRY
"Times" Sports Editor

TOPEKA (Kan.) (En route to Chicago with Trojan team) Nov. 14.—Mr. Howard Harding Jones, the master mind of the Southern California coaching forces, proved himself a great disciple of old man preparedness today by giving his football boys a stiff workout on a snowbound field at McPherson, Kan.

Mr. Jones is hoping there will be no snow at Chicago Saturday, when his boys meet the boys coached by Mr. Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, but he believes in arming himself for the worst.

HOWARD JONES

So for one hour and a half the Trojans galloped up and down the field loaned for the occasion by McPherson College, a small institution of about 400 students, and learned more about snow and slush in a few minutes than they can learn in a lifetime in Los Angeles.

The Trojan special is two hours ahead of the regular section of the Golden State Limited, so the majority of this time was expended by the Trojans in running signal formations, plus a dummy scrimmage against the second team and still later a "Notre Dame" aggregation headed by Aubrey Devine, Morley Drury, Jesse Hibbs, Bill Hunter and Sam Barry.

A swell example of what may be in store for the Trojans if the weather is bad Saturday was furnished by Capt. Nate Barragar. He was heading the interference on one of Russ Saunder's power runs to the right when he slipped and skidded six feet on his ear in the snow.

SNOWY DEBUT

It was the first time some of the Southern California boys had ever seen snow, but they donned brown mittens, hooked jackets and displayed all the pep and ginger in the world during their workout.

This morning some of the early risers discovered a fine stand of snow at Pratt, Kan., and they went prowling through the train loaded for bear. Headed by Ernie Pinckert, the young man who was presented with a shiny new suit case before departure by the San Bernardino gentry in honor of the great glory he has brought to the Gate City, these highbinders invaded the lair of the coaches.

The Messrs. Jones and Barry had barricaded themselves, but Bill Hunter and Aubrey Devine innocently opened their compartment door and were given a white bath that left them talking to themselves and muttering hoarsely about undergraduate nuts.

Jones today gave the first indication of the make-up of the team he will start against Notre Dame.

He had Saunders at quarterback, Apait in Harry Edelson's halfback position, Musick at full and Pinckert at the other half. Arbelbide and Tappaan were at ends, Bob Hall and Anthony at tackles, Barragar and Galloway at guards and Dye at center.

With the exception of Saunders

PITT FACING TOUGHEST TEST

Carnegie Tech Tartans Pointing for Panthers, Who Seek National Gridiron Title; Battle of Quarterbacks Will be Highlight of Trojan-Irish Clash

BY ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Panthers, in a receptive mood for an invitation to compete in the big East-West game at the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day, probably will find Carnegie on Saturday the hardest hurdle they have tried to clear in the race for national football honors.

"JOCK" SUTHERLAND

In seven straight victories so far Jock Sutherland's young men have not been seriously extended. Their closest call was a one-touchdown victory over Nebraska, but actually the game was more decisively a Pitt victory than the score of 12 to 7 indicated. No other team, including West Virginia, Duke, Ohio State and Washington and Jefferson, has kept the Panther from running up margins of anywhere from two to eight touchdowns.

Pittsburgh's admitted all-around strength has yet to be put to a severe test, for the somewhat elementary reason that it has so far just about outclassed all this opposition. The Panthers have yet to experience the novelty of coming from behind to win or facing anything like a desperate situation.

On a line through W. & J., which tied the Carnegie but lost by three touchdowns to Pitt, the Panthers appear to have a distinct edge, but comparative scores have meant little so far this season. They mean less where so keen a city rivalry is involved. The Tartans have been beaten by only one team, Notre Dame, which gained a hard-fought 7-0 decision. Through this game, it will be possible after Saturday to measure the relative merits of Pitt and Notre Dame, if they are still in the championship hunt.

Carnegie, pointing for Pittsburgh, laid off last Saturday and will have its full strength ready, several injured stars, including Ted Rosenzweig, end, willbe back. The Tartans miss their great field general of 1928, Howard

NOTRE DAME CONFIDENT

Student Body Sure Squad Will Smash Fourth Team on "Revenge" List in Game Tomorrow

NOTRE DAME (Ind.) Nov. 14. (Exclusive)—Saturday will be another pay-off day for Notre Dame, if campus sentiment counts for anything. Southern California last year whipped the Irish, 27 to 14, but Coach Rockne points out that lightning seldom strikes twice in the same place.

Notre Dame last fall took it on the chin from Wisconsin, Carnegie, Georgia Tech and the Trojans. This year's eleven has avenged three of those defeats. They are determined to make it unanimous by beating the lads from the Pacific Coast when they collide at Soldier Field.

KNUTE ROCKNE

The squad will leave for Chicago Saturday morning in good fighting condition. There is a possibility that Frank Leahy, tackle, may not be able to play and a probability that Manfred Vezie, end, will not see service, but the team is rich in reserves. Rockne put the final touch to Notre Dame's preparations from his wheel chair today. After the workout he picked forty-five players to make the trip. They are: Left ends, Collins, Colrick, O'Brien, Bailey, left tackles, Culver, McNamara, Tvomey and Kersjes; left guards, Cannon, Kassis, Locks, Cassidy; centers, Moynihan, Nash, Yarr and Yelland; right guards, Law, Bondi, Metzger and Coughlin; right tackle McManmon, Pennehus, F. Leahy and C. Schwartz; right ends, Vezie, Murphy, Vik and Conley; quarterbacks, Carideo, Gebert, Kenealy and Christman; left halfbacks, Elder, Leahy, M. Schwartz and Koken; fullbacks, Mullins, Savoldi, Howard and Shes; right halfbacks, Brill, O'Connor, Kaplan and Cronin.

Notre Dame will go up against Southern California without knowing its own true worth. The team has breezed through six games without showing its hand. It has pulled no tricks, and has tried few forward passes. Its attack has been old-fashioned, because old-fashioned football, backed by old-fashioned power, has been adequate to rout Indiana, Navy, Wisconsin, Carnegie, Georgia Tech and Drake.

The team has revealed no outstanding backfield star. One day it is Elder, the next Savoldi and again Carideo, Mullins or Brill. But Notre Dame has length and strength and fury and fight and balance. It undeniably possesses great explosive force.

Whether it can hold a stout pace for sixty minutes against a team like Southern California is something nobody knows, not even Rockne. Its hardest test was against Carnegie and it stood up admirably. But Carnegie isn't Southern California. Against Drake the team's sags and back steps left it looking perplexed and worried until the offense began to function in the last quarter.

Watching these boys go through their final preparations for their biggest game of the season and talking with them on the campus, the impression grows on one that

CALIFORNIA REGULARS TO FACE WASHINGTON

BERKELEY, Nov. 14. (Exclusive) Coach Clarence (Nibs) Price will use his two best threats against the apparently improved University of Washington football team Saturday afternoon, namely, the first-string California varsity and a combination forward and lateral pass attack. The first varsity has scrimmaged every night this week except Monday, when the workout was just a wee bit less lengthy in deference to Armistice Day. Not only has the varsity been scrimmaging to insure a good condition for the arduous Washington and Stanford battles, but the above-mentioned passing rehearsals have been much in evidence.

Price has two quartets of linesmen who are fighting for the guard and tackle positions. In the guard melee are Louie Pitto, Bert Schwarz, Bob Young and Harry Gill. All of these are letter men from other seasons, with the exception of Young, who earned his letter in the Montana game last Saturday. The four ends who are doing heavy duty are Bob Bartlett, Russ Avery, Norton and Ellis Thornton. All but Bartlett won their letters last year. Bartlett is believed to have already earned his letter this season. The only regulars who are on the hurt list are Capt. Roy Riegels and Rusty Gill. The Bear captain still has a bad knee and Rusty has a bruised hip, the result of some heavy scrimmaging earlier in the week. Riegels and Rusty will both be ready for service if needed, however. Frank (Butch) Medanich, the scrappy young fellow from Lincoln High School, Los Angeles, is taking Riegels's place for the present. Today he appeared to have an edge on Herman Eichmeyer, the third foremost applicant for the job.

Clarence (Moose) Garrity is doing the fullbacking in Gill's absence.

EDELSON TO STAY HOME; DOCTORS RULE OUT TRIP

For the third time in his three years on the varsity, Harry Edelson, S.C. interfering halfback, isn't in shape for the Notre Dame game. But this year Edelson won't even be on the side lines. Drs. Harold Van Metre and Leland Chapman yesterday cancelled a proposed plane trip which would take the Jewish halfback to Chicago for the Irish game. He is confined to the Good Samaritan Hospital with influenza. Two years ago, because of an injured knee, Edelson was replaced by Moses early in the contest. Last year in the local Coliseum, he didn't start, but replaced Saunders at fullback in the first half, and Apait at halfback in the second.

Jones, Zuppke Favor Irish to Trim Trojans in Classic Tomorrow

S. C. MENTOR SAYS ELEVEN MUST SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Thundering Herd Can't be Rated as Choice Because of Record Made by Rockne's Great Squad

BY HOWARD JONES
Football Coach, University of Southern California
[Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.]

ON BOARD TROJAN SPECIAL, Nov. 14.—Football games among Pacific Coast teams tomorrow will in all probability have no appreciable effect on the race for conference honors.

What in normal years would be considered a very important game is the California-Washington contest at Berkeley. This year, however, Washington showed little until last Saturday, when the Huskies displayed unexpected strength to hold Stanford, 6-0.

BOB ZUPPKE

Despite this I do not look for Washington to be particularly dangerous in the California game, provided Coach Price's men realize they have to play football to win. California has good reserve strength, and Price will no doubt use it, provided the Huskies do not make things too warm.

California is the only undefeated team in the Coast Conference and will probably go into the Stanford game with a clean slate. This has been a season of remarkable upsets, however, and it won't do for California to count the Washington game won in advance.

ANCIENT BATTLE

Oregon State College and the University of Oregon meet in their annual classic for State honors. If the university wins, and it should, it will have a right to share northwest honors with Washington State.

The game between the University of Southern California and Notre Dame in Chicago will attract national attention. Notre Dame is one of the few teams this season with a great record behind it. If the Irish can finish the season with victories over the University of Southern California, Northwestern and Army, it will be hard to rank them second to any eleven in national rating.

Notre Dame has a backfield comparable to the famous "Four Horsemen," and a line capable of taking care of itself. According to Aubrey Devine, who has been scouting Notre Dame in the interests of Southern California, Jack Elder is one of the fastest backs he ever saw.

Southern California should be in good condition to meet Rockne's team, but will have to play much better than recently if the Trojans expect to make it a close contest.

If the field is dry the spectators will see a game of thrills. On the showing of the two teams to date Notre Dame is naturally favored to win.

Washington State, which has lost only once this year, plays Montana in a game which should result in another victory for the Pullman team. Stanford has a letdown before the California contest, meeting Santa Clara in a game the Cardinals should win as they please.

GAELS APPEAR

St. Mary's appears in Los Angeles for the first time this season, playing the University of California at Los Angeles. St. Mary's has not been scored upon or defeated this year. This is the team that held California to a scoreless tie and outgained the Golden Bears both in yardage and downs. "Slip" Madigan, former Notre Dame player, coaches St. Mary's. His team should defeat U.C.L.A. by several touchdowns.

Southern California Notre Dame: Notre Dame.
California-Washington: California.
Oregon-Oregon State: Oregon.
Montana-Washington State: Washington State.
Stanford-Santa Clara: Stanford.
St. Mary's-U.C.L.A.: St. Mary's.

ILLINOIS MENTOR LIKES NOTRE DAME

BY BOB ZUPPKE
University of Illinois Football Coach
[Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

URBANA (Ill.) Nov. 14.—I think Notre Dame will defeat Southern California at Chicago tomorrow because I believe the Irish have greater possibility of scoring from a distance.

By this somewhat cumbersome expression I mean that they probably have more ability to gain by long runs and passes instead of by a succession of "first downs" or slow stages.

The number of first downs a team scores seems still to impress commentators who do not realize that modern football is far different from old. A team can make many first downs midfield and waste energy and time, which is equally important, only to be balked because it has no touchdown punch.

Michigan gained four times as much ground as Ohio State, but Ohio deserved its victory because the Buckeyes had the punch when the pinch came. In the Army-Illinois game Yanuskus from scrimmage ran forty-eight yards, making possible Illinois's first score, a field goal. That was equal to five first downs all tied up in one package, but it was recorded, of course, as only one first down.

Where Coach Howard Jones is able to put one open-field runner on the gridiron at one time Rockne will present three.

Pacific Coast football may be just as good as that in the rest of the country, but to my mind it is no better. There are only three teams there in the top class, California, Stanford and Southern California. Before Southern California played Stanford it had won three games with 48 points the lowest score, and had been held 21-7 in another. Some of Notre Dame's opponents were weaker than expected, but Saturday in and out I believe the Irish have had a tougher seasoning.

Rockne and Jones probably have equal power, but I imagine Rockne has played more men in games than Jones. Notre Dame is a smart team, and your smart players who do the right thing while the other fellow is hesitating win ball games.

I'll string along with Iowa to beat Purdue in the most important Big Ten game, which will have a strong bearing on the championship.

Purdue with Harmeson, Welch and Yunewich, probably has the best all-around backfield in the Big Ten and a line that has worked nicely with them. It has been a better passing team than Iowa, but the Hawkeyes uncovered a good aerial attack against Minnesota.

How good Iowa is tomorrow depends upon the amount of punishment the Hawkeyes took last week. Coach Phelan has had a better chance to prepare for Iowa, for Ingwersen probably has had to work his men lightly. Phelan is a smart coach and the Hawkeyes shouldn't count on many lapses by Purdue.

With no intent to put poison on Purdue's fine showing, the fact remains that Iowa has been tested in tougher contests. Purdue has defeated Michigan, Chicago and Wisconsin. Iowa has met Ohio State, Wisconsin, Chicago, Illinois and Minnesota. Iowa is the first of the top-notch teams this season that Purdue has met.

I select Minnesota to beat Michigan, for the Gophers so far are a more cohesive team, but Michigan will probably have its opportunity to win and I will not be surprised at anything.

Indiana, with a rest of two weeks, will be in condition to give Northwestern a brisk battle. The Hoosiers have improved steadily and will probably show better against Northwestern than Ohio State did. But the Northwestern line is better and Northwestern should win.

I wish we were as certain of winning from Chicago as the experts are. This is one of those traditional rival games in which the alleged under dog can be inspired to play above his head. Even when Chicago has been weaker in the last few years we have had a peck of trouble.

Ohio State will not have to use any first-string men against Kenyon unless Coach Williaman wants to give them exercise. Nebraska must beat Oklahoma to stay at the top of the Big Six ladder. It will probably be tight, but Nebraska should win. Missouri showed little punch in defeating Washington U. last week, but the Tigers will be inspired when they encounter New York at New York. Kansas will be weakened against Washington U., if Jim Bausch, fullback, is unable to play. This will probably be a close one.

Notre Dame-Southern California: Notre Dame. The Irish probably have greater ability to score from a distance, which is modern football.

Purdue-Iowa: Iowa. The Hawkeyes have made good against tougher teams than Purdue has met.

Minnesota-Michigan: Minnesota. The Gophers have a more cohesive team and better scoring ability.

Illinois-Chicago: State rivalry and tradition will inspire Chicago. If they catch Illinois fast-footed there will be a surprise.

Northwestern-Indiana: Northwestern. Northwestern's line is probably too strong for the Hoosiers.

Ohio State-Kenyon: Ohio State. A nice rest for the Buckeyes before they meet the Illini next week.

Nebraska-Oklahoma: Nebraska. Probably a tight one, but Nebraska has enough reserve power to turn the scales.

New York-Missouri: Missouri. The Tigers are pointed for this one.

Kansas-Washington U.: Kansas. The Jayhawkers have more scoring punch if Jim Bausch is able to play.

Michigan State-Detroit: Detroit. But it will probably be a tight one.

Marquette-Boston College: Boston College. The Easterners appear to have a slight edge.

TIGERS TAKE ON YALE GRIDDERS

BY W. W. ROPER
Princeton Football Coach
[Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

PRINCETON (N. J.) Nov. 14.—This week ends the Princeton football season for 1929. It will close as one of the most disastrous Princeton has had for a long time unless the Tigers can pull themselves together tomorrow and come back with their old-time fighting spirit.

Princeton-Yale games have nearly always been close and the winner uncertain up to the last whistle, and no doubt the game tomorrow will be likewise. Yale, with Booth, looks invincible. It has won from Brown, Army and Dartmouth in succession, a record any team would be proud of. Even though Maryland tied the score last Saturday that was after Booth had been taken out, and Stevens was saving his men for the Princeton and Harvard games on successive Saturdays.

To date Princeton has done very little. Except for the Navy game, when the boys produced enough comeback to tie the score, and flashes of power in the Lehigh game they have shown nothing. Princeton will have to show tremendous improvement to make Saturday's game close. The meeting of these traditional rivals is the outstanding battle of the week.

Harvard meets Holy Cross at Cambridge. Last year they had a 0-0 tie. Holy Cross always puts up a good game at Cambridge, and Harvard has had little time to recuperate from the trip to Ann Arbor. However, I pick Harvard to win.

The Army and Navy should have little trouble with their opponents. Army plays Dickinson and the Navy meets Wake Forest.

Florida should win from Clemson, Texas from Texas Christian and Mississippi from Louisiana State.

Princeton-Yale: Chase.
Harvard-Holy Cross: Harvard.
Army-Dickinson: Army.
Navy-Lake Forest: Navy.
Cornell-Dartmouth: Dartmouth.
Penn-Columbia: Penn.

BELMONT BABES ANNEX HONORS

Ebers's Lightweights Take Minor City Title

Garfield Defeated 26-0 in Final Game

Hilltoppers Not Scored on in League Play

Coach Clarence Ebers's Belmont lightweights overcame the last obstacle in their path to the Minor City League championship yesterday, when they trounced the Garfield eleven, 26 to 0, on the losers' field. This is the second time in as many years that the Belmont babes have copped the pennant.

After the first quarter the Hilltoppers had things very much their own way. The Bulldogs' threats, such as they were, were not dangerous enough to cause much excitement. Landres proved to be the individual star of the game, scoring two touchdowns, the first with a 5-yard run around the end, and the second after a beautiful 40-yard return of a punt.

Ebers's eleven chalked up some sort of a local record in that they went through the season without being scored on in league competition. Besides Landres, Stringer, Peterson and Bono, Kamisher starred for Belmont. The line-ups:

HOLLYWOOD NOSES OUT MANUAL ARTS, 14-6

Coach Boris Pash's Hollywood High lightweights nosed out the Manual Arts babes yesterday, 14-6, in a game played on the Toilers' field. Daniger of Hollywood was the outstanding player on the field, ripping off three long runs during the afternoon. One of them, a 90-yard gallop, scored the first Redshirt touchdown. TOILERS TANGLE WITH REDSHIRTS

Manual, Hollywood Scrap for Third Place

Poly Picked Over Lincoln at Wrigley Field

Minor City League in Final Round Today

BY IRVING ECKHOFF

Fighting for third place in the City League standings, Jim Blewett will take his mauling Manual Arts Toilers out to Hollywood this afternoon to engage Vic Kelley's Redshirted Horde in mortal combat. Both Manual and Hollywood have met defeat twice this season so they are out of the running for the pennant.

However they are evenly matched and a very close battle is expected by fans.

Coach Pop Bates will drive his Lincoln Tigers out to Wrigley Field today in an endeavor to stop the Poly Mechanics, who seem to have a new lease on life. This will be the Tigers' farewell appearance in the city loop, as next week, which is the final round, Lincoln gets a bye.

The Tigers, who were one of the early season title favorites haven't fared so well this year. They dropped the first three games but came back to take the next two, winning both times on their strong passing attack.

L. A. High's passes couldn't work last week against Poly so it will be interesting to see how Lincoln's aerial attack works out today. It was generally conceded up to last Friday that the Romans had the best passing offense in the city loop. But Brennen's boys surely had it stopped and if they can ruin the Tigers' passes as they did the Romans' the Mechanics should carry home the bacon.

Vic Kelley's Redshirts may surprise the dopesters today and wallop Manual. Usually Kelley's team gets better as the season progresses and as the season is almost over the Redshirts better get going if they are going to do anything this year.

In the third game listed for today, Jim Pursell's Jefferson Democrats will play host to the L. A. High Romans.

The final round of play in the Minor City League is also scheduled for this afternoon. Three games are listed, Roosevelt at Fairfax, Garfield at Belmont and Fremont at University.

The Roosevelt-Fairfax game is drawing most of the interest due to the fact that if the Rough Riders win, they will annex their second consecutive minor loop championship.

Sid Witherow's Belmont Hilltoppers are favored over Garfield, but the Bulldogs are expected to put up a stubborn fight. Last week against Fremont, Belmont lost one of its best players in Frank Irving, star end, who broke his arm.

In the third game listed Fremont should win as they please from University.

COMPTON TEAM WINS VIA FORFEIT ROUTE

San Bernardino Junior College forfeited the game with the Compton Tartars which was scheduled to be played Saturday at San Bernardino. Because of the injuries received by the Indians in their last two games on successives weeks and the strength of the Compton squad, Coach Shaeffer and officials of the San Bernardino school decided not to play the Tartars. The Tartars therefore draw an unexpected bye in preparation for their remaining games with Long Beach and Glendale. Coach Eddie Suggett has not scheduled a practice game for the open date Saturday and as a result the Tartars will spend the week-end in rest.

WEATHER IMPROVES HERMOSA FISHING

HERMOSA BEACH, Nov. 14.—With the approach of cold weather winter deep-sea fishing on the Olympic barge, anchored two miles offshore here, is enjoying one of its best seasons, according to Capt. J. M. Andersen, skipper of the big vessel. Mackerel and bonita are biting well with large catches being reported daily. Bottom lines are pulling in a generous proportion of the finny monsters, sandabs, sole, halibut and sculpin all taking bait.

HUGHES IN DRAW WITH ERNIE HOOD

Tommy Hughes, veteran flyweight, and Ernie Hood, Pasadena idol, battled ten rounds to a draw in the main event at the Pasadena Armory last night. Young Sport knocked out Speedy Lucas in the second round of the scheduled six-round semifinal. Sailor Larry and Paul Drake waltzed three rounds before they were thrown out of the ring. Phil Blood won over Tommy Hoffman by a decision in four rounds, and Melvin Bobo won by a technical knockout over Joe Flores in the third round of the opener.

SHELL OILERS IN HOCKEY VICTORY

Shell Oil Company's ice hockey team won from the Van Fleet-Durkees, 4 to 2, at the Palais de Glace last night in a furiously fought game which was featured by the excellent playing of the Shell Oilers. The Durkees were leading until the third period when by a supreme effort of Miller, Clark and Richards their team came from behind to take the play away from the losers.

A big crowd was on hand to cheer the great playing of the winning team.

Gabby to Go Under Knife

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, Cub catcher, who was out of action all last season with an injured arm, left tonight for Minneapolis, where he will undergo an operation which he hopes will put the member back in condition.

Visits to bonesetters and rubbers failed to help Hartnett's arm and he decided to have a surgical operation.

ABE ABRAMS OUT TO BEAT JACK CHARVEZ

Abe Abrams, Oklahoma middleweight, hopes to be the first ring gladiator to have his hand raised over Jack Charves when he tackles the young Mexican puncher tomorrow night at the Main-street Athletic Club. Abrams has beaten two-thirds of the Middle West's best 160-pounders, but has never appeared on the Coast.

Sandy Garrison Casanova, Scotch-Mexican 154-pounder who has never met defeat at the Main-street club, will be on the short end of 10 to 7 odds in his semi-wind-up clash with Harry "Bubber" Johnson, negro star.

SAGECHICKS TACKLE AZTEC FROSH NEXT

CLAREMONT, Nov. 14. — Coach Earl "Fuzz" Merritt's Sagechicks engage in their second Southern California Conference game Saturday when they tackle the first year men from San Diego in a preliminary game to the varsity encounter. Merritt's men managed to squeeze out a 6-0 win over the Caltech freshmen some weeks ago and are determined to take the San Diego Babes if it is at all possible. Although Merritt has not got an exceptional team his men are not below the average and should be able to give a good account of themselves.

EMANUEL MAY RETURN HERE

Lawyer-Heavyweight Sought as Opponent for Winner of Campbell-Dillon Go

Matchmaker Wad Wadhams yesterday made plans to bring Armand Emanuel back to Los Angeles to box the winner of the Frankie Campbell-Harry Dillon bout next Tuesday night.

Emanuel has started fighting again in the East since his return from Europe and is said to be in excellent shape and has added some weight.

Jack Dempsey, who is promoting in Chicago, is also trying to snag an Emanuel-Campbell fight for the Windy City.

Emanuel and Campbell grew up across the bay from each other—Armand in San Francisco and Frankie in Oakland. They are exactly opposite types. Emanuel is a boxer and Campbell is a hitter.

The Olympic plans to stage a series of heavyweight matches within the next few months and the outstanding winners may be paired in a ball park bout some time in February.

Mickey Walker wants to box here again early next year and he isn't particular whether he boxes said fleweighs, light-heavies or heavies. The Ramsen Escher now claims the light-heavy title and has very good reasons for doing so.

Campbell and Dillon size up about the same in training. Dillon looks like a good hitter as well as being able to box good for a big fellow.

They will weigh between 180 and 185 pounds. Dillon is in excellent shape since he just defeated George Cook, Australian heavy, in Minneapolis about two weeks ago.

Dillon has been headlined for ten times straight at Minneapolis which shows he is a good attraction. Bill Black, manager of Dillon, refuses to believe the stories about Campbell's super-man hitting.

Dillon has gone the distance with some good men. Among them were Tuffy Griffiths, Young Stribling and Leo Lomski.

gries uniform. Walt is young, very fast and an excellent fielder. Last year he batted .327 and hit twenty home runs despite the fact that he was out with the flu during the last six weeks of the season. During the 1929 race Berger finished with a .335 batting mark after hovering around .350 until the last four weeks of the race. He also banged out forty circuit clouts and was about fifth in the league in the matter of driving in runs.

Berger made a host of friends during the two years he played for the Angels and they'll all be wishing him success when he joins the Braves next spring.

Several major-league clubs sought to buy Berger from the Angels, but the Braves made the most attractive offer because Jack Lelivelt was after pitching help and a driving left-hand hitter to bolster the club next season.

Bill McKechnie, who piloted the Pirates and Cardinals to National League pennants, is managing the Braves next season. The Braves, who have long vied with the Phillies for the door-mat position in the senior circuit, have given McKechnie the reins to carry out their policy of building up the club into a contender.

"The sale of Berger to the Braves for cash and Pitcher Delaney and Outfielder Harper is only the start of the Los Angeles club's efforts to strengthen the team for next year," said Reichow last night.

AFTER MORE PLAYERS

"Manager Lelivelt and myself will depart for Chicago and the national minor leaguers' convention at Chattanooga the last of this month and we intend to obtain more playing talent that will insure the Angels of being up in the 1930 Coast League race."

The Angels were weak on the mound last year, but in Delaney, Barfoot, Baechi, Horne, Peters and Roberts they feel they have the nucleus of a championship pitching corps. They will try to get the Cubs to turn Augie Walsh back to the Los Angeles club next season and also intend to make an attempt to inveigle Joe McCarthy out of Pitchers Holley or Cvengros.

Harper is expected to furnish the left-hand hitting driving power that was lost when Earl Webb was drafted by Cincinnati. Harper has seen duty with the Phillies, Cards, Giants and Braves in the majors and always managed to bat near or above the .300 class. In 1925 he hit .340 and in 1927 clicked the agate at a .331 pace.

WON 25 AND LOST 23

Delaney should be a winner for the Angels for during his two seasons with the Oaks he won thirty-five games and lost twenty-three for a .604 average and allowed less than 3.5 runs per game.

When Reichow and Lelivelt go east they will be on the lookout for another left-hand hitting outfielder, another young catcher, preferably Bob Grace of the Cubs, a hard-hitting second baseman and any pitching talent they believe will help the club.

SAGEHENS LEAVE FOR SAN DIEGO STATE GO

CLAREMONT, Nov. 14. — The Sagehens take their second lengthy trip in as many weeks, starting tomorrow at 1 o'clock, when the Pomona squad leaves for San Diego. Last week found the Sagehens battling the Arizona Wildcats in Phoenix, while this week the boys from Claremont will tangle with the San Diego State School in San Diego.

The Sagehens took a final light workout here this afternoon, spending most of their time on passing and kicking of the pigskin. Some of the boys have been more or less indisposed, and Coach Eugene Nixon has been letting them off easy.

TROJANS DUE IN WINDY CITY

Plans to Start Heaviest Array of Talent

Muddy Field Expected for Gridiron Classic

and Apsit these were the boys who started in the Stanford game.

This is the biggest and heaviest team Jones can start, and on a bad field it is the one which figures to play the most havoc with the Irish. Fleet men like Marshall Duffield and Jesse Hill, who are quick sidesteppers and dodgers, will be terrifically handicapped. So will Jack Elder, the Irish ace.

The placing of Arbelbide at end today silenced all talk that Jones had lost confidence in the big fellow because of his playing in the California game.

MAY SWITCH

The Trojan coach said he might move Musick over to Edelson's position, hold Apsit in reserve and open at full with either Hill or Moses.

The arrangement all depends on the nature of the field. The Trojan special arrives at the Englewood station in Chicago at 8:30 tomorrow morning, and the football boys will go direct from there to Stagg Field for their final workout before Saturday's battle. Their headquarters will be at the Windermere Hotel, not far from Soldier Field.

All the Trojans are in good shape, and the long train ride apparently has not interfered a bit with their spirits. On the contrary it seems to have inspired them, and the cool, nippy weather they encountered today at McPherson was an added tonic.

It had been snowing there for two days, and there was a nice two to three-inch stand all over the field. Tomorrow McPherson and Sterling College engage in mortal combat there and the condition of the gridiron when the Trojans ended practice indicated a fine time will be had by all.

The natives were much interested in the visit of the Trojans and they had cars and busses to take them to the field, just a short way from the station.

They took a lot of pictures, including some of those former all-American stars, Jesse Hibbs and Morley Drury. Asked to identify themselves, Hibbs said he was Drury and the latter passed himself off as Hibbs.

A titanic battle between two pick-up teams was staged off in one corner of the field while the three Trojan teams were running through signals. One team was headed by Aubrey Devine and had in the backfield besides himself Morley Drury, Orv Mohler and Sam Barry. In the line Neill Miller, Trojan trainer, was at center, Dan Gallery and F. G. Stone at guards, Arnold Eddy and Bugs Langley at tackles and Jimmy Smith and your correspondent at ends.

The other team was captained by Jesse Hibbs, and needless to say was licked by the great combination of brains and speed named above.

Hibbs did well himself, but was handicapped in the selection of his team with such material as Charley Paddock, Joe Brown, the actor, and Gwynn Wilson to pick from.

As befitting an old man who must uphold the dignity and prestige of being a vice-president and comptroller of a university Mr. Warren Bovard of Southern California did not appear on the snow-covered field referred to above.

He stayed in the train and kept his feet warm, while Mrs. Bovard braved the elements. Back in the dim and distant past Mr. Bovard was something of an athlete, but it was about a quarter of a century ago that he ran the half-mile for Southern California and the passage of time has dimmed his desire for personal athletic accomplishment.

Pop Smith was another holdout today. Two years ago when the Trojans invaded Chicago, Pop was virile enough to try out for a position on the scribes' team. But today he sat in an automobile on the sidelines and refused to budge. However Pop is ardent enough as a Trojan rooter to predict the boys from Southern California will win Saturday by a score of 14 to 0. Mr. Aubrey Devine, the great ghost writer, announced today he will make a prediction about the struggle tomorrow afternoon, but refuses to reveal anything until his own public can be given the benefit of his knowledge. Having been the only one of the Trojan scouting staff to see Notre Dame play this year, (the Carnegie Tech and Georgia Tech games,) Mr. Devine has a slight edge on the boys, but the scribes have overcome this hurdle by applying direct to Mr. Jones, the head man, for all information.

JONES TO FORE

And Mr. Jones, having received all the dope from Mr. Devine, discomfits his assistant by furnishing the scribes with the dope previously refused by Mr. Devine.

For example, Mr. Devine was asked what kind of a line the Trojans would or should play against Notre Dame.

Mr. Devine ducked the question, but Mr. Jones promptly announced it would be a seven-man line, designed to stop quick darts through the line such as Elder has become famous for this year—runs similar to the 50-yard one Chevigny made through the center of the Trojans' line for a touchdown last year.

After the Notre Dame game at Chicago two years ago Tad Jones, brother of the Trojan coach, wrote a signed story for the papers in which he alleged it was his opinion the Trojans could have stopped Flanagan better than they did if they had used a seven-man line instead of a six-man line. Mr. Howard Jones says his brother must have had a bum ghost writer like Aubrey Devine because the Trojans used a seven-man line except when it was apparent the Irish were going to pass. In this exigency Barragar dropped back, leaving a six-man line.

Bulletin—Sam Barry's rabbit's foot was returned to him this morning by one of the waiters in the dining car. Said rabbit's foot was loaned to Mr. Barry of the Trojans' coaching staff by the quarterback of the John Burroughs School in Los Angeles, where his young son is an attendant. Young Barry is a team-mate of the quarterback, and this particular rabbit's foot is said to have carried the Burroughs team to victory in all its games this season. Mr. Barry was admonished to take it to Chicago for the purpose of a Trojan victory, but to be sure and return it safely. Mr. Barry consequently was much relieved when the foot showed up this morning.

Irish, Troy Tilt on Air at Coliseum

The Notre Dame-Trojan football game will be broadcast over the loud speakers at the Coliseum Saturday prior to the St. Mary's and Bruin game, U.C.L.A. officials announced yesterday. The broadcast will start at 12 noon. The gates of the Coliseum will be opened at 11:30 a.m. All those holding tickets for the Gael-Bruin game are entitled to hear the broadcast, Steven Cunningham, Bruin manager, announced.

ST. MARY'S TEAM DUE IN TODAY

Slip Madigan Bringing Great Squad to Play Bruins Tomorrow

gan's team. It's a record that is unique, to say the least.

I have seldom seen a better football player than this fellow "Mack" Stennett, who plays halfback for Madigan. Against Southern California last year he did some tremendous running. He weighs all of 190 pounds, kicks splendidly and can pass well. But it is his bruising, battering style of going down the field that takes your eye. Believe me, after the Bruins get through with Stennett they will want to go home and lie down on the old couch for a long, long time.

And they say that Dick Boyle, Madigan's other halfback, is better than Stennett this year. Maybe he is, but until I see Mr. Boyle do the things that I have seen Stennett do I will string with "Mack," as the boys call him.

Boyle must be good, for he gained more yardage against California than the whole California team did that day. But give me Stennett if there has to be a choice. Those of you who did not see him here last year should not pass up the chance to take a peek at him tomorrow.

Going on the assumption that any fighting team has a chance of winning it is therefore possible for the Bruins to spring a surprise tomorrow. Not that anybody expects them to, but it's within the realm of possibility.

SCOUTED GAELS

Personally, I would not be surprised if Spaulding's boys make a very strong showing against Madigan's great team. The Bruins have had two weeks' complete rest since the Oregon struggle. In addition Spaulding personally scouted St. Mary's in the game with Santa Clara last Sunday. There is no denying that a coach holds the whip hand when he has glimpsed his foe's stuff with his own eyes.

Bill has built his team slowly—in fact, too slowly in the opinion of a lot of rabid Bruin fans—and perhaps by tomorrow the eleven will play its best game of the year.

But regardless of what the Bruins do you'll be missing one of the gridiron treats of the year if you fail to take in tomorrow's performance of the Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's. They rate!

PITT PANTHERS FACE BIG TEST

Harpster, but they have two fine backs in Karcis and Flanagan, besides a powerful line, to toss in against the smashing Pitt forwards, who do the heavy work on the shifty dashes of Unsen and Williams, the plunging Parkinson and the passing of Rooney. Jim Rooney's kicking is one of Pitt's big defensive assets.

The battle of quarterbacks in the the Notre Dame-Southern California game at Soldier Field figures to be one of the high spots of the season. Frank Carideo is Notre Dame's cleverest pilot and forward passer since Harry Stuhldreher was master-minding on the field for the "four horsemen." The Trojans have two good men for the job in Marshall Duffield and Russell Sanders.

Duffield was a second-string quarterback until the Stanford game but promoted himself by leading the Trojans to victory over the Cardinals. He was manhandled by California but so were most of the other Trojan ball-toters in that upset. Saunders has more drive but is not quite so elusive or resourceful as Duffield, in the opinion of coast experts.

Wesley Fesler, Ohio State's fine end and all-American candidate, has the distinction of being his team's leading scorer, thanks to his sensational ninety-nine-yard run for a touchdown last Saturday against Northwestern after recovering a "flying fumble."

Fesler has scored two touchdowns altogether and Dick Larkins, tackle, another to give the line half of the Buckeye total for the season. It is unique that no Ohio back has crossed an opposing goal line or scored a point since the opening game of the season with Wittenberg. Fred Bagratt, the big center, does what kicking is possible for the extra points.

IOWA, PURDUE DISPLAY WARES

Rivals Battle for "Big Ten" Leadership Tomorrow

Coaches Muster Full Power for Crucial Contest

Boilermakers Out to Annex Initial Championship

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP) — What Purdue and Iowa have used to overcome Western Conference opponents this season is not all they have in the way of football trickery, but everything they know will go on display Saturday afternoon at Lafayette when they meet in the vital game of the Big Ten day.

After dropping its first conference game to Ohio State, Iowa speeded up and tied Illinois and conquered Wisconsin and Minnesota. The Hawkeyes, however, did not show a great variety of offensive stuff until they hit Minnesota last week. Even then Coach Burt Ingwersen's eleven did little with forward passing. All during this week, however, Ingwersen has drilled and polished an aerial offensive, held in reserve for just such a test as the Purdue game. The Boilermakers, already aware of the power of the Iowa running game led by Capt. Bill Glassgow and Oran Pape, probably will find themselves with added worries in the form of forward passes.

Purdue has cleared all obstacles with little difficulty, but Coach Jimmy Phelan is drilling his squad with strategy prepared especially for Iowa. Purdue has exhibited a great running attack, built around Welch, Harmeson and Yunevich, as well as a capable passing offensive, with Harmeson doing the tossing. In addition to this, Phelan has worked out variations of both forms of assault, with Welch figuring prominently in the passing.

A victory over Iowa will leave Purdue with only Indiana to conquer to bring the conference championship to Lafayette for the first time, and preparation is going forward with grim determination.

Michigan also is expected to break out a new passing game against Minnesota at Minneapolis Saturday. Coach Harry Kipke has spent most of the week smoothing his passing game, and will turn it loose in an effort to take the brown jug back to Ann Arbor. Affairs at Minnesota are not so bright, Brockmeyer, halfback star, and Clarence Munn, sophomore tackle, have not recovered from injuries suffered at Iowa last week, and may not be in shape to play against Michigan.

Injuries also are all too plentiful at Illinois and Coach Bob Zuppke has indicated he will send a backfield composed of Doug Mills at quarter, and three sophomore backs against Chicago Saturday. Art Schultz was sent to fullback yesterday after Fritz Humbert sprained an ankle. Root and Evans are the choices for the halfback posts. Coach A. A. Stagg of Chicago, has devoted most of the Maroon practice sessions to defensive measures, especially against Illinois' end runs. He gave out four new plays yesterday, but indicated they might not be used until the Washington game a week from Saturday.

Inability of Indiana to accomplish things against major opponents, has not kept Northwestern from working at top speed in preparation for the Hoosier invasion Saturday.

Two weeks of rest have brought Indiana to top physical condition and coach Pat Page has worked his squad hard. He has given much time to improving the defense and Hoosier supporters are hopeful of a surprise victory over the Wildcats.

Preparation at Wisconsin and Ohio State is directed at their games a week from Saturday. While Ohio State meets Kenyon Saturday, Coach Sam Williaman is working for the Illinois game. Wisconsin has no game Saturday, but the Badgers are being kept busy organizing for Minnesota a week from Saturday.

BEAR REGULARS TO START GAME

Garrity's punting occupied Price for some time tonight. Under careful supervision Garrity was getting his punts out to new heights and distances. Many of them traveled fifty and sixty yards. With Stanley Barr, the blond halfback, definitely on the shelf, Garrity is the best kicker left to Price. Benny Lom and Lee Rice also kick, but not so effectively as the big "Moose." The Huskies, led by Coach Enoch Bagshaw, who is making his last Pacific Coast stand before the inevitable dethronement, are expected to arrive this evening some time. They will stay at the Claremont Hotel and will take one workout in the Memorial Stadium tomorrow afternoon. The party will include thirty-three players, headed by the six foot six inch captain and center, Paul Jessup.

IRISH CERTAIN TEAM WILL WIN

they are remarkably self-composed and well poised, particularly for a group that has a chance to win recognition as the best football team in the land.

There is nothing fragrant or cocksure about them. Instead they are enveloped in serenity born of confidence in their own ability and the guiding genius of a great coach. They may be proved wrong, but until Saturday at least they have taken unto themselves the privilege of complete self-reliance.

PORT POLICY APPROVED BY COUNCIL

Argument in Breakwater Extension Controversy Now Will be Prepared

On recommendation of its Harbor Committee, the Council yesterday unanimously approved the outline of policy in regard to the city's position in the breakwater extension controversy which had been submitted to Mayor Porter Wednesday by his special harbor committee. Chairman Henning of the Council's Harbor Committee also is a member of the Mayor's special committee and helped draft the outline of policy.

He explained to the Council that the Mayor's committee desired the immediate indorsement of the Council for its outline of policy in order that it might proceed at once with preparation of its detailed argument along the lines indicated for presentation at the hearing in Washington the 26th inst. Its argument must be presented to the Army board of engineers in a sealed document, he also explained, and that was the reason, he added, why the committee could present only an outline of its position.

The report, which was adopted, read as follows: "In regard to the outline of policy as submitted by the Mayor's committee, your Harbor Committee hereby heartily concurs therein and requests that the same be accepted as outlining the official position of the city of Los Angeles to be taken by its representatives at the hearing before the Board of Engineers of Rivers and Harbors, War Department, November 26, 1929, at Washington, D. C."

Actor Settles Suit of Youth

Luther Broog, 12 years of age, will receive $1000 by the terms of a settlement approved by Superior Judge McComb yesterday following a lawsuit against Buster Keaton and his chauffeur, Frank Scheid.

Mrs. Albert Broog of 602 North Canyon Drive, Beverly Hills, filed the suit, asking for $3000 damages for personal injuries, resulting from the accident when the boy, riding a tricycle, was knocked down by Keaton's automobile, coming out of a driveway, May 11, 1928.

Although settling for the damages, the defendants in a statement denied responsibility for the accident.

Rice Fields Draw Morrocan Party

The rice fields of Sacramento Valley will receive the attention of a party of French and Spanish agriculturists who left this city last night after a ten day's study of the citrus industry in Southern California.

The European agricultural experts, who are charged with the responsibility of the projected agricultural development of Spanish and French Morocco, found natural conditions here for citrus growing much the same as in Northern Africa. Our citrus cultural practices will serve as a model for development in that area.

SALVADOR FLIES OUT OF DEBT

Aviation Boon to Republic, Says Visitor

Defense Minister and Family Arrive

Dr. Alberto Gomez Zarate, Secretary of War, Navy and Aviation of El Salvador. (Official title "Ministro de Guerra, Marina y Aviacion) with his wife (her name properly written in Spanish is "Senora Angela de Gomez Z") and their son, Alberto, Jr.

THE flag of Salvador's Minister of War, Marine and Aviation was flying from the main truck of the Panama Mail liner Venezuela, when she arrived from New York, via Central American ports. The distinguished traveler was Dr. Alberto Gomez Zarate, youthful defense minister of Salvador, accompanied by his wife and their son, Alberto, Jr.

Dr. Zarate, credited by Salvadorans with development of the exceptional air-mindedness of the Central American republic, declared that aviation has been equally responsible with several good coffee crops in wiping out his country's national debt.

"Salvador occupies an absolutely unique position in Central America, in that she not only has no national debt, but has a growing surplus in the treasury," said Dr. Zarate. "The coming of aviation has so spurred the enterprise of my countrymen that I think the resultant increase in national prosperity generally is unequaled in the Spanish Americas.

"The Pan American Airways, north from Panama, and the Pickwick Airways, south from Los Angeles, give us daily mail and passenger service and also have been the inspiration which resulted in my government placing eleven American Waco planes in operation."

Dr. Zarate believes commercial aviation will greatly improve social intercourse and expedite commercial development between all nations of the Americas. He and his family are in California for a three months' leave of absence in the interest of Mrs. Zarate's health.

SUBWAY SITUATION STUDIED

City Club Speakers Doubt Value of System But See it as Ultimate Necessity

While expressing doubt as to the economic and practical value of an extensive subway system for Los Angeles speakers at the City Club yesterday voiced the opinion that subways in the downtown section finally may be found necessary as a solution to traffic congestion.

"Subways or no subways, there always will be congestion in the central business area of Los Angeles," said J. Ogden Marsh, chief engineer and general manager of the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation.

Mr. Marsh called attention to the city charter, which provides that no franchise may be granted for construction of subways or elevated roads until a comprehensive plan shall have been adopted by the city.

George H. Dunlop, member of the Board of Freeholders that drafted the city charter, told the audience that the charter often is misunderstood in regard to provisions relating to subways and elevated lines.

"The charter does not require the city to build or own any subway or elevated line," said Mr. Dunlop. "Any or all such lines or systems that the city may want to grant franchises for may be built either by private companies, interested property owners or the municipality.

"The charter provides that before granting any franchises, the city shall first take a bird's-eye view of its rapid transit needs and approve some comprehensive plan for subways or elevateds," said the speaker. "This requirement is intended to prevent the hasty and careless granting of franchises for systems which later might present a physical obstruction to a worthwhile rapid transit system.

"Whatever meets the reasonable needs of Los Angeles might be considered a 'comprehensive plan,'" said Mr. Dunlop. "In my judgment, a subway north and south on Broadway, Spring or Main street, one southerly extension of the Pacific Electric subway back of its Hill-street station and the proposed extensions of the elevated back of the Pacific Electric station at Sixth and Main streets, would constitute a comprehensive plan in relation to the city's present needs. Such a plan having been adopted, the city could grant franchises for any portion of it or for other subways and elevateds not included in the plan, so long as they would not be in conflict with it."

"FALSE STEP" PUTS LAD IN HOSPITAL---UNHURT

Matthew Pettinato of 1307½ Silver Lake Boulevard, got his name on the records of Georgia-street Receiving Hospital yesterday not because he had been injured, but because he happened to have been on the receiving end of a spanking.

MATHEW PATTINATO.

Matthew is 18 years of age, and lives with his aunt, Mrs. Marie Daniels. She administered the spanking Wednesday night because her nephew gave way to a fit of bad temper. Matthew resented the spanking; so in the dead of the night he arose, packed a grip and departed his aunt's home. Early yesterday he was discovered sleeping, his head on the suit case, in the yard of a house at 2240 West Washington street. An ambulance was summoned, in the belief he was ill or injured. At the hospital the truth came out. Then Mrs. Daniels called for him.

Queried yesterday about the asserted spanking Matthew, who was at home catching up on his sleep, was reluctant to go into details. He admitted, however, that he and his aunt had become reconciled and that he had requested her to promise not to resort to a similar procedure in the future. He said she had made no promise.

The youth said he came here a month ago from Boston to live with Mrs. Daniels, his mother's sister. He left the house with a capital of 50 cents and for a more or less vague destination, he admitted.

At her place of employment yesterday afternoon Mrs. Daniels at first declared there was "nothing to it." She was in the act of bathing an injured foot and finally said that she would spank any kid who stepped on her.

Still later in the afternoon investigating officers recalled that they had neglected to ascertain what the assertedly unruly Matthew had done to merit the spanking. They telephoned her and inquired.

"He stepped on my corn," she said.

WILL DISINHERITS MATE IF HE MARRIES AGAIN

According to terms of the will of Mrs. Gertrude Mellor Beamish, who died July 17, last, her husband, Charles Beamish of 809 South Park View avenue, is encouraged to marry again, but is prevented from inheriting any of her property if he does so.

One clause in the instrument says: "To my dear husband, I leave my engagement ring; it may save him buying another."

Further on it is stated that Beamish is to receive "everything in the house, as long as he remains single."

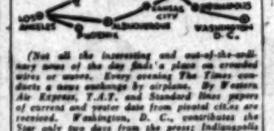
Special bequests of jewelry were left to relatives, and the residue of the estate to her grown sons, William and Douglas Beamish.

The decedent, who was 62 years of age, left all of her old clothes to the "Bishop's Guild," and asked that she be cremated in one of her old dresses, that an "inexpensive" casket be used, not to be opened at the funeral, at which she asked that Bishop Stevens of the Episcopal Church preside.

K. C. DANCES PLANNED

A series of dances to be given during the winter under the auspices of the Southern California chapter, Knights of Columbus, on the first Tuesday of each month in El Patio ballroom was announced yesterday by Benne M. Brink, president of the chapter. The first dance will be held December 3, and is now being planned by a committee composed of William Wilson, chairman; R. J. Herzig, Pat Robison, M. S. McEniry and Ed Healy. Music will be furnished by El Patio dance orchestra.

AIRPLANE NEWS EXCHANGE



(Not all the interesting and out-of-the-ordinary news of the day finds its place on crowded wires or sheets. Every evening The Times conducts a news exchange by airplane. By Western Air Express, T.A.T. and Standard Blue papers of current and recent date from pivotal cities are received. Washington, D. C., contributes the Star only two days from the press; Indianapolis and Chicago, thirty-six hours; Kansas City, Salt Lake City and Phoenix are just halfway 'round the clocks. Today's gleanings range in account from Washington, D. C., of the discovery that Indians once conducted quite an industry in arrow and stone hatchet-making in that vicinity, to the report that while the authorities were releasing seventeen deer in the forest preserve near Albuquerque, N. M., more than 1000 hunters were coming out from Phoenix, Ariz.)

MULE DEER

Arizona Republican, Nov. 12.

Seventeen mule deer from the Kaibab forest were released at the Mingus mountain game reserve near Jerome by the State Game Department, according to word received yesterday in the office of the State game warden.

The deer, most of them about two years old, were trapped in Kaibab forest and brought to the Mingus mountain reserve in a truck. This is the second bunch of deer to be caught in the forest by the game department and removed to other parts of the State for restocking the ranges.

HORSERADISH TOO?

Kansas City Star, Nov. 13.

"The niftiest place I know of," said a Kansas City woman yesterday, "is out on highway 266, where they serve the cutest little whisk-brooms with which you dust off your hot dog sandwiches."

APROPOS OF WHAT?

Kansas City Times, Nov. 13.

Missouri ought to have two governors, one to accept invitations, lay corner-stones, dedicate bridges, and front with nice little speeches and good clothes as a representative of the State. The other should be a hard-headed, hard-working proposition, caring little about dress and sitting behind the official desk all day and every day and solving the problems which devolve on a Governor of a State of 4,000,000 people.

LOOKOUT, NIMRODS

The Albuquerque Journal, Nov. 13.

Approach of the deer season opening saw scores of nimrods departing from the city in the last two days in order to be ready on their favorite grounds at the first opportunity. Some going into the Mogollons, the Black range and other hills of Southwestern New Mexico will drive to ranches and plunge into the woods from there with pack horse outfits. Game is so plentiful in the Black range district, according to officials of the State Game Department, that the range is suffering, and hunters have very good chances to bring back the venison and cut down the butcher's bill before the season closes the 20th inst.

SPUD BULBS

The Chicago Tribune, Nov. 12.

A new racket by which a well-dressed young saleswoman has swindled Evanston housewives out of several hundred dollars by the sale of bulbs of the solanum tuberosum was discovered by the Evanston police last night when one of the victims admitted that her limited knowledge of horticulture had made her an easy prey for the racketeer.

Mrs. Robert Gregg complained that she paid $6 for several bulbs which the woman "guaranteed" would raise lilies in a week. Mrs. Gregg followed the directions for a week, but the sprouts on the bulbs were no bigger than they were when she bought them. She waited another week and then gave up her efforts to raise lilies, when a friend informed her that what she had bought for her $6 were merely the edible farinaceous tubers of the solanum tuberosum, commonly known by the vulgar name of potato.

INDIANS

Washington (D. C.) Star, Nov. 11

Lieut.-Col. U. S. Grant, III, director of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, is interested in having the flint quarry in Piney Branch Valley, where the Indians secured their arrow heads, appropriately marked, so that visitors may know about it, when that area is developed for park purposes.

Col. Grant pointed out today that there are many places of Indian interest around Washington, the proper preservation of which is being studied.

"It is not generally known that Washington was quite an industrial center for Indians," Col. Grant said.

PHEASANTS

Salt Lake Tribune, Nov. 13.

With the approach of 6:30 a.m. Sunday morning hundreds of hunters are expected to be on the grounds for the opening of the annual pheasant season. The State law allows only two male birds for each day and the hours of shooting are set for 6:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

MUNICIPAL BUS DISREGARDS 'GO'

Council Reverses Gears on Clattering Signals

Substitution Issue Sent Back to Committee

Hours of Oratory Fails to Muffle Bells

Several hours of oratory before the City Council, sitting as a committee of the whole yesterday afternoon on the controversy over the type of traffic signals to be installed on Wilshire Boulevard, ended with the Councilmen agreeing that no progress had been made toward a settlement of the matter and voting to refer it back to the Council's Traffic and Lighting Committee.

It was brought out by Councilmanic interruptions during the addresses of several speakers representing civic organizations that the Council does not desire at this time even to consider supplanting all the traffic signals now in operation throughout the city with any new type, but that didn't prevent the hearing from being conducted as if the issue were the installation of new signals for the entire city.

COMMITTEE PROPOSED

Robert S. Breyer, president of the Traffic Commission, and Ivan Kelso, counsel for the Automobile Club of Southern California, both maintained that they were not specifically concerned with Wilshire Boulevard and asserted that it is their opinion that the present type of signals are obsolete. They both asked that the Council appoint a committee of engineers to decide upon the best type of traffic signal for the city and added that if this committee reported the present system is the best possible system their organizations would favor the retention of the present signals.

Councilman Martin interrupted Kelso with the question, "Don't you know that people all over the world have told us we have the best system in the country now?"

Kelso replied, "I agree, but that doesn't mean it couldn't be better."

The chief argument in favor of retaining the present system was made by George M. Breslin, counsel for the Acme Traffic Signal Corporation, which makes the signals now used by the city. He asserted that his company is disinterested, so far as the question of policy is concerned, since it is willing to bid on and supply any type of signal that may be desired.

FIGURES GIVEN

He argued strongly, however, that whatever the design of the standard approved for Wilshire Boulevard, the semaphore arm and the bell both should be retained. He presented figures to indicate that not only is traffic moved more expeditiously in this city than in large cities which use only lights to control traffic, but that the percentage of accidents in the other cities is greater. The Wilshire Boulevard Association is in favor of using lights only.

The Wilshire Boulevard Association was represented by its president, F. W. Braun, who argued that the type of signal it favors is more efficient than the present type and that the cost of installation and operation is smaller. The argument as to cost was disputed by Breslin, who presented figures prepared by the city's own traffic signal department which gave these costs for the alternative types of signals as greatly in excess of the costs of the present type.

Reputed Heir to Riches Held for $15 Check

A man believed about to inherit $3,000,000 and with a check for $25,000 in his pocket was arrested yesterday, according to a police report, for trying to cash a worthless $15 check.

The arrested man gave his name as Shamel Davis, 50 years of age, and his occupation that of a promoter, living at 918 Blaine street. He was booked on attempting to cash a check on insufficient funds.

According to Detective Lieutenants White and Clinton of the police forgery detail, who took him in custody at a downtown department store, he tendered the check in payment of merchandise. When store executives made inquiry at the bank on which it was drawn, it is asserted, they learned there was not enough money to cover it.

Searched at police headquarters, Davis was found to have in his possession letters indicating he is the heir-apparent to a $6,000,000 estate left by an uncle living in Troy, N. Y.; also a check for $25,000, payable to himself, and signed by "John C. Gorman, trustee." In addition Davis carried correspondence from the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce relative to prospective plans for the establishment there of a textile-manufacturing concern.

The detectives report police records show Davis was arrested twice previously in 1922 and 1928, on charges of forgery.

DANCERS WILL FROLIC AT STORE TOMORROW

Gita Rayeva, danseuse, and her group of small pupils will present a varied program of numbers at the Broadway Department Store's auditorium, tomorrow at 10 a.m. The numbers will run the gamut from Christmas fairies to a fashion walk. Grace Cane, 10 years of age, one of Mlle. Rayeva's most promising pupils, will contribute some delightful features. In addition there will be a Punch and Judy show and the dancing finger dolls, who also will put on a program in the afternoon at 2 and 3:30 o'clock. The Merry Workers, who are making their headquarters in Toytown's Magic Castle at the Broadway, will be on hand at all performances to lend their aid. Admittance is free and there will be no tickets necessary.

MID-CONTINENT AIR EXPRESS

Every major commercial air line in the Western United States, entering to passenger transportation business, is included in this group—ALL use Richfield exclusively!

THESE great air lines depend on Richfield Gasoline to carry them safely through ever-changing flying conditions—through rain and snow, in blistering desert heat—jumping from sea level to hurdle mountain peaks at altitudes of more than 12,000 feet. Without exception, they have found the famous "Gasoline of Power" more than satisfactory in meeting the grueling demands of day-in and day-out flying service.

Western Air Express service, with its record of 99.6% performance, extends throughout the West and as far east as Kansas City while Maddux—another name prominently identified with aviation progress—operates on regular schedule throughout the Southwest with terminals at Los Angeles, San Francisco and Agua Caliente.

Transcontinental Air Transport—a national factor in the field of air transportation—is famous for the character of its equipment and personnel, its service facilities and its record performance. Standard Air Lines and Mid-Continent Air Express, operating throughout Western territory, are also doing their part in building the prestige of Western Aviation.

The same painstaking care used in producing a fuel to meet the exacting requirements of air service—where power, speed and dependability are absolutely vital—is employed in manufacturing the Richfield Gasoline offered you at every Richfield station. Richfield is noticeably better—a more satisfactory and efficient gasoline under all motoring conditions. Try it in your own car today.
